SUMMARY.

French detachments north of Bures and east of Moncel, in Lorraine, deeply penetrated the German lines on a wide front.

The operation was brilliantly carried out. The French took 525 prisoners, including 11 officers.

The British on Tuesday took over another considerable sector south of St. Quentin as far as the Oise River.

There is great air activity on the West. Shouville has been successfully re-attacked.

A ton of explosives was dropped on the factories and railway station of Pirmassens, in Germany.

It is believed that the German offensive will probably be between Lille and Cambrai.

Many trainloads of troops and guns have traversed Liege during the last few days westward.

The Under-Secretary to the War Office said the balance of men would soon be in favour of the enemy owing to reinforcements.

We must be prepared for a determined enemy offensive, he remarked.

Measures had been taken, and complete confidence prevailed. All ranks were convinced they would hold their own.

Mr. Baker (U.S.A.) says the Germans hope to deliver a crushing blow by massing shock troops, trained in mobile warfare.

Mr. Baker says that America's battleplanes are being sent to the West front four months earlier than was expected.

The headquarters staff is of opinion that if the northern advance continues, the fate of Petrograd will be decided in a fortnight.

The Petrograd authorities have ordered the demobilisation of the Russian army and navy to stop.

They have ordered the troops to resist the German advance. Preparations are being made to defend Petrograd.

As the Germans advance they are issuing proclamations urging that further resistance is futile.

The Germans, it is believed, are preparing an immediate attack on Reval.

The Bolsheviks, it is said, cannot resist. Their only hope is a propaganda to induce a revolt among the attacking troops.

The Russian Red Guards and soldiers are offering no opposition.

They are retiring, leaving ammunition and other supplies.

Enthusiasm prevailed in the Reichstag when Herr von Kuhlmann announced Russia's submission to peace terms.

The Socialists in the Austrian Reichsrath demand peace on the principles of President Wilson's speech.

Mr. Howell Gwynne, editor of the "Morning Post," and Colonel Repington have each been fined £100 for the Versailles article.

Counsel submitted extracts from German papers showing that the enemy was aware of the Versailles decision respecting reserves.

Washington experts announce that the average shipping available for the Allies is steadily increasing.

They predict that production will continue to increase until it nullifies the losses by U-boats.

The council of the Royal Agricultural Society does not consider there is any justification for closing the show on Good Friday.

The Commercial Travellers' president says Australia has never really tried what she could do in raising a war loan.

"The great bulk of the public has not hitherto been interested, and the new loan must be made everybody's business," he adds.

The State recruiting committees have been instructed to press on with the present recruiting methods, pending the new scheme.

The fresh methods, it is believed, will have no strikingly new features.

The Assembly sat until 4 a.m. yesterday, and passed the second reading of the Arbitration Amendment Bill, on a party division.

Mr. John Storey declared that when the Labour party stood for strikes as against arbitration he would leave the party.

The Interstate Commission has issued a drastic report, dealing with the price of meat in New South Wales.

Compared with before the war, the retail price of beef in Sydney, it says, had increased in March, 1917, by 61 per cent.

Evidence given at the Public Service inquiry, showed that the Government Printing Office was under-bid by private firms.

A German waiter was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for failing to report himself to the police.

The residents of Tamworth and district have presented the cost of a battleplane to the Imperial War Office.

The scheme for the amalgamation of the Federated Furnishing Trade Society with the Woodworkers has been rejected.

The strike of wool and basil workers at Botany has been declared off.

Mr. Justice Heydon has confirmed the registration of the Railways Permanent Way Association as an industrial union.

The wages of bricklayers and plasterers employed on the railways have been increased.

The Boilermakers' Union, while in favour of the shipbuilding scheme, is opposed to the terms of the agreement.

Letters were read at a meeting of the Red Cross Society from Major Edginton, Assistant Commissioner in Egypt.

He said it was difficult to forward anything but necessaries to Palestine.

Sheep in New South Wales have decreased from 46,202,578, in 1909, to 36,179,730, in 1917.

Cattle decreased from 3,027,727, in 1909, to 2,[illegible], in 1917.

Mr. E. H. Macartney, in outlining the policy of the Queensland National party, said the party proposed an elective Upper House.

The finances of Queensland, he declared, were in a more serious condition than was generally realised.

There was a very large and representative gathering at the Governor's levee yesterday.

Another death from the X disease has occurred in the Broken Hill hospital. Other patients are in a serious condition.

There have so far been six deaths in the Broken Hill Hospital from this unknown disease.

The train and tram services at Perth are being curtailed owing to the stoppage of coal supplies through the strike.

There is sufficient coal on hand to keep the city lighting going on some time.

Mr. Hughes and other Federal Ministers returned to Sydney from Newcastle last night.

The Prime Minister is satisfied that the Walsh Island works are splendidly adapted for shipbuilding.

Foster's Hotel, at Wanganui (N.Z.), has been totally destroyed by fire. An adjoining warehouse was considerably damaged.

The Auckland (N.Z.), City Council has passed a resolution urging the retention of that part of Samoa taken from Germany.

An active business was transacted in the mining division of the Stock Exchange yesterday.

The silver section attracted a fair amount of attention, and Barrier stocks in most cases changed hands at fair prices.

There was a strong demand for eggs, and prices advanced. Butter was plentiful, but bacon was scarce.

The real estate market was active during the week. The indoor sales were largely attended.

Forecast: Cloudy, with scattered showers, chiefly north of Sydney and parts of the highlands; some thunder in the north-eastern division; otherwise fine and cool generally.

"The Safix Miller arrived safely, and I have given it a good testing in all kinds of seas, and am perfectly satisfied. In a run out the other day the water was coming all over the little motor, but it only missed fire once, when my wet sleeve came in contact with the plug." (Name given.)
The SAFIX MILLER OUTBOARD MOTOR is 2½ h.p., speed 8 miles, weight 70lb, equipped with Dixie H.T. Magneto, and Reverse Propeller.
Booklet H tells of other trials made with the Safix Miller in heavy seas in open water, post free from A. J. DADSON and CO., Box 922, G.P.O., Sydney.

TIP-TOP TEA.

The fact that we are FAMILY GROCERS and TIP-TOP TEA MEN cannot TOO FREQUENTLY be ANNOUNCED. It concerns the PEOPLE what TEA they DRINK and WHAT PRICE they PAY for the SOOTHING SEDATIVE.

TEA lends itself to the ART of the SKILLED EXPERT to a GREATER EXTENT than probably any OTHER of NATURE'S PRODUCTS, and as we are in ALL things UP TO DATE it follows that the TEA MAN at the

NEW PALACE EMPORIUM

CONFORMS to the RIGID REQUIREMENTS demanded of the SUCCESSFUL TEA BLENDERS.

The SUCCESSFUL TEA MAN must be a man of singular DISCRETION and COSMOPOLITAN INSIGHT to GAUGE to a NICETY the POPULAR TASTE in TEA. Necessarily the demand for a MILD, INNOCENT TEA must be met, as well as a ROUGH, SHARP TEA. He must respond, too, with a tea with a DELICIOUS AROMA and FINE SYRUP FLAVOUR, a tea for the folk who abhor sugar and milk, and a tea for the AFTERNOON SIPPER.

The TEAS we OFFER are the FINEST that COME to AUSTRALIA, and are the CHOICEST to be found in the MARKET. The Elements of ECONOMY, of course, ENTER into TEA as well as into EVERYTHING else we SELL under the INFLUENCE of

ANTHONY HORDERNS'
FAMOUS LOW PRICES.

THE COME-TO-STAY PHOTOGRAPH.

Our latest creation is the greatest of all Photographs. The New Emblo Portrait has come to stay.

It carries all before it, and is better than all the best of the past.

It cannot be approached for ART, STYLE, or EFFECT.

It is chaste in design, harmonious in the blending of complementary tints, and is of distinctive merit. For Black and White Photos, it is a creation in Greys, while for Sepia Portraits it is a unique blending of buffs, creams, and biscuit tints. Each folder is eminently suited for the particular photo, enclosed therein.

It has a two-flap case enclosing a cut-out mount, delicately Indian tinted with dual tints on a plate mark. The photo, shows the mount with good effect. It is flexible, and will not crack or break in carriage.

NOW SEE THE PRICE.

Bromide Portraits (Engraving Black), beautiful and artistic, 15/6 per dozen, or True Sepia Portraits, 21/ per dozen.

This beautiful creation is worthy of the first place in any collection, it instantly appeals to the artistic taste.

The ruling fashion. If you do not see our window before going elsewhere you are sure to be sorry.

A BEAUTIFUL GIFT PICTURE.

The Emblo is an artistic portrait that will give equal pleasure to the one who gives it and to the one who receives it.

THE ON-VIEW PHOTO.

PALMER CORD TYRES.

PALMER CORD TYRES.

Motorists who get out on the rough roads would appreciate the tough tread of the Palmer Tyre. Moreover, they would profit by the economy; for these tyres give more miles per gallon, coast further, and do not "run hot," no matter what the speed.

It's the cord foundation that counts.

DORT CARS.

We are just opening up a shipment of the latest models of the DORT CARS, and can give immediate delivery of five-seaters. We are convinced that, value for money, there is no better car offering to-day. The chassis is well designed, engine four-cylinder (3¼ x 5), two-unit starter and lighting set. Weight is right—18cwt. The Car is well sprung (full cantilever). Body is comfortable and of smart appearance, and last, but not least, fuel consumption excellent. As proof of this, the DORT CAR won the CAMP CURRY ECONOMY CUP, covering 370 miles at the rate of 28 miles to the gallon. This result at first glance does not look out of the ordinary, but the feature of the test was that the route was up hill all the way, the cars climbing to 7000ft above sea level.

PRICE, fully equipped, £360.

THE CROW

IS THE IDEAL ROADSTER.

You like the modern, smart-looking Clover-leaf Bodied Cars you see running about to-day, don't you? Well, in the handsome CROW CAR we offer you this attractive body style built to a solid Chassis of carefully thought out design.

The Engine is powerful, 20-h.p., having 4 cylinders, with detachable head and half-compression taps. Electric Light and Self-starter are, of course, furnished, with Willard Battery, and the very pleasing and graceful appearance of the CROW CAR is completed by the addition of 5 Wire Detachable Wheels.

Economy of operation is assured with a Zenith Carburettor, and the springing of the car is perfect, due to careful design and a long wheel base.

You will like the pointed nickel Radiator, the smart-looking Hood; and the general finish, such as the paint work, etc., can only be compared with the highest-class English and Continental practice.

Write for explanatory Catalogue, or call and see us.

YOU WILL LIKE THE CROW.

The Romney Stud is second to none in Australia, and is specially noted for its constitution and trueness to type, and is largely descended from the continuous importations made during the last 20 to 30 years from the Old Country, largely from England's Premier Flock, the property of the late Charles File, of Elham.

The fact that Romneys are becoming every year more and more popular throughout Australasia is emphasised by the annual sale of Mr. Wm. Perry, of Fenrose, N.Z., on the 29th January last, when the first 20 Yearling Rams averaged 132 guineas, and the whole 70 80 guineas—both world's records.

The Romneys consist of 154 Stud Ewes, imported from England, or their progeny; 100 Stud Lambs of 1917 drop from above ewes; 78 Stud Ewes, lambed 1916, bred from above ewes; 250 Pure Flock Ewes; about 400 Pure Flock Lambs, 1917 drop; 18 Stud Rams, registered, including 2 Imported Rams and Progeny of imported sheep; 4 Flock Rams.

LONDON'S CHRISTMAS

LIGHTS AND SHADOWS OF WAR.

(BY ARTHUR MASON.)

LONDON, Dec. 27.

A strangely-chequered Christmas this, the fourth of our war-time—a Christmas of lights and shadows in alternate leapings and chasings of gaiety and gloom. There must be incalculable sadness in it for the hundreds of thousands of bereaved homes of this land, worse bereaved at Christmas, perhaps, than at any other season of remembrance. But it is not on that account unusual, for, as in the three burdened Christmas seasons that have preceded it, the sadness of this year is submerged within the throng and press of the Christmas shops and the Christmas crowds and the light and laughter of the Christmas streets, and other such survivals of the Christmas merrymaking as still avail for the suppression or the disguise or the forgetting of the black shadow of war and its attendant train of miseries. An abiding presence, for all that, the untold sadness of these countless homes, like a fluttering of heavy wings above and around us, unseen but never wholly silent, heard now and again indeed, startlingly clear and at the very heart of the festival and through all its sparkle of make-believe.

None of the depression, at all events, is to be set down to the Christmas weather of this year—the weather, at least, of London. For it has been the brisk and cheerful weather of winter at its best, with hard, dry, frosty days and brilliantly moonlit nights. Heavy falls of snow in the near country early in Christmas week, and a fog or two, threatened Christmas itself, but a timely thaw, and a breeze from the north, saved the situation, gave us for Christmas Day and Boxing Day almost the perfect winter weather, with crisp and tingling airs, a thinly clouded sky, broken by sunshine, and altogether such days as we learn to be thankful for where winter can be a terror of wind and rain and biting discomfort. Fireside weather all the same, so that in millions of London homes the hearths have roared into flame, though coal-warnings and coal-cards are all about us, and diminished cellars will be replenished only by grace of good fortune. Weather, too, in which, leaving the fireside for out of doors, we grumble as we meet, shivering, the first sip of the steely air, but in a few minutes of brisk walking are glad enough of the glow and lift of it. The Round Pond in Kensington Gardens and the wide stretch of the Serpentine in Hyde Park this week are sheets of ice. There are model yachts in the Round Pond, derelicts of the fleets that travel there, which failed to make port in time, and now lie as hard-bound as though these were Antarctic waters and they ships of adventure, gripped by the expected ice of wintering bays. And though the gulls swoop down upon the hard surface with the untroubled, graceful art of experts, the ducks, as yet, are bewildered, and have not learned to walk where they so often swam, and their slidings and slippings as they waddle precariously upon the frozen lakes are the joy of the unnumbered children walking these wintry airs of London's Christmas, rosy-cheeked and sparkling-eyed, and glowing with robust and ruddy health.

For the children, indeed, this Christmas has held much of the old gladness, for much of the old provision has been made for them. Moreover, it is they more than most who preserve to Christmas, though it be such a Christmas, its best and vividest illusions. So it is that the children's side of hundreds of London shops have in these days been filled, as they were filled in the old and happy days when Christmas was really Christmas, with vast and various offering, and purchasing of the Christmas treasures which children, untroubled by the terrific circumstances of war, love as well to-day and as wisely as ever. Because of that, no doubt, the children's Christmas theatres are as numerous and as inviting this year as any year, and are rewarded by the rush of children eager for the Drury Lane "Aladdin," or the irresistibly annual "Peter Pan," or "Blue Bell in Fairyland," or "The Happy Family," or any other of the appeals to the young imagination which in these days are having answer in the crowds of children besieging the Christmas matinees.

As to the shops, it may be said that, apart from the children, and in all their manifestations, they have put a brave face upon the matter, and, in truth, have roared under a Christmas patronage of almost that old immensity which made a marvel of London's normal Christmas. The curse of imminent air invasion has laid upon all shops alike the restriction that no window in London may show a light after half-past five. But in these days it is dusk at 4 o'clock, and dark at half-past. The Christmas shop windows thus have had an hour or two of opportunity for lighted display of themselves, which has allowed them to spread a dazzling array of invitation along the miles of London's shopping streets. It has served. The show has been as brilliant as ever, and the crowds within it seemingly as dense and as eager. It is in that respect of enemy threats by air, however, and in the matter of the shops, that the Christmas of this year is quite obviously not the normal Christmas. It is a moonlit Christmas, and in these times we take little pleasure in the moon. Air invasion has, we think, a better chance of developing to our hurt when the sky illumines this London and discloses it hidden behind its own darkened lamps. And so it comes about that all these days of Christmastide have been burdened by some or other anxiety lest any hour of them might loose upon us the disaster of bombs and fires. It is not a Christmas feeling. So far it has been no more than an unrealised expectation, but even as that it is no aid to the illusion, already hard to capture, of gaiety and festival.

In the matter of the shops, there are features which have made this Christmas the strangest we have ever known. For the first time within our knowledge the Christmas foods, the luxuries of eating and drinking which so assist towards the Christmas spirit, have been scarce and out of reach. It has been possible to strive after them, and with difficulty to grasp them. But unquestionably they have been elusive and coy. In many cases it is the price of them that has kept them at a distance. In many cases, to the distraction of housewives, they have not been available at all. Our hoardings are placarded with the warnings of the Food Controller against unnecessary feasting at Christmas. His harsh words were scarcely needed. Thousands of people have sought vainly, day after day, foods indispensable merely to the furnishing of the Christmas table. Christmas puddings and Christmas cakes, even, have not been eaten this year in thousands of homes, because they could be neither bought nor made. The queues of waiting applicants for homely needs such as the margarine, which is our only butter, and tea, and fruits, and spices, and sweets, reached such dimensions a week ago, and were the cause of such discomfort to the thousands of hungry poor who waited within them through hours of bitter cold, that drastic measures for ending the disgrace have been taken. The Food Controller has allowed his officials to commandeer the supplies of any shop before whose doors a queue assembled, and to distribute the spoil to all the shops in the locality. Thus are the queues disbanded; but a Christmas shortage of commodities, and Christmas queues, indeed, are new developments. They have distinguished this fourth Christmas of war-time both memorably and incredibly.

For the soldiers much has been done to make their Christmas as happy as such a season can be for men so placed. Their Christmas mails have gone to them in tons. The lack of Christmas pudding ingredients in England is due to the fact that this year, for the first time, Christmas puddings have been an Army issue, while in other regards of Christmas cheer the soldiers have been admirably served. Thousands of them are here on Christmas leave, and in that regard there are large numbers of our own men in London. Far enough from home, they yet are well cared for. All the Australian organisations concerned in the welfare of Australian soldiers have been full of work on their behalf, with result of Christmas teas and parties and dances and entertainments of many kinds, intended both for those who make holiday and those who lie in hospital wards. All these chances offered by Christmas and by those who work for the Christmas enjoyment of our men have been vigorously used, so that once again their friends at home who have wondered in what surroundings of strangeness or cheerlessness Australian soldiers spent this fourth Christmas of war-time, have reason for satisfaction and gratitude that for them as much as for any it has been made as nearly as possible a festivity.

A WOMAN'S LETTER.

Dress and Millinery.

LONDON W., Jan. 1.

You must not look for any startling novelties under this heading for another month or so. We carry on in furs, for the time being "the only wear."

Still, looking at the designs which are submitted through the medium of catalogues, one can get ideas, and in some way follow the trend of coming fashions. Women's clothes are very simple if you go to one of the best dressmakers or tailors. Simple as regards cut, but the price of cloths suitable for costumes and coat frocks leaps and bounds in an alarming manner. I was looking at a lovely length of velours a few days ago, wondering whether it would not be comfortable wear as a house sports coat. The price put it out of the question; it was 11s 9d a yard. And I saw other materials quite as costly. The serges are nothing like as good as we knew them, and dyes are uncertain. So many of us go on wearing what we have; it is "smart" to be a little shabby as regards these things. Men follow this rule, too, and order fewer and fewer suits. Khaki swallows up all the wool from our mills. If it were not for fur coats I do not know what women would do. It is in the little details of dress where we spend money. There are a number of ways of making jumpers and overdresses which make an old gown look quite smart. I think several jumpers and the long, straight kind of stole tunic, so fashionable in France, are great aids to economy. Jumpers of varying thicknesses are invaluable for wearing in the house over old skirts. Very often a skirt wants renovating at the hem, or it is a little passee, and has become rather shiny. Have it tidied up and well pressed, and then, supposing it is blue or black, have a green jumper made with tolerably long basques so as to hide the most worn portion of your skirt. The garment may be made with or without sleeves. You may have a blouse with sleeves which would look well under a sleeveless jumper. But I advise the sleeves being something in accordance with your skirt. The jumper blouse lends itself to the decoration of various kinds. Many women employ wool and work conventional designs suitable for dress trimming. You work right on to the material.

Blouses and Hats.

Of course the usual shirt blouse and the smarter ninon blouse still hold their own. I see very little change in their cut. Taking them all round, the square opening is not as popular as it was. The long line from neck to waist, with a collar turned back like a rever, is far better worn. You who are in the joy of white clothes will be indulging in lovely voile shirts and washing silk, with your white skirts and your dainty summer frocks.

Now and again I see rather sweet collars and fronts of pale voiles intended to introduce a touch of colour into a black or white shirt. In pale pink they are particularly delightful. You might make them in pale yellow and the ever-popular jade green—which shade of green always bring China into my mind, for it goes so well with rose pink. Jade green and Saxe blue have enjoyed a longer run of popularity than any colours I have known. The jade green velours hat seems the natural sequence to a fur coat, while Saxe blue is more worn with dark seal furs.

Hats remain untrimmed, and very high in the crown. Sometimes the crown is made both high and loose, if you know what I mean, and there are tiny cap-like toques which sit firmly on the head, with thick wreaths of berries and brown leaves or a ruche of hand-made roses, clematis, or some such wide-petalled flower.

Long, floating veils, with elaborate patterns on chenille or in gold and silver thread, are worn with the hard high hats, and lend a softening influence to them. I think one could make quite as pretty a veil as the bought ones by adding to a chenille spotted or clear mesh veil a border of fine black lace, and on it outlining the pattern with gold thread; or one could introduce colour by making little ribbon roses and leaves, with a few touches of gold to define the pattern. These veils, remember, are worn with the trimmed end upwards, so that a very severe hat gets a certain amount of relief thereby. From what I see you are at liberty to decorate your veil in any manner you wish, but as yet they are all in manufactories.

We are very short at this season of the year for real, natural flowers. Florists have their labour much curtailed in these days of diverting labour to war emergencies. Thus the artificial flower industry has grown to dimensions never dreamed of. The work done by the Mayfair Flower Guild, under the aegis of Marshall and Snelgrove—of which I have written at various times—is quite wonderful. So naturally modelled and so skilfully tinted are the blossoms that it is hard to realise that they are hand-made flowers. Everyone who can afford them uses these flowers on dinner tables and in drawing-rooms. It is a happy occupation for the girls employed, and it is astonishing how cleverly they have picked up what was considered work only to be done by the French.

Soldiers' Art Work.

I do not think I have ever done justice to the wonderful needlework done by the wounded soldiers. The many V.A.D. nurses in military hospitals have taken it as their particular job to teach the wounded to use a needle. The result is really marvellous. Men have sold sofa cushions for three and four guineas apiece, while the amount of chair backs, tablecloths turned out by them is stupendous. I was told by the manager of one of the largest embroidery sections in a well-known firm, that the war has been a God-send to the art needlework craft. Where she sold ten shillings' worth of traced materials, and the materials with which to work them, she sells parcels of ten pounds, and sends them to military hospitals all over the kingdom. It appears there is nothing so good for stiff or crippled fingers as using the needle.

Needlework and home life are the two greatest changes which our three and a half years of war have wrought on the nation. I hear there is even a vogue for reading aloud in family circles, and the discussion of the "prime cuts" of literature. Memoirs and books concerned with the war are more greedily read at this moment than fiction. It is so hard to be interested in a book that was begun when there was no whisper of war, and if the author so contrives to twist the turn of his narrative and bring the story up to date, one feels that it is but a device, and not the inherent outcome of the novel.

ALIENS PROSECUTED.

Before Mr. Love, S.M., at the Central Police Court, Alfred Shertzer (26), a German waiter, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment, with hard labour, for failing, as an enemy alien, to report himself at intervals to the police. It was stated in evidence that the defendant was employed at the Grosvenor Hotel, where he represented himself as a Dane. A further charge of having an official document in his possession without authority was dismissed.

Eugene Schumilow (26), a baker, on charges of having given Shertzer an official document, to which he was not entitled, and with having used the name of Eugene Curtis since the commencement of the war, was also heard.

The magistrate convicted Schumilow on both charges. The sentence on each charge was six months' imprisonment, with hard labour. "These sentences," said Mr. Love, "are cumulative."

FATHER CHARGED WITH POISONING.

Before Mr. Love, S.M., at the Central Police Court, yesterday, Peter Montserrott (23), described as a teacher, was charged with administering poison to his infant son, Peter Montserrott, so as to endanger the child's life.

Police Prosecutor Inspector Mitchell stated it was alleged that on February 12 the poison was administered while the mother of the five months' old child was preparing breakfast. The mother was out of the room at the time. Having been treated at the hospital, the child was now out of danger. As the Government Analyst had not completed his examination a remand was asked for.

Accused was remanded till Friday next on [illegible] bail.

PAPUA.

POSSIBILITIES AND PROSPECTS.

(BY THOS. J. McMAHON.)

The Governor of Papua, his Excellency Judge Murray, told the people of the Commonwealth, by way of the Commonwealth Press, that conditions in that remarkable island were now gone beyond the experimental stage. This fact is both impressive and beyond question, and shows that the time is ripe when Australian and British public attention should be sharply focussed upon Papua and its decided commercial advantages. Silently, successfully, and unproclaimed plantations of rubber, cocoanuts, sisal hemp, tobacco, and other much-needed tropical products have sprung into existence, and at present into fullness of bearing and profitableness. Not only English, but Australian, capital has been liberally and wisely invested in developing the resources of the island territory. There is no doubt that soon Papua will be recognised as one of the richest territorial assets of the British Empire, with its chiefest uses bound to Australia, and the great island world of the South Pacific. Whatever financial assistance has been rendered—and it has been less than meagre—by the Commonwealth authorities, in no way can they be credited with the prosperity that is settling into bloom at this season, though this success is only evident within the last 15 years—a coincidence since the date when the Commonwealth assumed control of Papuan affairs. To-day the local Government is offering—unasked—to return these moneys, and with the pride of youth entering upon manhood and responsibility, is shouldering its self-support, an indisputable evidence of its courage and knowledge of the possibilities it may fall back upon. How very praiseworthy this is can be judged after consideration of the rebuffs caused by the war and the interference in the first days of the war by the Federal authorities in staying the progress of the island by countermanding the short railway to the copper fields that would have been drawing men and money to the island, and would have been an asset of worth to the Allies in their present struggle.

There is a claim put forth by the authorities of Papua, a claim duly substantiated by present-day results, and a claim that makes a unique record, that no industry begun in Papua, after timely inquiry as to its ultimate success, and its success under similar conditions in similar countries, has resulted in failure. The Papuan Government, through its active Department of Agriculture, has placed the whole world under demand, and profiting by the delays and disasters of other Pacific islands has avoided those experiments, palpably destined to fail, and pursued consistently and untiringly those with promise. There are many excellent Government experiment stations scattered about the island, showing in the hundreds of plants under observation what is profitably productive, and what non-productive. Every division of the territory has been roughly explored and linked up into districts, with every detail given as to soil, rainfall, climate, and possibilities—a powerful assistance to future efforts.

Besides the investments by two British companies, some millions of capital have been invested by Australians. It is evident that within the last few years Papua has attracted men from the Commonwealth; and, what is still more evident, crowded steamers and gathering trade—though German New Guinea may be a factor contributing to this—are signs of how the industries of this island world are forging ahead. Papua is the largest insular possession in the tropics; it has an area of over 90,000 square miles, and it is estimated that out of the acreage contained in that mileage there is not one part of the island, however poor the class or appearance of the soil, however mean the rainfall, but can be used to advantage in favourable conditions for some tropical product. Even the dry, apparently infertile area around Port Moresby gives in plenty the best class of hemp now known to English markets.

The physical features of Papua are worth study. Its rivers, deep and permanent, and navigable, play an important part in the economic development of the territory. They are highways, many with excellent harbours. The Fly River, mighty in strength and size, has a course through rich country for over 700 miles; for 200 miles there is the influence of tides, and for over 500 miles there is a deep channel for fair-sized steamers. This river pours out to the sea a supply of water equal to 120 gallons a day to every inhabitant of this planet. The climate of Papua varies from the coastal heat—by no means over severe—to the cool, even cold, and bracing air of the tablelands of the great central mountains. In the Mafulu district, for instance, health can be recuperated in comfort. The whole of Papua is outside the hurricane range, which reaches other islands close by. These details all have a decided influence on the prospects and possibilities of the island, giving an impetus at once to capital and enterprise. The land laws of Papua are perhaps the most liberal in the southern hemisphere, with the terms of settlement extremely easy and seductive to small capitalists. Dealing in land direct with the native is, of course, prohibited, and speculation has no hopes.

The want of population has so far prevented any demand for general farming, yet here with the rich volcanic and varied soils of the lowlands, with evenly distributed rainfall, the prospects are of permanent importance. Add to this the tempting fruitful slopes, rich with perpetual verdure of the great mountains. These will some day glow with orchards of the temperate zone. Even now within the mission bounds old world fruits ripen into lusciousness. Oranges, for instance, cannot be surpassed, and lemons and limes grow wild. On these mountain tops, as in the deep, dark valleys below them, are forests of timber, valuable, numerous in kind, and unique in capabilities. Not so long ago a representative of one of the biggest timber companies of England and America reported so favourably of the prospects of the export of timber from Papua that an up-to-date sawmill plant was laid down at Galley Reach, near to the famous forests there, and is ready for the export that will be urgent after the war.

Sisal hemp is cultivated with success, and is flourishing in a most remarkable manner. In the southern States merchants have acknowledged its superior quality, and would be content to take thousands of tons more than they get now if it were possible—and the order holds good for the future. It is cheaply cultivated, and a sure market finder.

Along the 3000 miles coast line, amidst the virgin forests, rubber plantations are freely scattered, though but an infinitesimal number to what the future will disclose. A plantation of, say, 250 acres, properly cultivated, with roads and drains and cover crops, would, up to the time of profit—roundly, the sixth year—cost about £30 per acre, and yet often tapping begins in the fourth year, whereby the outlay is greatly reduced. There is also the asset that the Papuan native is acknowledged the neatest tapper in the tropic world. For the last few years rubber manufactured and sent from Papua, though limited in quantity, has taken top prices in the London market.

That most remunerative and reliable industry, the cultivation of cocoanuts, is not only extensively carried on all over the island, but the natives, from Government encouragement are, in their crude fashion, multiplying this useful tropical tree which yields so many commercial wants. Thousands of tons of copra are yearly taken away from Papuan shores, and it is only a question of time when Papua may be in the lead of the northern Pacific islands in supplying that product. Like rubber, this tree matures early in Papua—though not then always profitable. But once into line for profit it is an endless giver. Clearing, planting, and maintaining a plantation of, say, 500 acres, would for six years not be more than £15 per acre, and cocoanut pests are not troublesome.

Tobacco grown by the British New Guinea Development Co., Ltd., on its estate at Kaiea, not far from Port Moresby, is a valuable object-lesson as to the possibilities of this much-used plant, the growing of which under skilful management promises indisputably a most lucrative industry.

Where, perhaps, Papua will come rapidly to the front is in the hopeful possibilities of the oilfields at Vaiala. Indications of rich oil are spread over fields covering 1000 square miles. The question is whether the Federal Government will maintain all rights to work or give private enterprise an opportunity? There is no doubt the Federal Administration has encouraged this industry, and should it succeed the credit is due to Federal aid. The oil fields should, at the present time, be of incalculable value, with quick and amazing returns. Treated oil from Papua is even now under direct test, and the result will be awaited with eagerness.

The south-eastern portion of Papua, it is no idle prophecy, will in the near future be one vast stretch of waving sugar lands, with mills and appurtenances, that will out-rival North Queensland. Papua is the home of the strong, juicy cane most favoured in the northern State, and the cane that there is giving the best results all round. It is to be seen growing luxuriantly in the higgledy-piggledy of the native gardens, and in this careless fashion is perfectly free from any diseases, a noticeable fact worthy of attention. Sugar in Papua, with labour conditions there, must soon receive ample recognition, and the wonder is that already no earnest effort has been made.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

JOHN KEATS

It is rather curious that, although the genius of John Keats has been so universally recognised since his death, the world has had to wait almost a hundred years for an adequate biography. The nearest approach to one was Sir Sidney Colvin's monograph in the "Men of Letters" series, and the scope of this was necessarily limited. Sir Sidney Colvin has used it as the basis for a monumental "Life" which is likely to remain for long the last word on the poet's career and work. As a matter of fact, Keats is not a very satisfactory subject for biography. His life was tragically short, and was free from external incident; his adventures were those of the spirit. But the four years in which his poetry was written were crowded with intellectual activities and rich in literary friendships, of which Sir Sidney Colvin gives an intimate picture.

Contemporary critics jeered at Keats because he was an apothecary's apprentice, and the disparaging implication has survived. But there is nothing grotesque in the fact that a medical student should compose verse, and Keats was simply a medical student. At that time apprenticeship to an apothecary was part of the ordinary medical training. After he had finished his articles Keats entered Guy's as a surgeon's pupil, walked the hospital, and eventually was appointed dresser to one of the house surgeons. One of his teachers was Astley Cooper, the famous anatomist, who thought well of his capacity. Indeed, Keats passed his examinations with credit, performed with some dexterity the minor operations entrusted to him, and if he had stuck to his work might have become a successful surgeon. But his heart was not in it, and as soon as he became his own master he abandoned science for literature. He joined a circle that included the Bohemians of the day, as distinct from the official and "respectable" men of letters. His chief friends were Leigh Hunt and Haydon, the painter, both of whom borrowed unmercifully from his scanty patrimony; others were Charles Lamb, Hazlitt, Wells and Joseph Severn. Shelley also belonged to the circle, but their relations were never very intimate, because Keats, quite needlessly, was always on the watch for something that he could construe as a touch of aristocratic patronage on Shelley's part.

Leigh Hunt was his principal mentor, and his influence was both for good and for bad. It was good in that Leigh Hunt directed Keats's reading and tastes, opened new horizons to him (as when he introduced him to Chapman's Homer), and criticised his work sympathetically, but acutely. But it was unfortunate for a reason for which Leigh Hunt was hardly responsible; his mere association with Hunt prejudiced Keats in the eyes of the contemporary Panjandrums of letters. At this period literature and political opinion were bound up to an extent that is almost incredible to modern ideas. The great reviews which led critical thought were for the most part Conservative, and required that poetry should be conservative and conventional. If it contained anything that swerved from tradition it was anathema; if its writer happened to be a Liberal, he need not expect to have his work treated on its merits. Nor was such criticism merely hostile. It was informed with a savage scurrility that dredged the gutter for abusive terms. When Keats's first volume appeared nothing was known about him save that he had been apprenticed to an apothecary, and was a friend of Leigh Hunt. The latter consideration was quite enough for such organs as the "Quarterly," which fell upon him tooth and nail, and did their utmost to damn with bludgeoning criticism every successive book he published. Their blindness was extraordinary; indeed, it must have been intentional, for many of these reviewers were acute critics where their prejudices were not aroused. In a survey of the whole field of Keats's work, with an appreciative commentary on each poem, Sir Sidney Colvin reminds us of the singular uniformity of the heights his genius attained. He almost always maintained his level. His contemporaries—Wordsworth is the conspicuous example—wrote much, but frequently lapsed into dulness or banality. Their fame often depends upon judicious selection. Keats wrote little, "but that little was pure gold." His critics must have realised his genius, but preferred to indulge their spite at the expense of their critical reputation.

Sir Sidney Colvin has a good deal to say about the Fanny Brawne episode. He holds that posterity has done her an injustice. She is usually represented as a callous, frivolous girl, whose feelings were never engaged by Keats, although she accepted his attentions to gratify her vanity. But the evidence points to her sincerity. She was a lady of great personal attractions, not unendowed with the world's goods. She could always be sure of plenty of admirers. Why then, unless she had a genuine affection for him, should she agree to marry an unsuccessful minor poet, an invalid, with no prospects save those of his pen. Her grief on his death was not assumed. Another point on which Sir Sidney Colvin differs from accepted opinion is in his estimate of the effect which hostile criticism had in hastening his death. Byron expressed the contemporary view in saying that this fiery particle "was snuffed out by an article." Later theory, in championing Keats, went to the other extreme; he was far too sane and manly, it held, to take these attacks unduly to heart. Sir Sidney Colvin repeatedly mentions a certain duality in Keats's temperament. One part was sound, buoyant and healthy; the other, as a result, no doubt, of his malady, was sensitive, introspective, and easily depressed. He had, multiplied to a tenfold degree, the ordinary acuteness of a poet's feelings; what Matthew Arnold calls "the flint and iron" in his nature was not always uppermost. It was not merely a case of injured vanity, for the condemnation of the great reviews had no small power to bar the acceptance and check the sale of a poet's work. Sir Sidney Colvin holds that not the attacks themselves, "but their consequences did in their degree help to kill him. When a year or so later Keats began to realise the harm which these reviews had done and were doing to his material prospects, these consequences in his darker hours preyed on him severely, and conspired with the forces of disease and passion to his undoing." (Macmillan; Sydney Book Club.)

THE BROWN BRETHREN.

In "The Brown Brethren" Rifleman Patrick MacGill has written yet another volume of extraordinarily realistic impressions of the front and the men who are fighting there. He has taken a little group of mates in the London Irish. There is the sergeant, a keen soldier and a martinet on parade, but a good fellow off duty. There is Bendy Bowers, from the country, rather slow of wit, but mighty in thews and sinews. He can fight and drink with any man, but the sight of a woman throws him into an abject panic. In this he differs from Spudhole Bubb, whose instincts are frankly polygamous. Spudhole is a Cockney; what he is doing among the Irish no one knows or cares. He owes his nickname to a term spent in the military prison for trying to impose on a general—a highly dangerous game to play at. He is quick-brained, tough, and possessed of all the indomitable cheerfulness and courage of the Cockney. There are several other members of the group drawn in less detail, young Irishmen of various degrees of education and devilry. We follow them from Loos to the Somme and back again; by the time we leave them the roll-call is sadly reduced. Only three survive, one of them discharged from the army, permanently incapacitated, the rest, to use the euphemism of the London Irish, have been "unlucky."

The book consists of a series of detached episodes linked by the identity of the actors in them. Then we have a glimpse of a raid on the German lines, of the struggle to seize and hold the crater of an exploded mine, of the advance at the Somme when the tanks got bogged and the battalions attacking High Wood were mown down by machine-guns until the combined British artillery came to the rescue and blew the wood as high as its name. Some of these episodes have individual heroes. The astute Spudhole, for instance, snipes a sniper after a long duel of wits. Bendy Bowers patrolling in No-Man's-Land, has a Homeric fight with a German patrol, a professional wrestler; they forget all about the war and their weapons and everything else; they grapple with naked fists in their primitive passion for conflict. And there is plenty of humour in the book, humour of the broad sort which appeals most to these stalwarts. Bendy fries his potatoes in vaseline; his comrades tell him that vaseline is poisonous, and such is the psychological effect of their suggestion that Bendy, who at first feels better than he has ever done in his life, ends with a high temperature and a few days in hospital. Spudhole is having a swim in the Yser Canal when a shell blows his uniform into nothingness. Spud is no prude, but the prospect of having to walk "in the buff" through several villages to rejoin his regiment shocks even his sense of the fitness of things. The soldier that Mr. MacGill shows us is no plaster saint. He sings by choice not "Tipperary," but Rabelaisian songs which cannot be reprinted. When he is relieved from the trenches he goes straight to the estaminet, and if he does not get drunk, it is not seldom because he has not the money to do so. But he fights like the devil; he is loyal to his comrades and his country, he will never let them down in a tight corner; and in the end he takes "what is coming to him" without a whimper. (Jenkins; Dymock's.)

THE WIPERS TIMES.

"The Wipers Times" contains in facsimile reproductions of the longest lived and most ambitious in scope of all the French newspapers. Early in 1916 the Sherwood Foresters were holding part of the Ypres salient, and one enterprising spirit found part of an old printing plant in a ruined house off the square. The type was all over the countryside, and the office was frequently shelled by high explosive; but a sergeant was unearthed who was "by nature an optimist and in a previous existence a printer," and thus was "The Wipers Times and Salient News" established. It is an extremely cheerful journal considering the circumstances of its production. Not enough vowels to set more than a page at a time; proofs to be corrected under bombardment, plant sent skywards by a direct hit—these are some of the things that the editors urge in extenuation of any shortcomings. The paper has never been printed out of the front area; on one occasion the office was within 300 yards of the front line. It has accompanied the regiment as their station changed, and has been called in turn the "Wipers Times," the "New Church Times," the "Kemmel Times," and the "Somme Times." At last the censor stepped in and decreed that wherever this organ of opinion was published it should be known as the "B.E.F. Times." Its features resemble those of any other paper. There are letters by "Pro Bono Publico" and the like, complaining of the bad state of the roads, or the noise in the salient, which makes sleep at nights impossible. There are war notes and book notices, and quantities of advertisements of the following type:—"Has your boy a mechanical turn of mind? Yes! Then buy him a Flammenwerfer. Instructive, amusing, guaranteed absolutely harmless. Thousands have been sold." The only thing, in fact, that one fails to find in "The Wipers Times" is a serious word. (Jenkins.)

"THE MOVIES."

Mr. E. Hale Ball, author of "Cinema Plays, and How to Write Them," claims that the subject into the mysteries of which he initiates us is an art in itself; certainly it is a highly remunerative business, with a technique demanding an equipment in which the things of the intellect seem to be of small account, if any. The picture-playwright must always remember that he is appealing to the eye alone; he has not the assistance of speech with which to tell his story, or of the modulations and intonations of the voice, so important in the spoken drama. His characters must live their story; they must exhibit their emotions by expression and gesture. Consequently everything must be over-emphasised, and its effect heightened. The author can, of course, explain the progress of events by letterpress thrown on the screen, but this device he must use as sparingly as possible; it is not popular with the audience, and it is a confession of the weakness of his own constructive capacity. The best play written for the stage seems curiously flat and frigid on the screen unless it is lightened and "gingered up"—hence, although one often hears of great actors playing in the "movies," one never hears of great authors writing for the "movies." The conditions are too different, and a further element of perplexity for the dramatist is the confined space in which the action must take place—the smaller the stage the better the picture. But the picture playwright who knows his business, so far from being hampered by his medium, finds its limitations a positive advantage. His range of subjects is infinite. Should his invention fail, he can always turn a novel into a play. There are plenty of books admirably suited to the purpose, the copyright of which has expired; the novels of Sir Walter Scott, for instance, are a mine of picturesque plots. Here some knowledge of literature may help the picture playwright; it will, at any rate, save him from embarking on the hopeless task of trying to dramatise for the screen the works of Jane Austen and George Meredith. (Stanley Paul and Co.)

NEW NOVELS.

In "Son of Kazan" Mr. J. O. Curwood tells the story of a dog in whom mingled strains of ancestry strive for mastery. Baree's mother was a wolf, his father a dog; to his inheritance from both he owes much. From his mother's side comes the instinctive wood-lore, cunning and fierceness, that enable him to survive, a friendless puppy, wandering, lost in the forests of the North-west. From his father comes a vague yearning for human companionship that eventually tames him. Baree is at first nothing but a wolf; but the wolves will have none of him, and little by little he loses his savage traits and becomes the devoted slave of Nepeese, the French-Indian maid. He is a friend in need as well, for Nepeese is persecuted by the attentions of a brutal factor, with whom Baree wages a continual guerilla warfare, with many vicissitudes and final triumph. The late Jack London and others have dealt with a similar theme, but Mr. J. O. Curwood treats it with such freshness and such intimate knowledge of the wild that it has lost none of its novelty. (Cassell.)

"Her Wedding Night," by Mr. Max Pemberton, contains a number of stories more or less closely connected with the war. Some of them are frankly hilarious; the one, for instance, of the plausible Irishman who deceives everyone, including himself, manages to persuade the Admiralty to commission his "patrol boat," which is, in fact, a condemned French submarine of antique model, and finally sets off on his voyage to Kiel with youth at the prow, pleasure at the helm, a case of whisky in the cabin, a boon companion to act as the Watson for his Sherlock Holmes—everything, indeed, but a seaworthy craft and torpedoes. The torpedoes, as the mechanic observes, are not "in order," but "on order." His submarine submerges so successfully that its crew wonder if they will ever see the surface again. Some of the other stories have their setting behind the German lines, in the thickets of Alsace, on the peaks of the Vosges, where the wood lore of many a patriot under German misrule has helped many a refugee and many a stricken soldier to find his way back to his own cause. The longest and the best story is that which gives its title to the book. It is of an Englishman who makes his way into Brussels as an American journalist with Germanophile sympathies, and is courted and feted by the commandantur. He saves a girl from the consequences of the "crime" for which Nurse Cavell was murdered by marrying her, and giving her the status of an American citizen to the satisfaction of the various authorities. The irony of the situation is obvious; its sentimental embellishments are sufficiently indicated. (Jenkins.)

FURNISHING TRADE UNION.

A ballot has been taken of the members of the Federated Furnishing Trade Society of Australasia on the question of amalgamation with the Woodworkers. The result of the ballot was as follows:—For amalgamation, 812; against, 1034. The scheme was, therefore, rejected by a majority of 222.

JANUARY REVIEWS.

IN THE BALANCE.

Writing in the "Nineteenth Century," Dr. Arthur Shadwell remarks that the past year has been full of tremendous and terrible events, which have shaken mankind literally from China to Peru; and yet the issue still hangs in the balance. Nor is it possible to see any decided inclination of the scales. The two great events of the year were the entry of the United States into the war, and the Russian revolution; and these are the greatest events that have occurred since the outbreak of war. As far as the Eastern front is concerned, "the end is not yet, and German jubilation may prove as short-sighted as it has often proved before. In testing their theories, the Bolsheviks have also put the German Government on trial, and made them disclose their hand for the world to read." Dr. Shadwell is certain that the Russian people have not got rid of their hereditary autocracy in order to exchange it for a German one, or for a self-appointed terrorist autocracy under German patronage; and the Germans neither have reduced nor can reduce them to impotence. Moreover, the Japanese cannot stand passive and allow Russia to pass under German control; they must throw all their weight into the scale to prevent the triumph of Germany. The Cambrai breakdown, spoiling a great victory, and converting its termination into a heavy reverse, in conjunction with other recent events, should have a sobering effect on England. "You never know what the English are capable of until the time comes. They will go on playing the fool up to the last moment, but when they are right up against a sheer necessity, they will do more and stand more than any other people whatever. . . . The last step of the journey is hard, but it may not be so long as some suppose. German nerves will not stand another great disappointment, unless I am much mistaken."

THE GERMAN OCTOPUS.

Writing in the "Nineteenth Century," Mr. W. Morris Colles gave some startling facts regarding Germany's "underground diplomacy"—Boloism, as we call it now. In the January number he returns to the subject. He tells us, for instance, that Mathias Erzberger, who has throughout the war been in control of the propaganda office of the German Admiralty, has reduced chicanery to a science. All the buying agents of Germany in neutral countries, business men who already wielded immense commercial influence, were supplied with unlimited funds, which gave them the entree to all social circles. Armies of "neutral" agents and malcontents of every colour were, and are, formed into systematic contingents for service on a strategical plan in belligerent countries. It has been computed that £15,000,000 a year has been expended by Germany on propaganda during the war. Practically the whole German-Swiss press, except a few dailies at Zurich and Basel, is German-owned or German-bought. The peaceful penetration of Switzerland has, indeed, already reached the danger point. Mr. Colles says that Krupps are finding many millions of money to these German machinations. Krupps have interests "manned" by the picked men of the business world in almost every country. "They have their managers or agents in every centre or market of the raw materials required for armament and munitionment. They hold large patent and other rights in this country, and they have their agents here in our midst, of whom many, we do not doubt, have not only escaped internment, but remain an active source of mischief." And this is only a little bit of the story Mr. Colles tells. He even holds the Vatican up to the mirror.

AERIAL WARFARE.

In the "Fortnightly Review," Mr. Claude Grahame-White and Mr. Harry Harper write on "Aerial warfare—1918." Hitherto, they state, the weak point in regard to aerial bombardment has been that it has not been possible, owing to the shortage of suitable aeroplanes and of pilots to fly them, to carry out raids on anything like an adequate scale, or to repeat them with sufficient frequency. In the spring, with the increase of the speed and range of large bombing machines, we shall be able to do something even more drastic than the interruption of the enemy's supplies while they are on their way to the front, effective and disconcerting though this should be. What we shall be able to do, in addition, is to penetrate so far behind his lines, and strike so deeply in his home territory, that we can attack and destroy the actual factories in which his war munitions are being made. Such a power has never been wielded by a belligerent in any previous war; therefore the result to be obtained from air attacks, when they can be delivered vigorously and constantly against the very sources of the enemy's supply, may be found to be an importance which, at the present moment, it is almost impossible to calculate. In the early spring we shall have machines capable of long flights, at high speeds, even when loaded heavily with bombs; and once we can cripple and demoralise the flying forces of the enemy, it should become possible to make life intolerable, not only for the enemy's troops in the field, but also for the great mass of workers in Germany's munition centres.

HOHENZOLLERNS VERSUS HAPSBURGS.

It is not generally realised, says "Fabricius," a frequent contributor to the "Fortnightly," that Prussia, which now dominates Austria-Hungary, has been created by the Hapsburgs, and that for centuries the Hohenzollerns have shown the blackest ingratitude to their benefactors, and have been Austria's most implacable enemies. He proceeds to give an account of the relations between the two dynasties, with extracts from many interesting documents, most of which are unknown to English readers. At present Berlin rules Vienna, but there may says this well-informed writer, be a dramatic turn of the wheel of fortune, and Austria may once more recover her old predominance in Germany. "Prusso-Germany has waxed great at Austria's expense. For centuries she has persistently pursued a policy hostile to Austria. The present war may result in Austria's disappearance as an independent State. The Dual Monarchy may become a German vassal, unless, indeed, the Habsburgs should make a separate peace with the Allies, stipulating that for the Slavonic, Italian, and Roumanian territories, which they are bound to lose in accordance with the Allies' declaration of policy, they should be given Silesia and the South German States as compensation. Silesia was Austrian until 1740, and the South German States followed Austria's lead until 1866. If the war should bring about such a rearrangement, Austria might once more become the predominant Power in Germany, and Prussia would lose what she has won during centuries. The Emperor Karl of Austria may conceivably revenge himself upon Frederick William I. and Frederick the Great."

SIR OLIVER LODGE AND THE CHURCH.

Sir Oliver Lodge, the eminent scientist, whose excursions into the realm of psychic phenomena are well known, has an article on "Facts versus Dogma," in the "Nineteenth Century," in which he makes an appeal to the Christian Church to take a reasonable and opened-minded view of certain phenomena, more or less associated with supernaturalism, which are being inevitably forced on their notice. "We cannot restore the dead to earthly life," he writes, "but we can prove that they themselves are still 'living,' in some sense not fully formulable at present, but so that their individuality and their affection and their character persist; and with difficulty and caution we can hold converse with some of them for an hour at a time—to the great comfort and happiness of those on both sides of the veil. Will any High Priests of the Christian Church set their face against this kindly possibility and denounce it as devilish, or as forbidden sorcery? If they persist in doing so, it will be at the peril not of themselves, but of the Church which they hold dear. . . . It is no rebuke that I intend, but only an appeal. If I were thinking of myself I would put my hand upon my mouth and be silent. But each one of us has only a short time here, and each must be held responsible if a sense of his own unworthiness makes him a traitor to the truth."

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

The writer of "A Woman's Letter," under date London, January 1, remarks:—Since I described the November productions, I have sent no word of the London theatres. Just now, at and after the Christmas vacation, there have been sundry revivals of plays suitable for holiday children. Drury Lane goes strong with "Aladdin," with Madge Titheradge as the hero, and Stanley Lupino as the Widow Twankey. "Charley's Aunt" is at St. James's Theatre for the holidays. "The Private Secretary" is at the Savoy, and there are daily matinees of "Alice in Wonderland," with Hayden Coffin as the Mad Hatter, and playing him with much feeling and skill. All the good pieces still hold their own. "Chu Chin Chow" must have proved a goldmine for Mr. Oscar Asche, and there is a talk that His Majesty's Theatre, which is running under Mr. Asche's management, may be purchased by a syndicate. While "Chu Chin Chow" continues to draw the immense audiences that have thronged the theatre for so long there will be no change of hands, at least so rumour says. The fate of St. James's Theatre, another old-established management, is doubtful; Sir George Alexander is still too ill to think of returning to his theatre. It should pass, if it does pass, into the hands of those who cater, as Sir George always has done, for the more refined and smart section of theatre-goers. There is no doubt that playhouses of this calibre require a manager who can also play "host." Many a play has been saved by the fact that people will go to this or that house where they know the manager as one who is himself in society. Men like Sir Henry Irving, Sir Herbert Tree, and Sir George Alexander are cases in point. And per contra many a play which might have blossomed into success has been frost-bound on its birth through the theatre in which it was produced not having a host. The Haymarket Theatre still further illustrates this fact. People always flock there and support the pieces produced by Mr. Frederick Harrison, as they did when Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Maude were playing there. Thus "General Post" holds the boards, and draws fine houses still. So does "Dear Brutus" at Wyndham's, chiefly because neither Sir J. M. Barrie nor Mr. Gerald Du Maurier can do wrong. "Pamela," lately put on at The Palace by Mr. Alfred Butt, is a dream of saintliness, and the touch of its old-time author, Richardson, from whose novel the musical play was taken, is apparent.

In addition to a season about the end of next month, in which Guy Bates Post will star in the dual role of "The Masquerader," with its magical changes between two contrasted characters, Messrs. J. and N. Tait are bringing out a new actress of reputation from America for the role of "De Luxe Annie." This new play, by Edward Clarke, in which the heroine's pursuit of criminals leads to a number of sensational and amusing situations, will be produced early in April, with Emilie Polini in the name-part. This actress was engaged in New York by Mr. E. J. Tait, by reason of the personal magnetism she is said to throw into the strange character. "Polini," it may be added, is a well-known stage name, and the new actress probably belongs to the same family as "Marie" Polini. The latter is an English artist who supported Marie Tempest in the important role of Madame de Semiano in "The Marriage of Kitty," at the Duke of York's Theatre in 1911, and three years ago succeeded Gladys Cooper as Dora in "Diplomacy" at Wyndham's. This lady is married to the well-known London actor, Owen Nares, who played Julian Beauclerc in the last-named revival. Marie Polini has lately appeared in the United States, and there may be some confusion in the Christian name, and, if so, it will be cleared up by later advices.

Lawrence Godfrey Smith, a Leschetizky-trained pianist of this city, who has been sadly missed in Sydney concert rooms since he left for the front, writes from the Cheshire Military Hospital, under date December 17: "I am convalescing at Eaton Hall, the Duke of Westminster's place (wherein may be noted an unconscious abbreviation of the word 'palace'!), which has been turned into a hospital with 200 beds. Last time I was wounded, on October 1, at Ypres, I got a nasty crack on the head, which laid me low for many weeks. Now, after an operation, I hope I shall be none the worse. The usual monotony of hospital life is removed by the frequent visits to her husband, also a patient, of a very charming Welsh singer who has a wonderful collection of folk-songs, and especially Welsh ones, so that my services are in request, and at times there is quite an orgy of sweet music!"

Our London correspondent writes, under date December 28: "Miss Rene Maxwell, the young Sydney singer, gave her first London recital recently at the Aeolian Hall. A large audience assembled for the debut, and an interesting programme of many numbers in various styles, including Mr. Landon Ronald's setting of Blake's "Songs of Innocence," with the composer at the piano, was most cordially received. Miss Maxwell's voice is now one of much beauty, and this lengthy test of her singing powers revealed her as possessing admirable qualities, temperamental and other. A noticeable unsteadiness of tone was the only defect that might fairly be urged against the young artist. It is to be hoped that she will master that in time. She has certainly mastered many of the technical difficulties of singing, and the exceptional warmth and charm of the voice itself promise a successful career for yet another Australian singer.

An interesting paragraph comes from the London "Daily Telegraph":—"Ambrose Manning lost his voice on tour, and could not appear in Bairnsfather's 'The Better 'Ole.' Henry Wenman, from the original cast at the Oxford, was sent along, and had an enthusiastic reception from the vast audience. His delightful drollery, his rich humour, and his extraordinarily lifelike study was as fine a piece of comedy acting as has been seen here for many a day." Mr. Wenman is a brother of Charles A. Wenman, associate director of J. C. Williamson, Limited. Ambrose Manning was the Father Christmas here in Wilson Barrett's production of "The Silver King," and years later visited Australia for the role of Tom Lambert in the racing drama, "The Whip" (1911), a character he also created for New York.

The popularity of the "movies" has sounded some note of progress in Australian townships in those rare instances in which the moving show has been utilised as the handmaid of music. Almost the first of the managers to realise the potentialities of concert tours in alliance with a brief supplementary picture show were Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Kennedy. They toured this State, Victoria, and Queensland with the budding artists of their family seven or eight years ago with such success that they journeyed from Cooktown to Singapore and the Malay States, visited India, and travelled continuously for about two years. Starting on February 25 at Singleton, Mr. S. R. Kennedy has now mapped out another tour, which will include the northern towns of this State to Glen Innes, and embrace Queensland right up to Thursday Island. This party will be headed by Keith Kennedy (violinist), and will include Mme. Bertha Kennedy (pianist), Mylor Burge (soprano), Florence Warren (contralto), Beatrice Ireland (soubrette), and Ad. Cree (Scottish singer and humorist), and should prove an effective combination. Lawrie and Lance Kennedy ('cello and flute) are engaged in New Zealand at the Fuller theatres.

Mr. C. A. Rolfe, the Sydney baritone who terminated his theatrical career in the United States by joining the 198th Canadian Artillery Battery, reached England with a Canadian division nearly a year ago. He sends New Year greetings "to all Sydney friends" from Witley Camp, in Surrey, remarking that his battery has had a deal more training, and it is supposed that the whole division will move forward to the front at any time. Corporal Rolfe, who is a native of Cooma (New South Wales), considers the country round the camp towards Godalming the prettiest he has ever seen.

The news of this second mysterious death flew round Highmarket and the neighbourhood like wild-fire. Brereton heard of it during the afternoon, and having some business in the town in connection with Harborough's defence, he looked in at the police station and found the superintendent in an unusually grave and glum mood.

"This sort of thing's getting beyond me, Mr. Brereton," he said in a whisper. "Whether it is that I'm not used to such things—thank God! we've had little experience of violence in this place in my time—or what it is, but I've got it into my head that this poor young fellow's death's connected in some way with Kitely's affair! I have, indeed, sir!—it's been bothering me all the afternoon. For all the doctors—there's been several of 'em in during the last two hours—are absolutely agreed that Stoner was felled, sir—felled by a savage blow, and they say he may ha' been dead before ever he fell over that quarry edge. Mr. Brereton—I misdoubt it's another murder."

"Have you anything to go on?" asked Brereton. "Had anybody any motive? Was there any love affair—jealousy, you know—anything of that sort?"

"No, I'm sure there wasn't," replied the superintendent. "The whole town and country's ringing with the news, and I should ha' heard something by now. And it wasn't robbery—not that he'd much on him, poor fellow! There's all he had," he went on, opening a drawer. "You can look at 'em, if you like."

He left the room just then, and Brereton, disregarding the cheap watch and chain and the pigskin purse with its light load, opened Stoner's pocketbook. There was not much in that, either—a letter or two, some receipted bills, a couple of much creased copies of the reward bill, some cuttings from newspapers. He turned from these to the pocketbook itself, and on the last written page he found an entry which made him start. For there again were the initials!

"M. and C.—fraud—bldg. soc.—Wilchester Assi co—81—"£2000—money never recovered—2 yrs.—K. pres."

Not much; but Brereton hastily copied that entry. And he had just written the last word when the superintendent came back to the room with a man who was in railway uniform.

"Come in here," the superintendent was saying. "You can tell me what it is before this gentleman. Some news from High Gill Junction, Mr. Brereton," he went on, "about something about Stoner. Well, my lad, what is it?"

"The stationmaster sent me over on his bicycle," replied the visitor. "We heard over there this afternoon about Stoner's body being found, and that you were thinking he must have fallen over into the quarry in the darkness. And we know over yonder that that's not likely."

"Aye?" said the superintendent. "Well, as a matter of fact, my lad, we weren't thinking that; but no doubt that rumour's got out. Now why do you railway folks know it isn't likely?"

"That's what I've come to tell," answered the man, a sharp, intelligent looking fellow. "I'm ticket-collector over there, as you know, sir. Now, young Stoner came to the junction on Saturday afternoon and booked for Darlington, and, of course, went to Darlington. He came back yesterday afternoon—Sunday—by the train that gets to our junction at 3.2. I took his ticket. Instead of going out of the station by the ordinary way, he got over the fence on the down line side, saying to me that he'd take a straight cut across the moor to Highmarket. I saw him going Highmarket way for some distance. And he'd be at Hobwick Quarry by 4.30 at the latest—long before darkness."

"Just about sunset, as a matter of fact," remarked the superintendent. "The sun sets about 4.15."

"So he couldn't have fallen over in the darkness," continued the ticket-collector. "If all had gone well with him, he'd have been down in Highmarket here by dusk."

"I'm obliged to you," said the superintendent. "It's worth knowing, of course. Came from Darlington, eh? Was he alone?"

"Quite alone, sir."

"You didn't see anybody else going that way across the moors, did you? Didn't notice anybody following him?"

"No," replied the ticket-collector with decision. "Me and one of my mates watched him a long way, and I'll swear there was no one near him till he was out of sight. We didn't watch him on purpose, neither. When the down-train had gone, me and my mate sat down to smoke our pipes, and from where we were we could see right across the moors in this direction. We saw Stoner—now and then, you understand—right away to Chat Bank."

"You didn't notice any suspicious characters come to your station that afternoon or evening?" asked the superintendent.

The ticket-collector replied that nothing of that sort had been seen, and he presently went away. And Brereton, after an unimportant word or two, went away too, certain by that time that the death of Stoner had some sinister connection with the murder of Kitely.

CHAPTER XVIII.
THE SCRAP BOOK.

Brereton went back to his friend's house more puzzled than ever by the similarity of the entries in Kitely's memoranda and in Stoner's pocket-book. Bent had gone over to Norcaster that afternoon on business, and was not to be home until late in the evening. Brereton accordingly dined alone, and had ample time to reflect and to think. The reflecting and the thinking largely took the form of speculating—on the fact that certain terms and figures which had been set down by Kitely had also been set down by Stoner. There were the initials—M. and C. There was a date—if it was a date—81. What in Kitely's memorandum the initials S.B. might mean, it was useless to guess at. His memorandum, indeed, was as cryptic as an Egyptian hieroglyph. But Stoner's memorandum was fuller, more explicit. The M. and C. of the Kitely entry had been expanded to Mallows and Chidforth. The entry "fraud" and the other entries "Wilchester Assizes" and the supplementary words, clearly implied that two men named Mallows and Chidforth were prosecuted at Wilchester Assizes in the year 1881 for fraud, that a sum of £2000 was involved, which was never recovered, that Mallows and Chidforth, whoever they were, were convicted and were sentenced to two years' imprisonment. So much for Stoner's memorandum. But did it refer to the same event to which Kitely made reference in his memorandum? It seemed highly probable that it did. It seemed highly probable, too, that the M. and C. of Kitely's entry were the Mallows and Chidforth of Stoner's. And now the problem narrowed to one most serious and crucial point—were the Mallows and Chidforth of these references the Mallalieu and Cotherstone of Highmarket.

Speculating on this possibility Brereton went after his solitary dinner into Bent's smoking-room, and throwing himself into a chair before the fire lighted his pipe and proceeded to think things out. It was abundantly clear to him by that time that Kitely and Stoner had been in possession of a secret; it seemed certain that both had been murdered by some person who desired to silence them. There was no possible doubt as to Kitely's murder; from what Brereton had heard that afternoon there seemed to be just as little doubt that Stoner had also been murdered. He had heard what the local medical men had to say—one and all agreed that though the clerk had received injuries in his fall which would produce almost instantaneous death he had received a mortal blow before he fell. Who struck that blow? Everything seemed to point to the fact that the man who struck it was the man who strangled Kitely—a man of great muscular power.

Glancing around the room as he sat in a big easy chair, his hands behind his head, Brereton's eyes fell suddenly on Kitely's legacy to Windle Bent. The queer-looking old volume which, because of its black calf binding and brass clasp, might easily have been taken for a prayer-book, lay just where Bent had set it down on his desk when Christopher Pett formally handed it over—so far as Brereton knew Bent up to now had never even opened it. And it was with no particular motive that Brereton now reached out and picked it up, and unsnapping the clasp began idly to turn over the leaves on which the old detective had pasted cuttings from newspapers and made entries in his crabbed handwriting. Brereton believed that he was idly handling what Pett had jocosely described the book to be—a mere scrap-book. It never entered his head that he held in his hands almost the whole solution of the mystery which was puzzling him.

No man knows how inspiration comes to him, and Brereton never knew how it was that suddenly, in the flash of an eye, in the swiftness of thought, he knew that he had found what he wanted. Suggestion might have had something to do with it. Kitely had written the work "scrapbook" on the first blank page. Afterwards, at the tops of the pages he had filled in dates in big figures—for reference—1875—1879—1887—an so on. And Brereton suddenly saw, and understood, and realised. The cryptic entry in Kitely's pocket-book became plain as the plainest print.

M. and C. v. S.B. cir. 81:—Brereton could amplify that now. Kitely, like all men who dabble in antiquarian pursuits, knew a bit of Latin, and naturally made an occasional airing of his knowledge. The full entry, of course, meant M. and C. vide (=see Scrap Book circa) (=about) 1881.

LAW REPORT.

IN BANCO.

(Before Sir William Cullen, Mr. Justice Gordon, and Mr. Justice Ferguson.)

ALLEGED MISLEADING AFFIDAVIT.
SOLICITOR CENSURED.

The hearing was concluded of the case in which John Stuart Thom, a Sydney solicitor, was called upon to answer a report of the Prothonotary as to his action in preparing an affidavit which was alleged to be misleading.

Mr. Leverrier, K.C., and Mr. Maxwell (instructed by Messrs. J. Stuart Thom and Co.), appeared for the respondent.

Mr. H. E. Manning, who (instructed by Mr. T. Mitchell) appeared for the Incorporated Law Institute, said that the institute had gone through the material before it, and had arrived at the conclusion that the conduct of the respondent, in preparing the affidavit, was reprehensible. The explanation of the matter was the strongest feature against the respondent.

In delivering judgment, the Chief Justice said that, in this matter, the Court was of opinion that the conduct of the solicitor in the preparation of the affidavit was deserving of censure, although the Court was not satisfied that the extreme gravity of the matter had ever presented itself to the respondent's mind. The practice of stating in an affidavit that the deponent did not admit a charge which the deponent knew was a true charge, was very reprehensible. In the case of pleadings in the Equity jurisdiction, the use of the phrase "I do not admit" was a common practice, but there peculiar rules prevailed, which made it necessary either to deny or admit matters set out in the statement of claim. But in the statement contained in an affidavit the expression, "I do not admit" could only be treated in the nature of information on facts, and not as a pleading. But as the practice seemed to have crept in the Court could not attach any sinister aspect to the matter, unless other parts of the affidavit were open to similar remarks. The mischief done by this particular affidavit was that the meaning conveyed to the Court was that the whole charge of misconduct was unfounded. The affidavit which the deponent was meeting stated that she was living an unchaste life at the present time. As a matter of fact, she was not then living unchastely, as she had married the man with whom she had been living. It was proper that the deponent should deny the charge made against her of living an unchaste life at the present time. Unfortunately, added his Honor, the reason given to the Judge indicated that there was a conscious withholding of information, which the tribunal in such a case would desire to know, in order to do justice to all parties. For these reasons the preparation of the affidavit in this form, and the reasons for which it was done were open to grave censure. It was proper on such an occasion as this, for the Court to express condemnation of any casuistical paltering with the exact truth of the case.

"In this particular case," concluded his Honor, "as I am not by any means satisfied that the gravity of what was done in this instance was present to the mind of the solicitor concerned, I think nothing further is called for than to express the disapproval which I have mentioned. I think, also, that the solicitor should pay the costs of the Law Institute."

Mr. Justice Gordon and Mr. Justice Ferguson concurred.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

(Before the Registrar.)

CREDITORS' PETITIONS.

Re Louis Sellick, ex-parte Paton, Burns, and Company, and Gibbs, Bright, and Company. Mr. Bender appeared for the petitioning creditors. Adjourned to March 8.

INDUSTRIAL ARBITRATION COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Heydon.)

REGISTRATION GRANTED.

His Honor confirmed the registration of the New South Wales Government Railways Permanent Way Association as an industrial union. Registration of this body was granted on December 20 last, subject to objections being heard from the Surveyors' Labourers' Union, and of the A.W.U., which bodies were apprehensive that the new registration would cause an invasion of their rights. The objections were heard yesterday, and dismissed, and the registration confirmed. Mr. Armstrong (instructed by Mr. A. C. Roberts) for the Surveyors Labourers' Union and the A.W.U.; and Mr. N. G. M'William for the new union.

(Before Judge Rolin.)

INCREASE IN WAGES.

Application was made by the United Operative Bricklayers' Society of New South Wales and by the Operative Plasterers' Association for variation of the award of the Government Railways, Groups No. 5 (Carpenters') Board. The application dealt with the rates to be paid to bricklayers and plasterers in the employment of the New South Wales Railway Commissioners. His Honor granted the applications in so far as wages were concerned, amending the award by increasing the pay of bricklayers from 13s to 14s, and in the case of special work, from 14s to 14s 8d. The same variations were made with respect to plasterers. Mr. Heswood, for the applicant unions, and Mr. Bretnall, for the New South Wales Railway Commissioners.

CRIMINAL APPEAL COURT.

(Before Sir William Cullen, C.J., Mr. Justice Pring, and Mr. Justice Gordon.)

REX v PULSKI.

William Pulski, a Russian, applied for leave to appeal against his conviction and sentence on a charge of assault occasioning actual bodily harm. The case was tried at the Newcastle Quarter Sessions on December 4 last, by Judge Fitzhardinge, who sentenced Pulski to 18 months' imprisonment. The grounds of the appeal were: Not guilty; that the sentence was too severe; and that the appellant could not speak English properly. The Court dismissed the appeal. Mr. C. A. White appeared for the Crown.

CONVICTION QUASHED.

Rex v F. Hendricks.
Rex v W. Hendricks.

Mr. E. R. Abigail appeared for Frederick Hendricks and William Hendricks, in support of their appeals against their convictions before Judge Backhouse, at the Quarter Sessions, Sydney, on a charge of stealing, each of the appellants being sentenced to two years' imprisonment, with hard labour. Mr. C. A. White appeared for the Crown. The grounds of the appeals were:—1. That only circumstantial evidence had been adduced against the appellants at the close of the Crown case, and that this evidence did not exclude other reasonable hypothesis than their guilt. 2. That the circumstantial evidence did not point to them as the only persons who could have committed the offence. 3. That the Crown Prosecutor was in error in commenting to the jury on the fact that the accused had made statements from the dock, and not given evidence; the words used being, "The accused have made statements only, and cannot be asked any questions."

The Court quashed the convictions, holding that the evidence given in the cases, being purely circumstantial, would have required, according to the ordinary rule, that it left open no reasonable hypothesis consistent with the innocence of the accused. Consequently it was impossible to say that there were not reasonable deductions to be made consistent with the innocence of the accused.

REX v FARQUHARSON.

Gordon Lindsay Farquharson appealed against his conviction and sentence on charges of larceny (two counts), and stealing in a dwelling. The case was tried at the Sydney Quarter Sessions on November 12 last, and the accused was sentenced to five years' imprisonment on each charge, the sentences being concurrent. The grounds of the appeal were: (1) That the Judge was prejudiced by the fact that mistaken statements were made by detectives to the effect that the accused had posed as a returned soldier, and also as a single man. Mr. C. A. White appeared for the Crown.

The Court refused leave to appeal.

DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Judge Backhouse.)

ACTION FOR DOGBITE.

Plaintiff alleged that defendant was a customer of the firm by whom he was employed, and in the ordinary course of business he called to deliver to defendant a block of ice that had been ordered. The dog, he alleged, flew at him, and tried to bite him in the face, but he defended himself with the block of ice. The dog then bit him on the leg. Plaintiff produced medical evidence that as a consequence of the injury he was unable to carry on his duties for five weeks. The defendant paid £5 into court as sufficient damages, and pleaded that the plaintiff had provoked the dog to attack him. His Honor returned a verdict for plaintiff for £31, including the £5 paid into court.

Mr. M'Tiernan, instructed by Mr. H. E. M'Intosh, appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Mack, instructed by Mr. J. W. Maund, for the defendant.

A WAR-TIME GUARANTEE.

Mr. Bignold, instructed by Mr. R. A. Monro King, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Perry, instructed by Mr. E. G. M. Coben, for the defendant, in an action, in which Madeline Winifred Healey, wife of Arthur Healey, of 139 Edgecliff-road, Woollahra, sued Perce Pilcher, bookmaker, of Allison-road, Kensington, for the recovery of £28/16/.

The plaintiff alleged that her husband was employed as a clerk by the defendant, and that defendant persuaded him in 1915 to enlist for war service, and guaranteed that he would pay to plaintiff £1 per week. Her husband enlisted in 1915, and defendant kept up the payments from November 24, 1915, until February 6, 1917, when he reduced the amount to 10s per week, which he continued to pay until October, 1917, when he stopped payment. Plaintiff sued for the difference between £1 per week, from February, 1917, to the commencement of action.

Defendant pleaded that the guarantee was a voluntary patriotic gift, that there was no legal agreement binding on him, and that whatever agreement was made was to continue only as long as his means allowed him to make the payments.

The case was adjourned for the production of further evidence.

LAND APPEAL COURT.

(Before Messrs. H. A. G. Curry, President and W. Houston, C.M.G., and C. E. Ronnie.)

The Minister for Lands submitted a reference for determination of the capital value of Ernest John Blackman's homestead farm No. 1915-15, Dunedoo Central. Mr. Hanbury Davies appeared for the Minister, and Mr. Pike (instructed by Mr. J. Dowd, of Gulgong) for the respondent. The Court reserved its decision.

The reference for decision in respect of an application by John James Grady for appraisement of the capital value of his Crown lease No. 1916-2, Coonamble, by the Minister for Lands was withdrawn, and the case was struck out of the list. Mr. Hanbury Davies appeared for the Minister, and Mr. Pike (instructed by Mr. J. D. Y. Button, of Coonamble) for the respondent.

C. J. Vyner appealed against the decision of local land board in respect of his claim against the trustees of the estate of the late J. S. Vickery for a contribution towards the cost of erection of rabbit-netting fencing on the boundary common to his settlement lease No. 1908-1, Walcha, and their portions Nos. 3, 1, and 5, parish of Kangaroo Flat, county of Vernon, land district of Walcha. The appeal was dismissed. The Court awarded £3 3s costs to the respondent, for which the deposit lodged with the notice of appeal is to be made available. Appellant's deposit was ordered to be refunded.

STRIKERS RESUME WORK.

The strike of wool and basil workers at the yards of Mr. Sidney Moore, wool-scourer, Botany, has been declared off.

On inquiries being made at the firm's works yesterday, it was stated that the men had resumed operations that morning.

MINING TRANSACTION.

The hearing of the charge, in which Thomas Austin Craven, 53, is charged with obtaining by false pretences the sum of £200 from George Edward Richardson, on October 8, with intent to defraud, was continued before Mr. Burton Smith, S.M., at the Water Police Court on Thursday.

Mr. E. Cantor appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. W. D. M'Mahon for the defence.

Giving evidence, the accused said that he had been connected with mining all his life, and had floated several successful mining companies. He stated that he purchased the mine from a man named Graham. In a conversation he showed Richardson an expert's report, and a certificate of two assays by a Mr. Roberts. He told Richardson that he had a lode well defined in one shaft six feet at the mouth. From indications given he thought it would be 50 feet and eight feet wide. There was a quantity of ore at each shaft, and from experts' samples he anticipated securing a return of about five per cent. There was ample ore to pay the shareholders, who at the time numbered about six or seven. From assays that were made he thought that the ore would be worth about £800, and this would have been ample to pay three shareholders, at the time. A ton of the ore had already been shipped. He denied that he told Richardson that the mine was a second Mount Morgan or a mountain of tin, and that he wanted the money to purchase a battery. Richardson met him in the city, and he told him that he had decided to buy two shares in the mine, and he agreed to work on the property. When witness went up to the mine to pay him his wages Richardson was not there. Subsequently the latter told him he was dissatisfied with his investment, whereupon witness told him he could sell the shares for him, as he had buyers for them. He could account for the money which Richardson had paid him, a large proportion of which, he said, had been spent on the mine.

The case was continued yesterday. While one of the witnesses was giving evidence the magistrate interposed, and expressed the opinion that no jury would convict the accused. The charge against the accused was accordingly dismissed, and he was discharged.

REAL ESTATE.

The activity in the real estate market which has been pronounced since the beginning of this year is still showing itself, and the business completed this week compares favourably with those weeks which have passed.

The whole of the indoor sales held this week were largely attended. Competition was good, and wherever the reserves were not above the price fixed by a compent valuer, buyers were anxious to do business. An instance of this was noticeable at the sales of Messrs. Raine and Horne, and Richardson and Wrench, where in each case as soon as the auctioneer left the box intending buyers inquired for the lowest figure, which showed a desire on the part of investors to deal in real estate when favourable opportunity presented itself. Indeed, while in the box Mr. Rabett (Raine and Horne) disposed of four of the properties on his list under the hammer. He sold Koellner's livery stables, at Chatswood, for £1000. He disposed of a store or factory site at Ultimo for £2900. He sold a shop site in Campbell-street, Surry Hills, for £800, and he disposed of a property in London-street, Enmore, for £840. Mr. Rabett was offered £2900 for a pair of houses at M'Laren-street, North Sydney. He was also bid £3200 for the residence, Cheddington, at Warrawee. He refused £1300 for a house at Lavender Bay. For a building site in Cleveland-street, Surry Hills, he declined an offer of £17 per foot; the same price was refused also for a site at Manly. A subdivision block at Warrawee was passed in at £240 per acre.

During the week this firm sold by private contract a cottage at the Glebe for £750, a cottage at Surry Hills for £325, and a block of land at Bradley's Head-road, Mosman, at £7 per foot (£460).

The weekly sale of Messrs. Richardson and Wrench was largely attended yesterday morning, when Mr. Little dealt with a list of 20 properties. He managed to dispose of the residence, Eastwood, in Ocean-street, Woollahra, for £3900. The bidding for many of the other properties on the list was good, and in several instances the highest bid went very near to the reserve.

During the week this firm signed quite a number of contracts. The sales included the following:—A cottage, Carey-street, Marrickville, £800; a cottage, Pacific-parade, Manly, £725; a house, Abercrombie-street, Redfern, £540; a Leasehold property, Woollahra, £1200; a cottage, Stanmore, £550; a cottage, Gordon-street, Burwood, £800; a cottage, fronting Cook Park, £700; four lots, Bridge and Loftus streets, Homebush, at £2/12/6 per foot, £541; a lot, Fairweather-street, Woollahra, at £4 per foot (£85); an allotment, Surf View Estate, Cronulla, at 30/ per foot (£126); and two allotments, Dalmar Park Estate, Dee Why, at 45/ per foot (£225).

Messrs. Stanton and Son, Ltd., report having sold the following properties during the week:—Brick cottage, Hardy-street, Ashfield, £785; brick house, Mitchell-street, Greenwich, £1300; vacant land, Brand and Webb streets, Burwood, £262; weatherboard cottage, Flora-street, Lakemba, £540.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman had a busy week. This firm sold a pair of cottages at West-street, North Sydney for £1600, four allotments at Wentworthville for £300, five allotments at Collaroy Park Estate, Narrabeen, at 27s 6d per foot (£469), and portion of the Sussex Inlet Estate at Jervis Bay at about £80 per acre.

Messrs. Hugh Duff and Co. (Mr. A. T. Carpenter) had a good attendance at their sale on Thursday, when £1000 was offered and declined for a cottage at Malvern Hill, and £5 per foot was offered for an allotment in the Austinlee Estate, Enfield, and £575 for a shop and cottage, corner of Young and Reserve streets, Annandale. A property in Milray-avenue, Wollstonecraft, was sold for £1850, and a block of land at Mosman fronting Middle Harbour for £261 5s.

Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Co., Ltd., report a quiet week. The unseasonable weather of the last few days prevented intending purchasers from inspecting the various estates. But some fine lots were taken up at Woy Woy, principally on the Ettalong Beach Estate. Sales were also made at Glenbrook, Cronulla, Como, Toongabbie, and Bankstown.

The chief attraction next week will be the first sale of city and suburban properties in the estate of the late Mr. Samuel Hordern. The trustees in this estate have entrusted the sale to Messrs. Hardie and Gorman, H. W. Horning and Co., and Stanton and Son. The auction will be conducted in the rooms of the Real Estate Association in Castlereagh-street on Tuesday morning. An illustrated catalogue has been issued, showing 18 separate properties. One of these, the racing stables at Randwick, has since been withdrawn from sale. This leaves 17 excellent investments to come under the hammer, for which there has been a big inquiry, and the sale is likely to be largely attended.

There has been a big demand for plans, etc., of the land at Manly, which Messrs. Stanton and Son will offer this afternoon. It is the Manly Beach Estate, on the North Steyne. This is a choice subdivision of 10 residential sites, situated about two minutes from the tram at Pittwater-road, and close to Manly beach and North Steyne surf sheds. This is an excellent opportunity to buy land in the picked part of Manly, close to tram and surf, where values are fast increasing, and where in a short space of time building sites will be unobtainable.

The well-known O'Brien's Homestead Estate at Bondi will come under the hammer this afternoon, when Messrs. Hardie and Gorman will offer a subdivision, of which there has been a good demand for plans, etc.

The same firm will also conduct a subdivision sale at Randwick, where the Service Estate, with frontages to Carrington, Coogee, and Courland streets, will be offered.

This afternoon Messrs. Richardson and Wrench will offer Eastwood Farms. This subdivision comprises the trotting track and original blocks in the Field of Mars, an old Government subdivision fronting good roads. The blocks in area run from two to 11 acres.

At the progressive suburb of Bankstown today the second subdivision of the Highview Estate, on the hill, and convenient to the railway station, will be offered by Messrs. Richardson and Wrench. The land will be submitted on easy terms, and war bonds will be accepted in payment of instalments.

FROM THE AUSTRALIAN FRONT.

No publication previously received depicts so vividly the conditions under which the Australians have been fighting in France as does that issued for Christmas, 1917, by Cassell and Co., Ltd., bearing on the title page words which will command attention wherever it goes—"From the Australian Front." Historic names such as Pozieres, Fromelles, Sausage Valley, Bapaume, Bullecourt, and Messines figure prominently under the illustrations, to which the book is entirely devoted, and which amplify and correct many of the impressions of places and conditions that have been gained from verbal and written descriptions. In a short introduction General Birdwood expresses the hope that the book will convey to those who are left behind in Australia some idea of the surroundings of the battle fronts of the Australians. This it undoubtedly will do, and more, for it also contains some most delightful humorous sketches which tell us that not all the mud, hardships, and dangers of Flanders and the Somme can sap an ounce of the inherent wit and good-fellowship of the Australian. Some of these are by Will Dyson, and bear his unmistakable touch. One of the gems of the book is by C. H. Gould, and it makes one doubt some of the doleful stories one hears about bully beef. The sketch is of two war-worn Anzacs in front of a dug-out roasting two plump birds of some denomination or other, and the letterpress underneath quotes an extract from an intelligence report which says, "Yesterday two of our pigeons failed to return."

STEALING BY FINDING.

The finding of a valuable ring in one of the lavatories at the Central Railway Station on the 15th instant brought Bertram Ernest Smith (44), a labourer, before Mr. Love, S.M., at the Central Police Court yesterday. The case for the prosecution was that Mr. Thomas Sobb took the ring off to wash his hands and forgot it. The article was described as a gold ring, set with diamonds and sapphires, and was valued at £17. The ring was afterwards traced to the shop of Albert Mandelberg, a pawnbroker, who informed the police that accused had sold it for 35s.

Accused was fined £5, in default one month's imprisonment, with hard labour.

THE CHURCHES.

METHODIST FOREIGN MISSION.

The annual meeting of the Methodist Foreign Mission Board, which was recently held in Sydney, was attended by representatives from all the States of the Commonwealth and New Zealand, also from Fiji and New Britain. The balance-sheet for 1917 showed a total income of £57,688, and after meeting all expenditure for the year and providing for reserve funds the treasurers were able to report that the accumulated deficit of £8171 had been reduced to £486. Advances in income were reported from all State and mission auxiliaries, New Zealand having shown an advance exceeding £5000 over the previous year. The board, in recognition of the increased cost of living, decided to grant all its missionaries, missionary sisters, and others a bonus on their salaries of 10 per cent. for the current year. One of the principal subjects under consideration was the question of Indian indentured labour in Fiji. A committee was appointed to consider this matter more thoroughly, and information is being obtained from Fiji. It was decided, if found necessary, to approach the Governments of Fiji and India and the Imperial Government upon the matter. The board passed allocations for expenditure for 1918 totalling £60,929, including large grants towards capital expenditure in connection with the educational policy in Fiji.

To-morrow the Anglican Archbishop of Sydney, Dr. Wright, will preach at St. Andrew's Cathedral in the morning and evening, his subjects being "The Silence of Christ" and "The Ground of Forgiveness."

The Rev. H. B. Mullens is resigning the charge of Smithfield parish in order to enlist in the expeditionary force.

Under the auspices of the C.E.M.S., open-air services will be conducted at St. Andrew's Cathedral gates each Friday evening. The society has been asked to undertake the erection of a home for either a returned soldier or a war widow. The branches have been circularised, and promises of assistance for a whole or a half day on Saturdays have been received.

The Papal Delegate, Archbishop Cattaneo, is to visit Young on the 26th inst.

In addition to Archbishop Cattaneo, who is to officiate, Archbishop Duhig (Brisbane), Archbishop Redwood (Wellington, New Zealand), and several Roman Catholic Bishops will be present to-morrow at the opening of Galong monastery of the Redemptorist Fathers.

It is announced that Archbishop Mannix will open the new school at St. Augustine's, Balmain, on Sunday, March 10. This will be the day after the ceremony in connection with the additions to St. John's College, at which the Melbourne prelate is to speak.

Archdeacon W. H. Connelly, of the Wilcannia diocese, who was for 25 years at Broken Hill, has retired from parochial work. The venerable priest is now honorary chaplain of the Convent of Mercy, Brighton.

Next week the Methodist annual conference will assemble in Sydney. For the first time the stationing committee will sit on Monday, from 2 p.m., instead of on Tuesday morning. On Tuesday and Wednesday the ministerial members will meet for the discharge of pastoral business. The official opening of conference will this year, under the new management, take place on the Wednesday night instead of Tuesday. This session is one of much interest, because the election by the conference of the president for the ensuing year is part of the business. The Rev. P. J. Stephen, who retires from the chair, will deliver an official address.

The opening of the new Methodist Church in Culcairn took place recently, and a social was held at night. The Rev. Mr. Pennington, of Wagga, chairman of the Riverina Methodist Conference, assisted by the Rev. C. Wheeler and visiting clergy from all parts of the Riverina, performed the official ceremony.

The Rev. W. Owen Lewis has been unanimously called to the pastorate of the Bathurst Congregational Church.

In connection with the Women's Day of Intercession and Praise, arranged by the Women's Christian Temperance Union, to be held in St. Stephen's Church, Phillip-street, city, on Friday, March 1, an interesting feature will be the singing by a choir from the centre for soldiers' wives and mothers, of the well-known "Hymn for Those at Sea," and "Keep the Home Fires Burning." This has been arranged by Dr. Mary Booth, who will be the leader from 1.30, and will give a ten-minute address. Other organisations taking part include the Women's Prayer Union, Young Women's Christian Association, ladies' committee of the City Mission, League of Honour, Women's Reform League, and Methodist Mission Sisters. Different leaders will conduct prayers in each half-hour till 2.30 p.m., when a meeting for discussion of the prohibition programme will be held, led by Mrs. Strang, W.C.T.U. president.

Mr. S. Stevens has resigned his charge of the Mosman Church of Christ, after three years' ministry. He will leave Mosman in April.

To-morrow has been set apart by the officers of the World's Student Christian Federation (Dr. John R. Mott, gen. secretary) as the universal day of prayer for students. The W.S.C.F. is composed of the student movements of all countries possessing universities. The Australian branch is known as the "Australasian Student Christian Movement." A preliminary meeting will be held in the history-room at the University to-night.

At St. James's Church, Croydon, on January 29 the Rev. H. N. At St. Matthias' Church, Paddington, on December 29, by the Rev. S. G. Fielding, Frederick A., eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott, South-street, Marrickville, was married to Ada Florence Violet Constance, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hinvest, South-street, Marrickville, late of Wellington, N.S.W. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a frock of crepe-de-Chine, trimmed with lace and pearls, a veil, and wreath of orange blossoms; her bouquet of white carnations and a cameo ring were gifts of the bridegroom. The bridesmaid, Miss Elsie Hinvest, wore a frock of shell-pink crepe-de-Chine, with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations—this, and a gold bangle, were the gifts of the bridegroom. Mr. Orton Scott acted as best man. The reception was held at Sargent's; later the happy couple left for their honeymoon, the bride travelling in grey crepe-de-Chine and pink crepe-de-Chine hat. The bride's three brothers are on active service.

At St. Benedict's Church, Sydney, on January 5, Bede, eldest son of Mr. George Waples, Dapto, was married to Elfrida, second daughter of Mr. A. Burns, stationmaster, Shellharbour. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. A. J. Burns, of Sydney, wore white crepe de Chine, with pearl and silver trimmings, and a train, lined with shell-pink ninon, and trimmed with seed pearls and orange blossoms; also a tulle veil with an orange blossom wreath. A bouquet of roses and diamond earrings were gifts from the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Misses J. Burns and Daisy Waples. Miss Burns wore a pale pink Georgette costume, with white aerophane hat, and carried a bouquet of pale pink and white roses and fern. Miss Waples wore a Fuji silk costume, with hat to match. She also carried a bouquet of white and pale pink roses. Each of the bridesmaids wore a gold bracelet, gifts from the bridegroom, as were also their bouquets. Mr. W. Chalmers (Kogarah) acted as best man, and Mr. V. Waples groomsman. Little Edna Trainer, who acted as trainbearer, was dressed in white silk. The reception was held at Sargent's, Market-street. The happy couple spent the honeymoon at Mount Victoria and Temora. The bride travelled in a nattier blue crepe de Chine costume and black aerophane hat.

At St. Stephen's Presbyterian Church, Phillip-street, on December 19, T. F. Ross, of Ulupna, Inverell, third son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ross, Garangula, Harden, and Rene R., third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Murray, of Uralla and Terling Park, Moree, were married by the Rev. John Ferguson. The bride (who was given away by her father), and who was attended by her sister, Miss Grace Murray, and Miss Muriel Bowman, Gyarran, Muswellbrook, wore a frock of ivory crepe-de-Chine and a white hat. She carried a bouquet. The bridesmaids' frocks were white voile and filet lace over white silk, the waist lines threaded with powder blue ribbon, which also appeared on their pale pink tulle hats. Their bouquets were of pink cactus dahlias. Mr. Roy Ross, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man, and Mr. Harry McClure was groomsman. A reception was held at the Wentworth Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Ross left by motor for the Blue Mountains, the bride travelling in a frock of nattier blue crepe-de-Chine and Georgette, with white and blue hat.

DEPARTMENT OF VETERINARY SCIENCE.

The Veterinary School, which is well equipped with the most modern appliances and apparatus, is under the direction of Professor J. Douglas Stewart, M.R.C.V.S., B.V.Sc., late Chief Inspector of Stock and Government Veterinary Surgeon of the State of New South Wales.

The Degree granted, i.e., Bachelor of Veterinary Science, is recognised for all public appointments in the Commonwealth. The course of instruction and training is of a progressive nature, and the standard adopted is that of the best Veterinary Colleges in the British Empire. The hospital and clinic in connection with the school offer exceptional facilities for practical training. The fees are six guineas per term, or eighteen guineas per year. Veterinary Science undoubtedly offers a remunerative and congenial profession to those fond of animals, for which a wide field of employment exists. COUNTING THE COST.
When you consider cost with result, there is no condiment offered with the same sterling qualities as KING CALF FOOD.
The name is appropriate, for it is truly the King of Calf Foods. Skimmed milk, pollard, oilcake, etc., are not at all correct materials to feed to young calves, for, remember, merely filling is not the object. You must feed to build up strength, muscle, and a reserve of force to give the animal a good start in life. Order a bag of King Calf Food, you will not be a buyer elsewhere.
MANUFACTURED ONLY BY
T. G. DAVIS and SONS,
(Established 20 Years),

Sold in Bags, 28lb 5/6, 56lb 11/, 1cwt £1/.

ON THE LAND.

FRIENDLY BUSH BIRDS.

(BY W. M. [illegible].)

There are a few species of indigenous birds in this country which, by reason of their friendly habits and their fearlessness in the presence of man, are held in high regard by all lovers of nature. Chief among these species may be mentioned the thrush, the magpie lark (peewit), the black and white flycatcher ("willie wagtail"), and the noisy minah (or soldier-bird). Probably the most popular of them all is the thrush. There are two thrushes widely known in this State—the grey shrike thrush (Colluricincla harmonica), and the Australian mountain thrush (Turdus lunulata). The grey shrike thrush is met with wherever there is timber and watered valleys and underbush. But though it favours country of this character, it ventures far afield, and may often be seen in the wheat areas, and right out in the plains. In Riverina and other rural parts of the State it comes into town, and not uncommonly nests in public parks. It is also partial to homestead surroundings, and may be seen hopping cheerfully and unafraid in the trees, vines, or bushes, or on the ground among the fallen leaves of town and country orchards. Fulness of eye is held to denote courage—and this is one of the notable characteristics of the grey thrush. In colour the bird is grey, with lighter tints underneath, and a whitish feathering about the face.

Thrushes are not gregarious in any sense at all. Even in the mating season it is very rarely that one sees two of them together. If you approach the nest when it contains eggs and the female is sitting on it, she will stop in her position until you can almost touch her. Not till then will she fly off—to perch close at hand as if to keep an eye on what the intruder may be doing. If there should be young ones in the nest both birds will stand by and fearlessly approach the intruder. In such circumstances the feverish anxiety of the mother is pitiful to behold. She is so anxious, indeed, that she loses herself in her concern for her brood, and will in the last extremity give battle in defence of the fledglings. With a thrush sitting thus almost within reach I once took three young ones out of the nest to see what would happen. Instantly the old bird gave vent to a shrill and piercing cry, and, dashing right into my face, seated herself on my wrist and tried to spread her wings protectingly over the panting young ones. Without delay the little birds were placed back in the nest, and the mother showed her relief and delight by hopping round and round the nest and finally settling down on it and snuggling the brood underneath her.

With the butcherbird (at his best) the grey shrike thrush shares the distinction of possessing the most powerful melodious note that is heard in the bush. The thrush is not a singer in the ordinary acceptation of the term. He is addicted to single-note calls, which ring like a clarion through the bush, and may be heard at a great distance when atmospherical conditions are favourable. These birds live on grubs and insects, and are great foragers among the leaves and sticks which usually litter the ground in well-wooded creeks or valleys. In the economic sense it is highly probable that the magpie-lark (Grallina picata), which also belongs to the shrike family—the wood-shrikes—is of more value than the grey thrush. It is usually found near settlement, or wherever there are water and mud for nest-building. The magpie-lark enjoys the distinction of having one relation in the world, and that is a bird indigenous to Papua. In structure and colour it is one of the most dainty and graceful of birds, but when in flight appears as clumsy as a black swan or a pelican on land. As a rule, these homely birds spend most of their time on or near the ground, and if disturbed will only fly far enough to get out of the way.

In this respect their habits are much like those of the pipit, or meadow-lark. They are not song-birds, yet have loud and varied calls of very pleasant quality. When the breeding season is over, and family cares have been put aside for the time, large flocks of magpie larks may be seen together, and sometimes they travel long distances, despite their weakness for remaining in the one locality. The special value of the magpie lark, apart from its engaging friendliness and beauty, is its capacity for consuming the snails which abound about ponds and other moist places, and which act as the host of sheep-fluke in its earlier stages of development. Dr. Leach mentions that in one year in England sheep-owners made losses totalling £10,000,000 from the ravages of fluke—a fact which tends to demonstrate the economic importance of any bird that preys upon the host of this pest.

The noisy minah, or garrulous honey-eater (Myzantha garrula), which is commonly called the soldier-bird in country districts, is attracted to homesteads not so much by friendliness towards man as by insatiable curiosity excited by the prospect of picking up food without much effort. The minah has a most catholic taste in foods, and goes for insects, fruit, honey, meat, and even wheat, without discrimination. It is a very widely distributed bird, and is well known for its watchful and wary habits and its alertness in detecting the approach of an enemy. On the plains and the slopes of New South Wales minahs are more numerous than any other species of honey-eater, and in the breeding season scores of nests may be found within a radius of a few hundred yards. They are among the first to be heard in the early dawn of day, when they have a most attractive and varied note, which is very different from the more or less peevish and querulous cry associated with their activities later in the day.

THE WOOL TRADE.

APPRAISEMENTS NEXT WEEK.

There has been a lull in appraisements during the week owing to the appraisers being engaged in Brisbane on an important series there. On their return, the ninth series for the current season in Sydney will commence on Monday next, and conclude on Tuesday, March 5. The limit for the series is 55,000 bales, and wools will be catalogued that were received into store up to and including December 14; also clips that were received later, if shorn prior to November 13. The offerings will be mainly in the grease, but will also include a good representation of station scoured. There will be a good showing of wools from the New England district, and some notable brands from the southern tablelands, as well as lines from the slopes and plains. This inclusion of a larger proportion of New England and southern wools in the offerings promises to improve the average prices in the next priced-catalogues, but it is doubtful if there will be such a consistent range of high prices as last year, through the clip not attaining last season's standard. Goldsbrough, Mort and Company say with regard to the clips that have so far appeared from New England that, "it is apparent that the clip from that district is not nearly up to the standard of its predecessor, the difference in the length of staple and condition being most marked between the two, though the quality this year is on the average quite as fine." Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, in reference to the wools that are yet to be dealt with, say that, "so far, the standard of the wool appraised has been below that of last season, the staple in many of the clips being much shorter, and the wool thin and wanting in body. The wool to be dealt with includes the clip from New England and the southern tablelands, and it is anticipated that better averages will be forthcoming."

Upon the conclusion of the tenth series, which immediately follows the ninth, on March 6, the first half of the current series closes, and the second half is arranged to start on March 15. The second will deal with wools received up to February 15. It is expected, and certainly hoped, that the second part of the season will proceed as smoothly and as uninterruptedly as the first half; there, however, is the war still being waged, and shipping continues to be a factor in the appraisements. We have had ample evidence in the cables from London during the past month of the necessity for shipments of food for the United Kingdom, and no surprise should be expressed if wool, that has been removed so freely of late into ships and into stores on the wharfs, again becomes congested in the wool brokers' warehouses, and the season somewhat prolonged in consequence. There appears to be a shortage of wool in the United Kingdom for civilian purposes, but not to any serious extent, or sufficiently pressing to cause wool to have preference over such necessaries as wheat and meat. Indeed, it is possible that wools may have arrived or be destined to arrive and fill up the gaps in wool stocks in the United Kingdom, since reports were received of supplies being low for civilian materials. So far this season, the 13 firms of selling brokers have disposed of 406,537 bales of wool in Sydney, as compared with 416,111 bales during the corresponding period last season. The quantity catalogued by each compares as follows:—

WOOL DEALERS TO BE LICENSED.

A matter of considerable importance to the country wool trade is the amendment of the wool regulations relating to dealers' lots, and the position of wool dealers under the amended regulations. Formerly it was in order for dealers to trade in wool up to £10 in value for any one lot or brand. Certain conditions had to be complied with, as laid down by the different State wool committees. This trading is still permissible; but only by dealers under license by the Central Wool Committee.

These amended regulations have doubtless come into force through the previous safeguards being insufficient to prevent wool dealings being carried out contrary to the letter and the spirit of the previous regulation. The effect of the acquisition, and with it the regulations regarding dealers' lots, was to put out of business a large number of dealers and wool merchants. Honest dealers, who complied with the regulations, were unable to do business to any extent with a limit of £10 for any one purchase or brand. There were others, it is said, who resorted to subterfuge, and carried on in spite of the regulations. Means were found of trading; for instance, by buying small lots of woolly sheep, getting the farmer to shear the flock, the dealer to take the wool and sell back the sheep. It made the transaction somewhat intricate; still, it enabled business to be done without breaking the regulations. There have been other ways, possibly, by which dealing could be carried on beyond the £10 limit. It is generally recognised to the dealers' credit that they sent in fair-sized lots instead of bag lots; they make up farmers' small lots into decent-sized lines, which had the result of cutting out a lot of detail work in connection with bag lots, as well as financing farmers in a small way. This, of course, had to be paid for, like all other work or accommodation. The Central Wool Committee has stated that wool growers should receive the maximum value for their wool, and the amended wool regulation is doubtless directed towards that end.

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

Melbourne reports indicate the cataloguing of clips mainly made up of good useful merinos, fine crossbreds, and comebacks, for which satisfactory prices have been secured. The top lots of a number of brands, ranging from 25d to 27½d, and to 41½d for scoured.

In Brisbane the catalogues have included a good selection in the grease, and some exceedingly attractive scoureds. The well-known JM over Rosevale over Talmoi brand, from Muttaburra, was appraised to the record and highest possible price of 48d for no fewer than 141 bales of first combing. A few of the brands of greasy and scoured were appraised this week as follow:—

WOOLS AND TEXTILES.

According to the Melbourne "Age" on Wednesday last, there is some likelihood of raw wool being exported to Japan. The "Age" said:—"To-day it is no unusual occurrence to see a load of wool on its way to the docks with the countermark of U.S.A. Navy in large green letters. Rumour also says that Japan is to be allowed to select raw wool, both for military and civilian requirements, in addition to her tops or combed wools now under contract; and it is thought that, in addition to the U.S.A. selecting a good weight of raw wool, local manufacturers may be called upon to furnish a fair quantity of manufactured material." If that rumour turns out correct the result should be felt in both the South African and River Plate wool markets.

MOULD IN EXPORT BUTTER.

Mr. F. Wigan, senior butter grader for the Commonwealth Government, writes:—The amount of butter coming for export is very large at the present moment, but unfortunately parcels from factories in different districts are opening up in a more or less mouldy condition when examined and graded. It will be realised by all interested in the industry that it is a matter of extreme importance that our butters should open up in England free from any defect of this kind, and every precaution is being taken to have all this butter freed from mould and put in good condition before it is allowed to be shipped to London, and in effecting this, in many cases it necessitates the removal of quite a lot of butter from each box, especially where the packing has been faulty and the mould has entered the crevices in the butter. Factory managers will at once realise the great loss of butter which occurs in cleaning it of this mould, and the expense entailed in carrying out the work; besides the loss in the matter of boxes, where new boxes are found to be necessary.

The trouble appears not only in butter delayed in transit owing to the boats being barbound, but in butter arriving by rail and of recent manufacture. Undoubtedly one fertile source of the trouble is the green, poor quality of the timber used for the boxes, from which the mould growth commences immediately it becomes damp, and penetrates the paper and spreads rapidly in the butter. In some cases, however, the infection appears to be atmospheric, probably originating in the factory, as, although the surface of the butter shows mould, the papers and boxes appear practically free from it, and in other cases the papers and cover-slips are mouldy, whereas the butter shows only slight traces of it.

I make the following suggestions to factory managers:—Thoroughly examine and use only boxes made of dry seasoned timber, rejecting those showing green, discoloured wood. When packing the butter, line the boxes with dry papers. Inspect the factory for mould growths, especially the ceilings of manufacturing room, cream vat room, cold rooms, or box storage rooms. Avoid unnecessary dampness on floors of butter cool rooms. Keep stock of boxes on hand to season. Attend to manufacturing methods, so as to make butter which does not show free moisture. See that the packing is well done, and avoid any air-pockets in the butter. Where the papers are suspected it would be well perhaps to wet those well in water containing a little formalin before lining the boxes with them.

It is hoped that these few suggestions will materially help to mitigate the trouble.

WHEAT FOR POULTRY.

Mr. R. S. Drummond, manager of the State Wheat Office, states that, in pursuance of the scheme propounded by him some weeks ago in regard to delivering wheat to poultry farms, three trucks of chickwheat are being sent to Blacktown railway station for delivery to farms next Thursday. One truck will contain wheat from the cleaners at Darling Island, which will be of uniform quality, and will be sold at 4/5 per bushel, ex Blacktown, and the other two trucks will be consigned from Enfield, and will be sold respectively at 2/4 and 3/9 per bushel.

CHILDREN ON DAIRY FARMS.

Mr. C. J. M'Rae, president Primary Producers' Union, writes:—Mr. Hackett, secretary of the Australian Society for the Protection of Children, is reported with stating before the Interstate Commission, "he took the responsibility of saying that the labour of children on dairy farms was most oppressive, and child slavery was rampant." This is a grave charge to make on the man out back, and will be very deeply resented. Physically, statistics show that the proportion of country population, as against city and suburbs, is as three to two. The city and suburban index of mortality is 11.19, and the whole of New South Wales as 10.73, the country reducing the average, and quite a lot of other figures can be given. Take all the facilities of the city—hospitals, medical profession, safeguards of sanitation—against the primitive conditions, the poorly equipped services, the hardships of the country mother, and the balance is all in favour of the city dweller. We people in the country are quite in sympathy with a city society for the protection of children. Let any man take a stroll, in the less congenial parts of Sydney and surroundings, and he will find more filth and squalor, more emaciated and physically unfit children, than he will find in the dairying districts in a day's march. Intellectually the boy or girl from the dairy farms can hold their own. Mr. P. Board, Director of Education, addressing some 200 country school teachers at Hereford House last month said, "Examinations and other tests show that we get as good, and sometimes better, results from the small country schools." He further said, "We find that the children from the one-teacher schools are quite able to compete with the rest." These remarks are from a man who knows, and Mr. Board was candid enough to acknowledge "that the little country schools had not the advantage of the city schools." We in the country have occasion to know that this is so. There is another aspect of the charge. Does Mr. Hackett think for a moment that the fathers and mothers in our dairying districts have less sense of their moral responsibility to their children than the city father and mother? If Mr. Hackett goes out into the dairying districts he will find happy homes, and happy and healthy children. The children do their bit, to be sure, in the milking yard when necessary, but the principle of early to bed and early to rise holds good. Few, if any, children are overworked, and the work they do is light and congenial, and of a nature fitting them for future usefulness in a sphere far removed from the cities. The Chief Commissioner said it was unthinkable that children could be kept at tension for 12 hours a day. So, but the sageness of the remark will be appreciated by fathers and mothers who have kiddies to rear.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

CHALCID WASP.

"Interested."—There would be no risk in introducing the chalcid wasp into your district, or any other, as far as bees are concerned. The wasp will not attack bees or do any damage. It is a microscopic insect, that only attacks the pupae of the flies, and not the flies.

VARIETIES OF FRUIT TREES.

"Erringhi."—The following varieties of trees may be recommended for your district (Hurlstone Park):—Peaches (Le Vainquer, Wiggins, Peregrine, Elberta), Japanese plums (Shiro, Santa Rosa, Wickson), persimmon (Dai Dai, Maru, Sine Nashi). These trees will do best. If you wish to plant an apple tree, the Carrington, Jonathan, or Granny Smith would be the best sorts, and in pears the Williams. The China pear does best in the coastal districts, but is only a cooking variety.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1918.

THE OUTLOOK FOR THE ALLIES.

In this week and next falls the anniversary of the greatest success gained by the Germans against their principal enemies since their first advance was held up on the Marne. The campaign of Verdun began on the 21st of February, 1916. From then until the 25th their progress was irresistible. Position after position fell before them as regularly and as rapidly as the towns which their armies had captured between Namur and Paris. On the 25th the Brandenburgers penetrated the fortress of Douaumont, and every orthodox newspaper in Germany was taught to proclaim the downfall of Verdun. On the 26th the imminent danger was passed. The French General Staff was reorganised, reinforcements arrived, and the defence had begun that heroic series of counter-attacks which lasted until the fortress had regained almost its original boundaries. The attack on Verdun may well be recalled to-day, although the offensive which the enemy are now said to be preparing must be on a far greater scale. The attack was preceded by the same symptoms as those with which we have become familiar during this month and last. German newspapers, without naming the scene of action, professed unbounded confidence in victory. Preparations and rehearsals were conducted within view of the Allied airmen. Long before the French had recovered their lost ground the campaign had destroyed the legend of German invincibility, and had proved the French to be the finest soldiers in the world. Verdun once for all destroyed the half-confessed belief that whatever object the Germans set before themselves they were certain to attain. It proved that discipline and skill and weight of numbers will never overcome the resistance of men who fight in defence of their homes and their freedom. The German legend has since been revived by the defeats of Roumania and Italy. The Chancellor and his agents to-day are using it for the purpose of inducing the Allies to enter into a compromise peace before the newly-reinforced armies can destroy them. To-day, however, this propaganda has no influence on men who have seen British and French soldiers in the field. If it makes any converts they are to be found among the civilians who to-day, as at the beginning of the war, constitute the one doubtful element in the alliance. Verdun again taught the Allies not to be thrown into despair by the opening days of a great battle. There were some among the French people who thought that Verdun should be abandoned and the enemy given the advantage of a great moral victory. A leading German newspaper writing at the end of March, spoke of the first cannon-ball shot into the city as the opening of a festival in which the skill and the strength of Germany was to celebrate its triumph. We have no reason to expect that the Germans will repeat their surprise this year, although the battle of Cambrai has taught us that surprises are by no means impossible. But if the enemy does meet with success in the opening of his attack there will be no inclination to despair in either the French or the British army. If the French can recall the crisis of Verdun, both armies can remember the sudden horror of the first gas attack at Ypres. The armies that can survive such threats of disaster will not be dismayed by any momentary failure. Nor will there be any fear lest the later reinforcements should be less steadfast than the original British or French or Canadian regiments. In the Somme campaign, at Ypres, and on the Aisne recruits have fought with the indomitable courage of veterans, and with greater scientific knowledge. For a long time past the Western Allies have been on the offensive, but every successful attack has tested their powers of defence, and has taught us to believe that the men of Pozieres and Bullecourt will hold their own against every assault that can be directed against them.

Though we shall await the attack with confidence, the whole world will watch its course with the utmost anxiety. By no possibility can the Allied armies escape heavy loss. The Germans will persist in their efforts time after time until the pick of their newly-trained shock troops have fallen. Neither one nor many failures will deter, and in each attack they will employ all the diabolical devices on which they have spent their scientific knowledge. Experts admit that they have now accumulated greater strength than has been available to them at any time during the war, and that in numbers and equipment they are now almost equal to the Allies. It seems highly probable that they will attack on a sector with which Australian soldiers have been familiar since their Easter Monday advance, and the fighting around Bullecourt during the first fortnight in May. It is one of the few sectors in which the enemy retains many commanding positions. Wherever the blow falls the Allies will not fail to make their own attacks at some other part of the line. But although the offensive must come from them before the war is over they can only be sure of ultimate victory by holding their line during the coming months. While they are on the defensive the Americans will be completing their training at least to the point at which they can repulse the enemy, while the British and French advance. The Germans know that they must complete their scheme of domination before this initiatory period is over. If they fail now their power for mischief is destroyed, and the Allies are confident that they will fail before the armies who are united in defence of freedom and civilisation and peace.

AN APPEAL FOR UNITY.

A politician has just been talking of politicians, and incidentally giving them some advice. He is entitled to do this, because he is not a politician only, but a soldier as well. In fact, he stated in his electorate of Leichhardt on Wednesday night that he was far more soldier at the present moment than politician. Coming back to Australia on a well-earned furlough, Captain Carmichael, who is prouder of the fact that he wears the Military Cross than of the fact that he was a Minister of the Crown in New South Wales a little while ago, finds storms in the State Cabinet and cyclones threatening in the Federal arena; and he tells us that, somehow, it all seems unreal. He finds that here in Australia, while the fate of the British people, the fate of civilisation, is hanging in the balance, "the game of politics is still being played in the same old way." And when he expressed the wish that it were possible to dump every Australian politician in the front-line trenches, if only for a week, he must surely have had a sympathetic audience. At least for a week—though a longer period would be preferable. Certain it is that Australia would not suffer much. On the contrary, we might get along much better if the country were governed by Commission. To such a pass have we come that we are constrained to wish that all our Parliaments were shut up for the duration of the war and for six months afterwards, and a few consummate business men appointed to conduct the country's affairs. Matters could hardly get worse, and it would be much cheaper, for another thing. Instead of going on with the making of new laws, it would, perhaps, be a good thing if we had a rest from all the law-making. We do not wish to be misunderstood. We probably have the best Governments we could expect in the circumstances, but it is a poor best: and this is so not because the men who comprise them are wanting in ability, as political ability goes, but because the game of politics, as Captain Carmichael says, is still being played in the same old way. We still have the same old party spirit, the same old manoeuvring for power, the same old pulling of the party strings. On the one hand, there is the so-called National party, which refuses to do the national thing in national interests because it is afraid the party would suffer; and on the other hand, there is the Labour party, which sits in Opposition and which thinks that in the darkest hour of the world-war an Opposition can do nothing but oppose everything and everybody. Australia's honour is nothing to it. The Empire's fate—hanging in the balance—is nothing to it. Only the interests of the party count. Is it any wonder, then, that a soldier-politician, returning to Australia and finding this tragical state of things here, should cry, "A plague on both your houses?" Is it any wonder that, fresh from the battlefields of France, where none is for a party but all are for the Empire, he should express the fervent wish that it were possible to dump all our politicians into the trenches to see and learn there? They would know then what unity means. They would know then what sacrifice means, and how men, fighting and suffering together for a great cause, can sink all thought of self. They would get to know something of the "spirit of the trenches," as it is called—the spirit we so sorely need at home. It is treason to think of party in times like these.

Mr. Frederic Harrison, in the January number of the "Fortnightly Review," makes striking reference to the war and the world-changes it is causing. "The whole horizon," he says, "blazes with new, unexpected, mysterious lights and clouds;" and the moral he draws from it all is that behind this enormous war there is coming over civilisation a change even more enormous and much more lasting in time. When fighting has ceased, there will be a wholly new social order. Many things will be reconstructed. It will be folly, almost criminal, he says, to hold on obstinately to old parties, worn-out principles, ingrained habits. If this great and wise old English writer were to come to Australia now, what would he say of us? We can imagine something of it from what he says of London. In 1912 he left London, as he thought for ever, to find a little rest in his last years; but recently he was called from his home in Bath to the great city. "It shocks, wounds, disgusts me. . . . In this rattle and crash and whirl, wild luxury, games, shows, gluttony, and vice work their Vanity Fair with greater recklessness than ever. As I walked about streets blazing with gems, and gold, and every form of extravagance, I asked myself—and is this the war for very life of a great race? If the Kaiser could come and see it all, he would say, 'I shall conquer yet, for all they threaten me!'" And London is close to the war—is actually in the war area. In London thousands of people crowd, night after night, into the "shelters" from air raids. In London the people see, day after day, thousands of soldiers—some about to go to the field of battle, others returning with their wounds upon them. London is a great war clearing-house; and yet it is possible for a man to pen this terrible indictment of his own old city. And when, moreover, we read, as we do continually in the cables, of disagreements between the soldiers and the politicians, and of party intrigues in the House of Commons, it would seem that there is, after all, some little excuse for us in Australia. But nothing can excuse us from doing our plain duty. Britain has made many mistakes, it is true, and among those who remain at home and parade the streets of London there may still be those people who flaunt their jewels, their luxury and vice; but at all events, Britain has adopted conscription, and has raised an army of 7,000,000 men. Perhaps if Mr. Frederic Harrison had visited the great British shipyards, or the wonderful munition works at Birmingham and other places, he would not have judged the nation by what he saw in London. Nevertheless, he has done the nation a service by pointing out that if we are to win the war we must throw every ounce of our strength into it. And Captain Carmichael has done Australia a service with his timely words. He finds "Win-the-War Governments" in power, and yet the stream of recruits has dwindled to a mere trickle. Not a keel of a single ship has been laid, not a nail driven. Millions of bushels of wheat—needed so badly by Britain and her Allies—are awaiting transport. Incapacity stands revealed everywhere. This is his indictment, and it is true; and we need not doubt him when he says "it somehow all seems unreal." The Government must perforce take the blame, but it is Parliament as a whole—this Parliament of parties, this thing of shreds and patches—which is responsible. And if it is not mended, an over-wearied people will very soon insist that it be ended.

Lady Davidson received the members of the executive committee of the Red Cross Society at Government House yesterday afternoon, and entertained them to tea.

A meeting of the executive committee of the New South Wales division of the Red Cross Society on Thursday passed a vote of thanks to Lady Cullen for the interest and help extended to the society during the period that she occupied the position of president.

A complimentary luncheon was tendered by the Premier and State Ministers yesterday to Captain A. C. Carmichael, M.C., M.L.A. In addition to members of the Ministry, there were also present Messrs. F. Flowers (President of the Legislative Council), John Storey, M.L.A. (leader of the Opposition), J. S. T. M'Gowen, G. Black, R. D. Meagher, M.L.C., Captain (Chaplain) Wilson, Rev. P. J. Stephen, Sergeant G. Cann, M.L.A., J. H. Cann, Griffith, Blackmore (Mayor of Leichhardt), Evans, Clark, Benjamin, M'Donald, Crouch, and Hagen.

Mr. David Storey, Honorary Minister, left Sydney yesterday for Albury, to open a new hospital building. Mr. Storey was accompanied by Mr. Fred. Flowers, President of the Legislative Council; Dr. Nash, M.L.C.; Dr. Paton, Director-General of Public Health; and Mr. E. G. Manning, M.L.A.

The Attorney-General and Mrs. Hall will leave Sydney by the Brisbane express at 2.30 to-day, en route for Japan. They expect to return in three months. During Mr. Hall's absence Mr. J. C. L. Fitzpatrick will attend to matters of local interest in the Enmore electorate.

Sir Robert Philp, formerly Premier of Queensland, who has been touring New South Wales and Victoria, passed through Sydney yesterday on his return to Brisbane.

Dr. Park, professor of Mining and Applied Geology at the Otago University, who has been on a visit to North Queensland in connection with mining developments and experiments there, spent a few days in Sydney, and returned this week to New Zealand.

The Premier has received a cable message from the Agent-General stating that Lieutenant Leslie Williams (Under-Secretary, Department of the Attorney-General and of Justice) has been appointed Deputy Assistant Judge-Advocate-General, with the rank of temporary captain.

The Rev. J. Howell-Price has been informed that his son, Major F. P. Howell-Price, has been appointed Deputy Assistant Director, Supply and Transport, Desert Mounted Corps.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Beresford, of Homewood station, Dalton, near Gunning, have received news that their eldest son, Captain George de la Poer Beresford, of the 10th D.C.O. Lancers, Hodson's Horse, India, and staff officer in France for the past three years, has been awarded the Military Cross.

Mr. and Mrs. Prior, of Artarmon, have been informed that their son, W. H. Prior, of the head office, Bank of New South Wales, has been promoted to the rank of captain for his work in an administrative capacity on headquarters staff in London. He left Australia as 2nd-lieutenant in 1915, and in June, 1916, in one of the early raids by the Australians, received a severe gun-shot wound in the leg, which totally incapacitated him from further field service. For the part he took in this raid he was mentioned in despatches. His brothers, Captain Claude Prior, and Sergeant R. E. Prior, are still on active service.

Mr. W. J. Liggins, late headmaster of the Camperdown Public School, was entertained on Thursday night by residents of Camperdown and district, and presented with an inscribed silver tea and coffee service. Speeches of a complimentary nature were made by Alderman Gilpin, Senior-inspector Friend, and Mr. McCoy, the new headmaster. Mr. Liggins was recently transferred to the charge of the Bourke-street Superior Public School.

At a very large gathering in Ryde Public School, under the auspices of the Parents and Citizens' Association, Mr. Walter Jarvie, who was recently transferred to East Hills after ten years' headmastership of Ryde Public School, was presented with a wallet of banknotes. Mr. D. A. Pike, his successor, who comes from Wagga, was welcomed at the same time.

PRINTING PRICES.

GOVERNMENT OFFICE UNDER-BID.

THE PASTEBOARD FARCE.

Mr. G. Mason Allard, sitting as a Royal Commission, yesterday resumed the inquiry into the conditions of the Public Service. The evidence showed that the Government Printing Office was under-bid when it came into competition with private firms.

Mr. Alexander Moir, managing director of George Morgan and Co., printers and paper merchants, stated that the evidence of Mr. Sands regarding pasteboards offered by the latter firm to the Stores Department was correct. The pasteboards were not accepted, and John Sands and Co. returned them to his firm, who in turn sold them to the Stores Department at a higher rate than that which Messrs. John Sands had asked. Witness also referred to the difficulties which paper merchants were contending with in connection with the contracted supplies of paper owing to the British Government having declared that when a contract had been supplied to the extent of two-thirds the contract would be considered as having been legally fulfilled. He claimed that paper merchants should be given the same consideration as the mill owners.

Evidence relating to the cost of printing was given by Mr. Arthur Hancock, buying officer of the Government Savings Bank. He said that the bank had been asked to give all its printing orders to the Government Printing Office, and it was only when the bank got into difficulties of delivery that orders were given to outside establishments. When he ordered stationery matter at the Government Printing Office it was usual for three or four months to elapse before the goods were delivered, and he had often to resort to private printers to keep up an adequate supply of stationery for the bank. When the bank called for private tenders it was shown that he could buy more economically, though work was done more expeditiously, and the delivery was better. Witness gave instances in this regard, and quoted the following figures during 1913-14:—Pass-books, Government Printing Office tender, 44/ to 49/4 per thousand, averaging 47/ per thousand; private quotation, 26/9 per thousand. The bank used about 22,000 pass-books per year; this meant that by the acceptance of the private tender the bank would have saved £220 per year on this item alone. Regarding cheque-books, the Government Printing Office's price ranged from 17/2 to 27/6 per thousand. The secretary of the bank wrote to the Government Printer, complaining of the high price. The bank was informed, said witness, that the cost of the books depended on the salary of the officer to whom the job was given. If they were fortunate enough to get their order in when a junior officer at the printing office was disengaged the bank would have the advantage. On the other hand, the bank would have to pay a higher price when a senior workman was engaged on their order. For printing interest tables, the printing office quoted £79/17/2. It was complained by the bank that this price was rather heavy, and the price was immediately reduced to £72/17/2. A quotation was obtained from a private firm, and the tendered price was £52/10/. By giving orders outside the Government Printing Office, said witness, the bank was able to effect a big saving.

Mr. W. A. Gullick, Government Printer, said that quotations issued from his office were generally favourable, considering the conditions and privileges the employees enjoyed.

The commission was adjourned till Monday at 10.30.

SHOW ON GOOD FRIDAY.

The secretary of the Royal Agricultural Society of New South Wales, in replying to a letter written by the Archbishop of Sydney (Dr. Wright), protesting against the opening of the Royal Show on Good Friday, says:—"The president and council instructed me to acknowledge your letter, and to inform you that they have every respect for your views on the subject, but do not consider that there is any justification for closing the show on Good Friday."

SHIPBUILDING.

MR. HUGHES'S VISIT.

WALSH ISLAND AND STEEL WORKS.

AGREEMENT PROBABLE.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The negotiations between the Federal and New South Wales Governments in connection with the transfer of Walsh Island, with its extensive and modern shipbuilding plant and slipways, were carried a further stage to-day. A visit was paid both to the Broken Hill Proprietary Company's steel works and to Walsh Island by the Prime Minister (Mr. W. M. Hughes), and a thorough inspection of the great works at both centres was carried out. It is probable that a definite decision will be arrived at in a few days. The Prime Minister was accompanied by Mr. J. Cook, Minister for the Navy, Mr. W. A. Watt, Federal Minister for Works and Railways, and Mr. R. T. Ball, State Minister for Works, Mr. H. Curchin, Chief Executive Officer for Commonwealth Shipbuilding, Mr. T. R. Cooper, State Under-Secretary for Public Works, and Col. Oldershaw, of the Commonwealth Attorney-General's Department, were also present.

It was Mr. Hughes's first visit to Walsh Island and the steel works, and it was evident from the moment he disembarked at Port Waratah, the site of the steel works, that he regarded the visit as most important. Throughout the visit, which occupied about six hours, he paid the closest attention to every branch of the works, both at Port Waratah and Walsh Island. He was conducted through the steel works by Mr. Delprat, the general manager of the Broken Hill Proprietary Company, and Mr. Baker, the works manager. Mr. Hughes was more than ordinarily interested when Mr. Delprat showed him and the party samples of the first steel ship plates turned out in Australia, and just recently rolled. Those heavy flat plates, a half-inch thick, symbolise the genesis of a great industry, the development of which will make possible, as nothing else would, the shipbuilding industry of Australia. It is now impossible to import these plates, and their increased production is a most vital matter if ships are to be turned out quickly enough to help Australia and the Empire.

The party crossed over to Walsh Island by launch after lunch, and a complete inspection of the works was made. Alongside the wharfs were lying some new hoppers of the latest type, and a new steam trawler. These were launched about six months ago, but have been laid up awaiting the arrival of boilers. The works present a great contrast to the busy scenes when these vessels were being built, as there are now only about 500 instead of over a thousand men at work. All the plant is most modern, and many of the machines installed could not be obtained at any price. The now half-empty workshops and deserted slipways are not inspiriting sights, but with the inauguration of shipbuilding Walsh Island would soon become again a busy hive of industry.

Mr. Hughes, when seen by a "Herald" representative after his visit to Walsh Island, said: "I have been favourably impressed with what I have seen of the works, and of the suitability of the site for the carrying on of a shipbuilding industry. Now that we have seen Walsh Island I will be able to go further into the matter with Mr. Ball. The question will at once be considered by us in all its bearings, and after that meeting Mr. Ball and I will lay the matter before our respective Governments for approval. That is how the matter rests now, and we hope to complete negotiations so that shipbuilding can commence at once. Of course, there are in these works things which carry us beyond the realm of shipbuilding, but that and other matters will be considered by us." Continuing Mr. Hughes said he did not anticipate any difficulty in regard to labour at either Williamstown or Newcastle. The labour unions interested in shipbuilding at these places had agreed loyally to co-operate with the Federal Government in its successful flotation of the shipbuilding scheme, and the unions had endorsed the action of the conference in according assent to the conditions laid down by the Government. If a section of the trade would not co-operate after this agreement had been reached it was their own lookout. In regard to structural material, said Mr. Hughes, the position was not altogether clear. The plates seen at the steel works had passed the test, but they were half-inch plates, and it remained to be seen whether they could get plates varying in thickness between quarter and three-eighths of an inch, as the thinner plates were more suitable to their requirements. It was to be hoped that that difficulty would be soon overcome. There was a sufficient supply of girders, angles, and other steel at the steel works already for the building of several vessels.

The State Minister for Works, Mr. Ball, in proposing the health of the Prime Minister, said he hoped to be able to impress the Prime Minister with the value of Walsh Island in connection with his shipbuilding scheme.

Mr. Hughes, in responding, expressed the keen satisfaction felt by himself and his colleagues at the opportunity offered to view these works, which were truly deserving of their appreciation. He looked upon them as an illustration of an enterprise which would bear comparison with that of any country in the world, and he felt certain that its influence would not stop short at the boundaries of its own sphere, but would stimulate other men to do likewise. (Applause.) He asked them to drink the health of Mr. Delprat and staff, whose work was its own eulogy for in the words of Horace "Here is the monument of their own works."

Mr. Delprat said he felt sure the works were assisting the country, and his board would not have spent so much capital had they not felt it was helping to win the war. His board desired to assist Mr. Hughes in his shipbuilding programme. At one time they thought they would commence building ships, but their attitude now was to do everything in their power to help the Commonwealth in their enterprise.

The Minister for Navy, Mr. J. Cook, proposed the health of Mr. Ball, and said he hoped the relations between the Commonwealth and New South Wales would be increasingly cordial.

The Minister for Works, Mr. Ball, in responding, said his Government desired to give all assistance possible to the shipbuilding enterprise.

Mr. Hughes, in proposing the toast of the workmen, said: "This is a man's job, and I am glad to see that the men of Australia are engaged in such a great enterprise."

Mr. Baker, works manager, and an American, said they had nearly 2000 workmen, and he desired to speak very highly of Australian workmen. (Applause.)

PROPRIETARY COMPANY'S ATTITUDE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Speaking at the half-yearly meeting of the Broken Hill Proprietary Company, Ltd., the chairman, Mr. Bowes Kelly, said that when the Prime Minister first directed attention to the shortage of shipping tonnage the matter was fully discussed by the board. When the stage was reached at which all the necessary steel material could be provided by the Newcastle steel works the company approached the New South Wales Government, the owners of the engineering and shipbuilding yards at Walsh Island. Negotiations were begun early in May, 1917, and the terms of an arrangement to take over the works were agreed upon. Everything had been put into train to begin without delay. However, the Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, explained that if the company began to build ships simultaneously with the Federal Government, such action would greatly embarrass the Federal Government and interfere with the success of its shipbuilding programme. In the circumstances the board considered it wise and patriotic to withdraw from the negotiations in connection with Walsh Island. The New South Wales Government was informed to this effect.

LETTER FROM AMERICA.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The General Secretary of the Federated Society of Boilermakers, Newcastle, Mr. J. O'Toole, has received a letter from Mr. J. Casey, of Kansas, U.S.A., in which he refers to the industrial position in that country. The letter reads: "We have been making great strides in organising the shipbuilders in this country. As their ranks have greatly multiplied we have made much progress in the past year. Our membership is about [illegible]. We have a large corps of organisers in the field and new members are constantly being taken in. A lot of new blood will be required to keep pace with the great shipbuilding programme in this country, and it will, too, in many cases have to be supplied by a dilution of mechanics from other lines. Quite a number of new yards with large capacity have been built, and the pace during the next few months will be much faster. I am sorry to know that your shipbuilding programme has been held up, for, if it were inaugurated, it would not be long before it would be furnishing ships to transport grain that has accumulated to points where it is more urgently needed. I have no doubt the buying of ships in a foreign country at the present time produced considerable adverse comment in Australia."

RUSSIA

TOWNS SEIZED

BOLSHEVIK FORCES DEMORALISED

(Admiralty—Per Wireless Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 21.

A German official report states: We occupied Leal (western Esthonia). We have reached Pernigel and Lemsal on the Gulf of Riga. We traversed Wenden, and are approaching Wolmar (both Wenden and Wolmar are on the Riga-Petrograd railway). Between Dvinsk and Pinsk we are pressing eastward.

General Linsingen reports the occupation of important railway road junctions. Rovno has been cleared of the enemy. The prisoners include one general, 425 officers, 870 men, and the booty 1353 guns, 4500 motor cars, and one thousand railway carriages. Many of the railway carriages were laden with food.

A Petrograd message says the Bolshevik Government accepted the German ultimatum by five to four. Lenin was the principal advocate for acceptance, declaring that peace was necessary in order to save the revolution. Trotsky favoured war.

The Central Powers are discussing their reply to the Bolshevik offer to surrender to military pressure. It is announced that the advance will continue and the reply to Petrograd will include the present objective as a new peace condition.

General Averescu has arrived in Bucharest to discuss peace negotiations.

The United Press Agency's correspondent at Petrograd says that the Russian armies are concentrating at Vitebsk (150 miles south-east of Dvinsk) to resist the German invaders.

As the Germans advance, they are issuing proclamations, urging that further resistance is futile.

The Germans are trying to cut the Libau-Romen railway. Russian Red Guards and soldiers are not offering any opposition. They are retiring, leaving ammunition and other supplies.

The United Press Agency's correspondent at Petrograd says that the Allied Ambassadors are preparing to leave Petrograd.

The "Cologne Zeitung" says that in view of the new development in the east Kuhlmann's departure for Focsani will probably be deferred.

THE POLISH OUTCRY.

A British newspaper's comments on the Polish outcry suggest that Germany welcomes an Austro-Polish embroilment. Austrian and German interests in Poland have always been antagonistic, and Germany now wishes to convey the impression in Poland that she is reluctant to cede Kholm, thus throwing the odium upon Austria. German, at the same time really welcomes an opportunity to develop her Eastern schemes beyond the Black Sea. The cession of Kholm would enable her to play the part of a friend and ally of Ukraine.

Reports have reached Copenhagen that a tumultuous session occurred in the Vienna Reichsrath. To a crowded House the President began reading the Emperor's congratulations on the attainment of peace with Ukraine, when the Poles quitted the Chamber singing the Polish anthem. The Czechs demanded a cessation of hostilities with Russia. A great uproar followed, the Czechs shouting down Seydler, the Austrian Premier.

FATE OF PETROGRAD.

A Petrograd message says the German offensive continues in the direction of Vitebsk, Molodetchno, and Minsk. It is believed Rieshitcha has already fallen. The headquarters' staff are of the opinion that if the northern advance continues, the fate of Petrograd will be decided within a fortnight.

The Petrograd correspondent of the United Press reports that the authorities have ordered the demobilisation of the Russian army and navy to stop. They have ordered the troops to resist the German advance. Preparations are being made to defend Petrograd.

A Petrograd message says that military headquarters consider that the fate of Petrograd will be settled in a fortnight if the Germans continue to advance.

FINLAND AND SWEDEN.

The Swedish Premier scored a triumph in the Riksdag when denouncing the proposal to intervene actively in Finland. The debate revealed that the official Conservatives disavow connection with those in favour of active intervention.

STRANDED RUSSIANS.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

A Berne wireless message states that since the advent of the Bolsheviks in Petrograd all remittances to Switzerland have been stopped. Hence many thousands of Russians are destitute, but Swiss hotelkeepers and others allowed them to continue to lodge and board on credit. The Swiss Government now appeals to the Bolsheviks to acknowledge this generous hospitality by a remittance covering the Russians' liabilities, which aggregate 20,000,000 francs.

GERMAN SOCIALISTS ALARMED.

A Rotterdam message says that German Social Democrats are alarmed at the significance of the German advance eastward.

"Vorwaerts" says the more the country is occupied the greater will be the temptation to annex it. The Government must disclose its intention.

Berlin correspondents of neutral newspapers emphasise that annexation is not contemplated as it would only sow the seeds of future trouble.

FAMOUS FRENCH AIRMEN.

News has reached Amsterdam that Lieuts. Garros and Marchal, famous French airmen, have escaped from Germany.

Lieut. Marchal in July, 1916, attempted to reach the Russian lines from Nancy. He flew over Berlin, and just failed to reach his objective. After travelling 1250 miles he descended in a fog at Kawenesa and was taken prisoner by the Germans.

PALESTINE.

BRITISH PROGRESS.

NEAR JERICHO.

LONDON, Feb. 21.

The British are on the outskirts of Jericho.

An official British message from Palestine states: Our advance eastward of Jerusalem was resumed on Wednesday despite heavy rainstorms, difficult country, and the enemy's obstinate resistance. We made progress on a three and a half mile front a distance of eight miles, to within four miles of Jericho.

Simultaneously we advanced a mile on a front of four miles westward of Jerusalem on the Nablus road.

Our air service co-operated, bombing camps and depots 10½ miles east and north of Jericho.

Our losses on Tuesday were very slight. Yesterday's are not yet reported. The operations continue.

ITALIANS.

AVIATION CAMPS BOMBED.

LONDON, Feb. 21.

An Italian official report states:—Anglo-Italian aeroplanes attacked aviation camps at La Comina, Visnadello, and Motta di Livenza (on the Venetian Plain). A hydroplane dropped two tons of high explosives on Motta di Livenza.

Enemy aeroplanes bombed Vicenza, Mestre, Venice, and Trebaseleghe. They bombed Padova three times. There are a few victims, and considerable damage was done.

Italian aeroplanes effectively bombed the railway station at Innsbruck.

BRAVE AIRMEN.

TRIBUTE BY MINISTER.

Major Baird (Parliamentary Secretary to the Air Board), in introducing the Air Board's estimates in the House of Commons, praised the courageous, boyish airmen who remain at their aerial posts signalling to the gunners while constantly exposed to the attacks of enemy aircraft and anti-aircraft guns. He paid a special tribute to the oversea airmen for their loyal and brave services on all fronts. In one day, owing to aerial observation, the British artillery silenced 127 enemy batteries, destroyed twenty-eight gunpits, damaged eighty gunpits, and exploded sixty ammunition dumps. Balloon observation the same day resulted in silencing 34 batteries. The work of our fighting squadrons was glorious and invaluable. During September we destroyed 139 enemy machines and shot down 122 out of control. During the same month 15,837 photographs of enemy positions were taken and 7886 bombs were dropped.

Critics of the air service administration demanded concentration upon an aerial offensive calculated to finish the war this year. They referred to a newspaper report to the effect that Mr. Lloyd George, when inspecting damage done by air raids in the East End, said:—"We shall give the German towns hell for this." Major Baird repudiated the idea that any Briton would willingly kill women and children, but they might legitimately bomb all the Rhine towns, as these had a military significance. They would continue to bomb German towns. The debate was adjourned.

ARMY CONFIDENT.

The "Manchester Guardian" says it is now probable that Lord Derby (Minister of War) will persist with his resignation, and that it is likely Mr. Lloyd George will assume the duties of Minister of War temporarily.

Lord Derby denies that he intends to resign.

PEACE TALK.

The French Government is not obstructing delegates travelling to the London Inter-Allied Labour-Socialist Conference. The delegates have received a mandate to favour the return of occupied colonies to their pre-war owners, also favouring an economic open door.

The Inter-Allied Socialist Labour Conference has received a message to the effect that Mr. Samuel Gompers (president of the American Federation of Labour) has decided emphatically to repudiate the suggestion that the conference is under German influence. It is understood that the principle of the League of Nations was approved, but there was a cleavage of opinion on the question of territorial adjustments. A plenary session will be held to-morrow.

The General Confederation of Labour demands that the proposed referendum in Alsace and Lorraine shall be under the guarantee of an international commission.

TURKS AT TREBIZOND.

The Turkish army has appeared in the Trebizond region.

AMERICAN AEROPLANES.

It is reported from Washington that Mr. Baker (Secretary for War) announces that the first American aeroplanes equipped with Liberty motors are en route for the Western front. The production of engines is of a most satisfactory character. Mr. Baker points out that hitherto neither the Allies nor the Germans on the Western front had more than 2500 battleplanes simultaneously available. In America's aviation programme, therefore, it was most important that her battleplanes should be going to the Western front four months earlier than was expected. The Liberty motor, which is twelve cylindered, has established speed climbing records.

EDITOR OF "MORNING POST" FINED.

Mr. Howell Gwynne (editor of the "Morning Post") and Colonel Repington (its military critic) have each been fined £100, and ordered to pay costs, for publishing an article criticising alleged decisions of the Supreme War Council at Versailles without the approval of the censor.

The defending counsel protested against the Crown basing its case on the publication of Colonel Repington's article without the permission of the censor, whereas the Crown should have tried to prove that the article had assisted the enemy. Counsel argued there was no proof that the article was damaging to the national interests. He added that no patriotic editor would ignore the censor's warning if he were convinced that national interests were likely to be injured, but Mr. Gwynne considered it was a patriotic duty to inform the public of what was happening at Versailles.

Counsel submitted extracts from German newspapers in order to show that the enemy was aware of the decision at Versailles respecting reserves.

Notice of appeal was given.

BRITISH

IN THE WEST

RAID BY NEW ZEALANDERS

LONDON, Feb. 21.

The United Press Agency's correspondent on the Western front says that the British forces on Tuesday took over another considerable sector southward of St. Quentin, as far as the Oise River.

The southern extremity of the British front is now opposite La Fere. This extension of nearly twelve miles includes the whole of the St. Quentin salient. It economises French man power, and will liberate considerable forces for service elsewhere. The new sector has hitherto been a quiet part of the front. "No Man's Land" is in some places 1000 yards wide.

PICTURESQUE SECTOR.

Mr. Percival Phillips says that we took over a singularly quiet and picturesque sector some weeks ago, including the St. Quentin salient in the Oise Valley, between St. Quentin and La Fere. The Germans were not aware of the change until long afterwards. Fighting has never occurred in this sector, which is but little damaged by shellfire, but it contains many villages which were ruined during the German retreat from the Scarpe. The troops from the shell-torn trenches in Flanders are delighted. It is like coming out of a charnel-house into a sunlit field. Instead of sitting blindly underground, the men have a sweeping panorama of fertile farmland and wooded hills. There is a "No Man's Land" for ten miles formed by the Oise Marshes.

Sir Douglas Haig reported on Thursday morning: The New Zealanders carried out a successful raid east of Polygon Wood. They brought back a few prisoners.

Hostile artillery is active in the Flesquiers region.

An Amsterdam message says that reports from Liege state that many trainloads of troops and guns have traversed Liege during the last three days westward.

FRENCH ADVANCE.

A French communique issued at 5 p.m. on Thursday states: We took 525 prisoners, including eleven officers, during yesterday's operations in Lorraine.

DEADLY METHODS.

THE HIDDEN HAND.

The Paris "Figaro" reports that an extensive and most deadly organisation has been discovered at St. Etienne, where a German wine seller, whose customers are largely soldiers, has been arrested. His Spanish wife has also been arrested.

Documents seized included a pass to war zones.

"Figaro" adds that the avowed object of the organisation was to cause insurrections during the coming German offensive.

The wine merchant apparently had relations with other agents in different regions. His pass was an unconditional safe conduct for a hawker and vehicle in any army zone.

Certain documents showed that he would have received a large sum if he succeeded in a certain dangerous enterprise.

Officials are now deciphering numerous cipher messages.

SUBMARINES.

LONDON, Feb. 21.

A Washington message says that experts there announce that the oversea shipping available to the Allies is steadily increasing. They predict that the production will continue to increase until it nullifies the losses by U-boats.

The Shipping Board has prohibited vessels of less than 2500 tons engaging on the trans-Atlantic voyage, believing that larger ships are more suitable for traffic in the danger zone.

THE ARGENTINE.

ALLIES PURCHASE WHEAT.

Advices from Buenos Ayres received in Capetown give details of a convention concluded between the Argentine and the allied Governments, whereby the latter will purchase the surplus of wheat and other cereals to the extent of 2,500,000 tons, to be exported by November 1st, 1918, the minimum price of the wheat to be 12½ dollars per 100 kilos. The Argentine will open a credit for £20,000,000 each with the British and French Governments for the above purpose.

GERMAN AIR LOSSES.

An analysis of the air reports shows that the Germans on the Anglo-French and Italian fronts lost 126 machines in four days, the British accounting for 70.

Twelve British machines are missing.

GENERAL CABLES.

Joseph Jones, a dock-labourer, who was found guilty of sand-bagging and killing a Canadian soldier, has been executed. A previous cable stated that a verdict of wilful murder had been returned against Jones and two Australians.

In the House of Commons Mr. H. E. Duke (Chief Secretary for Ireland), replying to Mr. Newman, admitted that a procession of several hundred Irish-Republicans, headed by three bands, seized eight farms in Sligo, and handed them over to their adherents at a nominal rental.

The Prince of Wales, who is visiting his estates in South Wales, was enthusiastically welcomed everywhere. He descended a mine at Ebbw Vale, and chatted with officials of the Miners' Federation.

"SOLDIERS OF THE SOIL."

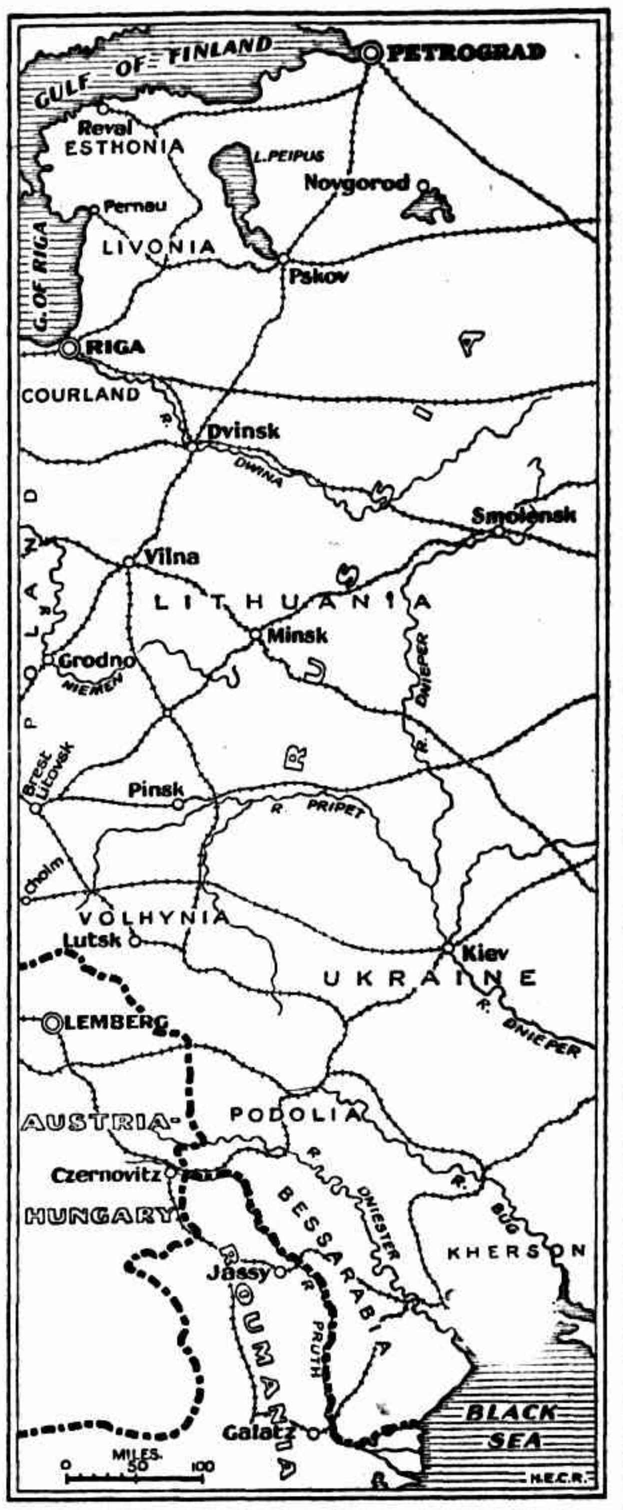
The Canadian Government is mobilising women for agriculture, and is also organising 25,000 schoolboys to work on the farms. The organisation is entitled "Soldiers of the Soil."

SCOTTISH WOMEN'S WAR HOSPITALS.

The Scottish Women's War Hospitals Fund now totals £3427/10/7, the latest amounts received to date being: Rous Mill, Dalwood Red Cross Society and Delegate Red Cross Society, £20 each; Government Savings Bank of N.S.W., £11/9/; Orange Red Cross Society and Rosebank Red Cross Society, £10 each; St. Andrew's Church, Parramatta, £5/10/; Glenelg H. Officer and Coonabarabran Presbyterian Sabbath School, £5/5/ each; Miss Scarven, £3/3/.

Contributions should be addressed to the hon. treasurers, Messrs. J. Russell French and H. H. Massie, 89 Phillip-street, Sydney.

POSITION IN THE EAST.



As a result of the collapse of Russian military organisation, and the disappearance from the front of most of the Russian armies, no definite line can now be shown on the Eastern front. The line previously ran, roughly, north and south from a point eastward of Riga, passing westward of Dvinsk, eastward of Pinsk, westward of Lutsk, and down towards the eastward of Czernowitz, where the Roumanian right flank now rests. The enemy has lately made two distinct moves, one by the Germans, in the north, where they have occupied Dvinsk, and one in the south, where the Austrians have occupied Lutsk. The Austrians explain that the latter move is to protect the Ukraine from Bolshevik marauders. The Bolshevik Commander-in-Chief threatens to organise the army and offer "the utmost resistance" to the enemy.

Later news shows that the enemy continues to advance into Russian territory along the greater part of the front. He is advancing into Esthonia and Livonia from the coast, and is pushing up along the Riga-Petrograd railway. He is also moving in the direction of Vitebsk (on the railway line, about 150 miles east of Dvinsk), and is progressing towards Minsk. The Austrians in Ukraine have reached Rovno (40 miles east of Lutsk).

STATE PARLIAMENT.

ARBITRATION DEBATE.

MR. HOLMAN'S SPEECH.

At 2 o'clock yesterday morning the second reading debate on the new Arbitration Bill was concluded in the Legislative Assembly. That stage of the measure's progress was passed on a strictly party division. The debate had occupied well over 20 hours altogether, and included some lengthy speeches. No attempt was made by the Government to use its majority in the House to suppress the discussion, to which almost every member of the Opposition contributed.

From the criticism directed at the bill, coming from both sides of the House, it is apparent that the committee stage of the measure will be particularly strenuous. The only important ground given away by the Minister in charge of the bill, Mr. Beeby, was in respect to the provisions for the constitution of shop committees. These, it was stated, are to be abandoned. It is probable that they will be replaced by some machinery to provide for the adequate discussion of disputes in their earliest stages and among those ultimately and originally concerned in the matters in dispute. This has all along been looked upon as an important feature of the new bill.

The closing night of the debate will be memorable because of a strong speech by the Premier in support of the bill. Mr. Holman is generally conceded to have been in his best form on Thursday night. Time after time his intimate and long acquaintance with the earlier and more strenuous days of industrial organisation in this State enabled him to get home most effective replies to the greater part of the destructive criticism of the members of the Opposition. He sustained a rapid cross fire of interjections from the Opposition benches, which undoubtedly helped him in contributing one of the most notable utterances on unionism generally that have been delivered in Australia for some years. Directly challenging what he called the "latest triumphant, cock-a-hoop attitude of unionism," that it was by the strength of their own right arm alone they could secure redress of their grievances, he reminded the opponents of the bill that Labour had cried out in distress for arbitration during the years when all the champions of unionism were fighting against the conditions brought about by a falling labour market. Of these times, he said, the younger men now trying to lead had had no experience, and he warned them that all economists predicted a recurrence of times of depression after the war.

"Unionism alone cannot help you," he declared, "when you have an army of 20,000 unemployed on your flanks.

"The strike is no good when men are knocking at the door of the employer because they are wanting bread for themselves and their families." This brought from the leader of the Opposition, Mr. John Storey, the significant declaration that when the day came that the movement he represented stood for strikes that day he (Mr. Storey) would leave it. "And so will many other members of my party," added the Opposition leader, to which the Premier retorted that that was the first intimation given during the whole of the debate that the members of the Opposition preferred arbitration to strikes.

Another hour was occupied by the Assembly in taking the preliminary stages of several unimportant bills. Mr. Ashford, Minister for Lands, secured the expediency and first reading stages of the Western Lands (Declaratory) Bill, which is to extend the term of office of the commissioners of the Western Land Board, which expired on January 1 last. At 4 o'clock in the morning the House rose until 4.30 p.m. on Monday next. In all probability the House will sit five days next week, and it is expected that the session will end some time in the following week.

LORD MAYOR'S FUND.

APPEAL TO CLOSE ON MARCH 7.

The committee of the Lord Mayor's Patriotic Fund, which is appealing for more funds to carry on the work of assisting the dependents of soldiers on active service, has decided to close the appeal on March 7.

The appeal was launched five weeks ago, and, as a result, over £21,000 has so far been received. It is expected, however, that the total, before the fund closes, will very greatly exceed that sum. The matter is only now being taken up generally in the country, whence large donations are expected.

The committee, however, desires to point out that there exists a most urgent need for early and generous giving. In supplementing the pensions and allotments of soldiers' dependents, and making small grants in special cases, the committee pays out an average of £12,000 per month—and this money is distributed among no fewer than 20,000 women and children. The money remaining from the funds subscribed in 1914-15 will keep these operations going until June next; then the committee will have to come to the funds now being subscribed. If there is a sufficient sum in sight, it will not be necessary to reduce its present scale of operations; if there is not, some thousands of women and children will have to do without the small weekly sum which at present represents for many of them the difference between comparative comfort and penury.

"And if we are forced to reduce our allotments to the soldiers' wives and children," said a member of the committee yesterday, "it will be sheer treachery to the men in the trenches. They left their dependents in our care, absolutely confident that we would properly protect them. It is a sacred trust upon us, and if we fail in that trust it will be to our everlasting discredit. But I do not think we shall fail. The public of New South Wales have demonstrated again and again that they can be extremely generous once they see that the demand upon them is genuine and deserving."

A point made by the committee in urging a prompt and generous response before March 7, is that many people have already given liberally to the fund, and thus done their duty, while others have done nothing. The committee points out that if sufficient money is not forthcoming now, it will be necessary to make another appeal presently; with the result that the generous givers would again be called on, while the "dodgers" would escape. For that reason, the committee is most emphatic in urging everyone to give, no matter how small the sum may be.

WAR NOTES.

EVENTS ON THE WESTERN FRONT.

Two interesting items of news from the Western front are contained in the cabled messages this morning. The minor attack by the French in Lorraine appears to have been very similar to the one which they carried out in the Champagne exactly a week ago, and which was referred to at the time as a raid. It will be remembered that the French consolidated and held the positions which they penetrated in the Champagne last week, which proved that the affair was something more than a raid. We are not told whether the troops responsible for the latest success in Lorraine retained the section of the enemy's front which they are reported to have penetrated deeply, but there is no reason to believe that they have not done so. Their prisoners total over 500, which is considerably in excess of the total captures secured in the coup de main in the Champagne during the previous week. The sector where this latest French gain has been achieved lies due north-east of Nancy, an important portion of the French front, where any improvement of the line is to be welcomed. The other item of news which must attract attention is the statement by the correspondent of the United Press that the British have further extended their line on the West as far south as the Oise River. It was expected that this would be effected at any time, as M. Painleve announced some time ago that, with regard to the further extension of the British front, a preliminary agreement had been reached between the two commanders and the operation would be carried out at an early date. The British right flank previously joined up with the French left somewhere near the north-western outskirts of St. Quentin. The extension of the front as far south as La Fere brings the British down almost to the point where the line commences to swing round towards the eastward, and must mean a considerable relief for the French.

BRITISH MOVE TOWARDS JERICHO.

The recent reports received from Sir Edmund Allenby show that the campaign in Palestine is progressing satisfactorily. It is doubtful, however, whether we can yet look upon the move towards Jericho and the Jordan as anything more than a secondary one. It has, of course, an important bearing upon the campaign generally, and the fact that the enemy is offering obstinate resistance proves that he realises that this operation, which really consists of an extension of General Allenby's right flank, is the preliminary of a more general offensive move on the part of the allied troops in Palestine. The object of this extension of the British right into the valley of the Jordan has not yet been revealed. It has been suggested in America that General Allenby intends to deliver a drive across the Jordan itself, with a view to cutting the Hedjaz railway, and, we can suppose, establishing contact with some of the Arab forces, which have been raiding that railway further to the southward. This would necessitate an easterly advance beyond the Jordan of some 25 or 30 miles through difficult country, possessing few useful roads. Much depends upon the extent to which the Turks have improved the communications between the Hedjaz railway and the Jordan valley, and, in this connection, it is worth noting that, according to a German statement made in July, 1918, a feeder to the Hedjaz railway had been constructed between Amman and Es Salt. This feeder would bring railway communication to within 10 or 11 miles of the eastern bank of the Jordan. It has also been stated that it was originally intended that this branch line should be prolonged across the Jordan Valley, to Jerusalem. It remains to be seen, therefore, whether General Allenby will push on beyond the Jordan with a view to cutting the Hedjaz railway, or whether he will be prepared to take precautions against a flanking move from this direction and advance along the road leading northward from Jerusalem, and that running up along the valley of the Jordan above Jericho, both of which roads converge on Nablus (or Shechem), an important Turkish base, a little over 30 miles above Jerusalem.

SIXTH WAR LOAN.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS' NEW LINE.

GILT-EDGED GOODS.

"Australia has never really tried what she could do in raising a war loan."

Such is the opinion of Mr. A. M. Graham, president of the Commercial Travellers' Association of Australasia, the full weight of which organisation is being put behind the sixth loan.

"The figures in the matter of applicants clearly demonstrate that the great bulk of the public has not previously been interested. Steps must be taken to make the new loan everybody's business. So far only 258,314 have invested in war bonds, made up as follows:—First loan, 18,748; second, 28,989; third, 102,042; fourth, 67,471; fifth, 41,114. To double the total number of applicants for the previous five loans would not be a great performance to ask. It would be considerably under what Canada and the United States achieved in recent loans. One in every ten of the population of the United States subscribed to the Liberty Loan, and one in nine in Canada to the last issue. To bring Australia's effort up to that of Canada would mean we must get 500,000 subscribers. This should be the minimum objective.

"The highest percentage so far secured in any one loan was in the third, when one in every fifty of the population of Australia subscribed. This only goes to show what a field there is to work in. To the great majority of Australians, these figures show, it is as if there has never been a war loan. It is for them to make the sixth the first, realising it is better late than never. The commercial travellers will throw all their enthusiasm into the work of rousing the country to the advantages that will accrue to all in making the loan an overwhelming success.

"The advantages to the individual, too, must be emphasised, and these are substantial. Business houses can point out to employees the great benefits to be derived by putting their savings into war bonds, and help them to participate. The example set by the British Tobacco Company, and its subsidiary companies, in this respect cannot be too widely known. Between August, 1916, and July of next year the employees of this group of companies will have saved £73,340. Already the bonds they took up in the third war loan have matured to the amount of £48,300, distributed among 2197 employees. Arrangements were made whereby the company financed the scheme free of interest, and employees could buy bonds by instalments at the rate of 2/6 per week for each £10.

"We are getting canvassers' books for one thousand of our members in New South Wales, 1000 for Victoria, and 500 for each of the other States, to start with. This will mean four thousand canvassers who will both act as missionaries and actively solicit subscriptions to the loan. With four thousand commercial travellers all talking the one subject the public will not be able to plead ignorance of what is going on. Our association has been very active in various patriotic funds, and our members have raised large sums of money. In the case of the war loan, however, they will not be asking people finally to part with their money. They will ask them to invest it in the soundest and most negotiable security that is offering.

"Each canvasser will work out his own line of argument, and the association hopes to demonstrate to Australia what salesmanship can do in a national campaign. As a body our members are the most expert salesmen in the country, and it will be the aim of everyone who sets out to sell war bonds to prove this.

"A meeting is to be held at the association club premises, Moore-street, on March 9, to give the campaign as far as we are concerned its grand send-off. We are looking for a large attendance, as the matter is being taken up in the keenest possible way. In the meantime our members will be well started upon the work they have undertaken—that is, to sell a gilt-edged line of national goods. Most of them, indeed, expect to attend the meeting with tangible proof that they have been on the job by their showing some thousands of pounds' worth of war loan bonds already sold."

POSTMEN AND THE ROLLS.

The following resolution was adopted by a meeting of the Australian Letter Carriers' Association on 20th instant:—"As servants of the Crown, and being bound by electoral law to convey the whereabouts of individuals, this branch of the A.L.C.A. emphatically repudiates the charges made by public men and others that postmen were responsible for deleting names from rolls used at late elections."

LATE WAR NEWS.

PALESTINE.

BRITISH OCCUPY JERICHO

LONDON, Feb 22.

It is reported that General Sir Edmund Allenby has occupied Jericho.

WESTERN FRONT.

Sir Douglas Haig in his noon report says: We repulsed raiders south of Armentieres. Patrols elsewhere brought in a number of prisoners. Enemy artillery is active in the neighbourhood of St. Quentin, Arras-Cambrai road, Lens, Armentieres, and Ypres.

The weather prevented flying, except for artillery observation.

FRENCH FRONT.

A French communique, issued on Thursday afternoon, says: There was fairly lively reciprocal artillerying along the whole front, especially in the regions of Pinion, Vauxaillon, Malmaison, Pontayrt, Guyfcourt, and Butte de Mesnil. Three German aeroplanes were brought down. Two were forced down in their own lines seriously damaged.

ARTILLERY BATTLE BEGUN.

A message from London received in Vancouver states: A great artillery battle has begun on the entire French front.

RUSSIA.

The "Daily Chronicle's" Moscow correspondent conversed with Austro-German prisoners, whom he saw foaming the streets. He found them dejected and indignant. They desired to return to their homes, but were not permitted to go through their own front, but were sent back under a promise to return via Finland, which route is now closed owing to the upheaval. It is said that 1400 Austro-Germans are living in railway trucks at the Moscow station penniless, and dependent on the charity of the Bolsheviks for food and drink.

The "Morning Post's" Petrograd correspondent is of the opinion that pestilence and famine will keep the Russian soil safe from German inroads long enough to enable the Allies on the West front to deal with their common enemy. The announcement of unconditional surrender is a stunning blow to the public. The Germans are making the most of their opportunity by lightning dashes into helpless Russia.

Tens of thousands of army horses recently were starved to death, the soldiers selling the forage to pay their gambling debts. The condition of the Russian railways has long been deplorable. The Germans are gaining enormous booty and fighting material. They captured in Dvinsk sufficient food for a quarter of a million men for three weeks, also 20,000 tons of sugar, 600 locomotives, and 1000 waggons. The German invading forces, which already have overrun the entire war zone 100 miles deep, consists of only one division of cavalry and one division of infantry. The Polish legions were offered an armistice on condition of a free passage in any direction. They are making towards Wars. The Bolshevik party meetings have developed indignation towards Trotsky, who will probably resign.

Russians in a panic evacuated Reval and Pskoff. The Bolsheviks hastily considered a scheme for the defence of Petrograd. They assembled at the council table, and it turned out that the available guns were in appalling conditions; the essential parts were missing. In consequence of the activities of German agents in the early days of the revolution the troops were ordered to dig trenches outside the capital, but saner counsels prevailed with the realisation that the city can easily be starved by Germans commanding the railway system.

The Allied Embassies have been besieged by anxious inquirers, who were informed that their departure would be arranged only in the event of the Germans reaching Petrograd.

It is reported that 45 German warships are steaming towards Reval, where troops are landing.

The landlord has ejected Litvinoff, the Russian (Bolshevik) Ambassador, from the offices in Victoria-street, on the ground that he did not observe the clause prohibiting propaganda.

GERMANY'S DEMANDS.

According to an Amsterdam message Germany regards the proposals of Brest Litovsk as annulled. It is believed now that she is determined to demand the whole of the Baltic coast, including the possession of the Russian Baltic fleet.

The Germans have levied on Warsaw 250,000 marks as a punishment for the recent disorders.

TOKIO WATCHING.

The menace to Petrograd is exciting the closest attention in Tokio in view of the imminence of the complete domination of Russia. There is a special significance in the presence of Japanese warships at Vladivostock. Japanese assistance hitherto has been purely naval and financial. It may shortly take another form, because the continued advance will probably give the Germans the command of the Trans-Siberian railway.

GERMAN CLAIM.

MINSK ENTERED.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

A German official message says: We have entered Minsk.

SOCIALIST CONFERENCE.

Mr. Albert Thomas, president of the Socialist Conference, and representatives of France, Italy, Roumania, South Africa, and the Southern Slavs, have arrived.

Mr. Thomas said the conference must show itself able to reach a common agreement in regard to the war aims, which the Allied Government failed to do.

NEW LABOUR PARTY.

The "Daily Telegraph" says that trade unions are considering the separating of socialist organisations and establishing a trade union Labour party, owing to their resentment of the socialist pacifist attacks on trade union officials, who, while members of Parliament and Ministers, advocated the prosecution of the war.

IRISH RAIDERS.

Six hundred men raided farms in East Clare, drove off the cattle, overpowered a small party of police, and assaulted three other constables. The crowd scattered when a constable fired his rifle. The military were called out, and the cattle were recovered.

WOMEN'S HOSPITAL, CROWN-STREET.

Mrs. Fitzgerald-Evans, of Linden, Blue Mountains, has forwarded her cheque for £100 to the secretary of the Women's Hospital, this being the tenth cheque for that amount, which has therefore enabled the board of directors to collect the two contributions promised conditionally on ten being obtained. Funds are urgently needed to carry out the necessary extensions, and the hon. treasurer, Mr. R. S. Wickham, states that further amounts will be gratefully received and promptly acknowledged.

QUEENSLAND ELECTIONS.

NATIONAL POLICY.

TOOWOOMBA, Friday.

Mr. E. H. Macartney delivered the policy speech of the National party last night. Referring to the finances he declared the present Government had made a shocking failure. The finances of the State were in a more serious and unsatisfactory condition than was generally realised. The present condition of affairs was causing great anxiety among the people. As to the future welfare of the country, the policy of the Labour party was a policy of destruction, not of construction. The Ryan Government, in order to bolster up its alleged profits in the butchers' shop business, had not hesitated to dishonour itself, and the good name of Queensland, by crediting the enterprise with a sum of nearly £20,000, obtained from the Federal Government, by an unworthy trick. As a matter of fact, the Ryan Government never paid, nor was ever liable to pay, the amount involved to the several meatworks for the storage of meat for the Defence Department. He could not think that the people of this country would ever submit to the slavery that the Labour party proposed to introduce under the guise of freedom. Proceeding, Mr. Macartney said it was too late, and would be useless for the Labour party to deny its connection with the I.W.W. Proofs were too numerous. In outlining the policy of the National party, Mr. Macartney declared the National party proposed to make the Upper House an elective body, and to submit the question of the reduction in the number of members to a referendum. Queensland's immediate and most pressing duty now was to assist the Commonwealth in financing the war as it affects Australia. The safety of the country must be their first consideration.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

MUSIC IN THE SCHOOLS.

At Farmers' tearoom last night, when the 32nd annual report and balance-sheet of the Royal Philharmonic Society of Sydney were read by Mr. H. R. Marriner (hon. secretary), and carried on the voices,

Mr. James Chalmers (president) referred more especially to the statement in the report that the society's conductor, Mr. Joseph Bradley, had been entrusted by the Director of the Conservatorium with the duty of preparing the scheme of tuition proposed by the Education Department for the better teaching of music in the Public schools. The Philharmonic committee predicted that the policy of encouraging music among the children would have an elevating effect on the rising generation, and prove an excellent investment for the State. Even during the present war the Imperial Government, through the Minister for Education, had introduced a new Education Bill, providing for greatly increased musical teaching in the Public schools in Great Britain. He (Mr. Chalmers) would like to see music one of the leading subjects in the schools on account of its refining influence, and he might add that a high authority in the United States placed the value of the art second only to reading and writing. He thought the Conservatorium would prove a step in the right direction, and that on the question of cost the Government was justified in a generous policy. No such policy was apparent in municipal management. The Town Hall remained uncomfortably seated, and the organ no longer responded readily to the touch, besides being above the modern pitch, and probably would cost £2000 to put in proper order. The paucity of outdoor music had also to be laid at the City Council's door. As regards the Philharmonic, there was an actual loss of £200 on last year's business, and but for the success of the present popular concerts the society would have been in serious difficulties.

Mr. Gates showed that for the first time in 20 years there had been a loss of £204 during 1917 (of which one-half had been made good by donations). In 1913 there was a credit balance of £715, so that the actual loss since then (including the war years) amounted to £100. This was largely due to a decrease in the subscriptions from £1120 in 1913 to £700 in 1917. The sum of £200 had been lost on the experiment of orchestral concerts. On the other hand watchful economy had steadily reduced the gross average cost of the concerts in each of the five years as follows:—£236 each concert, £210, £208, £192, and £179. Much applause followed the announcement that the brilliant idea of the popular concert scheme was entirely due to Mr. Chalmers.

The ballot for six committeemen resulted in the election of Messrs. Reg. Brean, R. M. Clarke, W. T. Colyer, Herbert Fry, W. J. Jarman, R. M. M'Neilly, all of whom sat last year except the lastnamed; with Messrs. James Connell and R. W. Peart once more as auditors. Mr. T. W. Richards (formerly hon treasurer) joined the list of vice-presidents.

VARYING FEDERAL AWARDS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the Arbitration Court Mr. Justice Higgins gave judgment on the application by the Acting Public Service Commissioner for the Commonwealth against the Commonwealth Post and Telegraph Association, respondents, to vary an award made on September 19, 1916. His Honor said the object was to make the adult wage payable on the next period succeeding the date upon which the officer became 21 years old. He did not propose to agree to that unless as a general variation to bring all the Public servants into line. He would grant the application to provide that officers transferred from the general division and the clerical division should only be advanced to the next subdivision on or after the appointment. Under regulation 142, by consent, he omitted clause 14 of the award. He proposed to vary the award by fixing 6½ hours as the time after which overtime must be paid to telegraphists on Saturdays. Assuming the present 4½ hours' shift on alternate Saturdays was retained, overtime would be payable in future after 39 hours per week had been worked at all offices north of the tropic of Capricorn. He would grant the application to make overtime necessarily payable after 10 hours of broken shift in country telegraph offices. If men were required to do interstate work on Sundays or holidays he thought, in the public interests, they were entitled to full interstate rates, so he could not see his way to grant the application that clause 31 should not apply to Sunday and holiday work. Clause 46 of the Public Service Act could only be altered by Parliament. Clause 35 of the award would be struck out. By consent, the words in the footnote in that part of the schedule headed "Senior Assistants" would be omitted.

Re Federated Clerks' Union and the Commonwealth application to vary the award, his Honor said he proposed to amend the award by providing that overtime should not be payable to members in receipt of £400 a year or more, or to members not under the direct supervision of a superior officer in a position to properly check their work.

RECRUITING.

This evening there are to be two recruiting meetings. Mr. A. N. White and Private Barrington will show the latest war trophies in Martin-place. The meeting on the Corso, Manly, will be addressed by Lieut. Nicholls, Private Norman, Private Seymour, and Corp. Hamilton.

The following meetings are announced for to-morrow:—

Domain, 3 p.m., Sergt. Cross, D.C.M., Sergt. Skinner, Sergt. Watkins, Sergt. Salisbury, Warrant-officer Mulready.

North Sydney Reserve, 4 p.m.: Lieut. Nicholls, Miss E. S. Evans, Cpl. Burns.

Bondi Beach, 3 p.m.: R. O. Saunders, Corpl. Belton, Sergt. Douglas.

Manly, South Steyne Bandstand, 4 p.m.: Private Norman.

Coogee Beach, 3 p.m.: R. O. Saunders, Sergt. Salisbury, Sergt. Douglas.

RECRUITING SCHEME.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

A memorandum was issued by the Director-General of Recruiting (Mr. D. M'Kinnon) today to the chairman of all the State recruiting committees, urging them to press on with the present methods of recruiting until the Prime Minister announces the Ministry's new system. It is believed the Ministry's scheme will have no strikingly new features, and may possibly be on the lines of taking a compulsory census of eligible men under the War Precautions Act, the furnishing of replies to be obligatory. The census having once been taken, strict personal appeal to be made to each eligible man to enlist. It is also believed that allowances to soldiers' dependents should be increased, and that a board should be established to help men faced with financial and other obligations to surmount them.

SIR DOUGLAS HAIG AND Y.M.C.A.

The national general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. in Australia has received a message from Sir Douglas Haig, in which the British commander says:—"The work which the Y.M.C.A. is doing to-day in France and Flanders is assisting in no small degree to maintain the good health and fighting spirit of our men. On that ground, as well as on many others of a more general character, it is worthy of all possible support."

PRICE OF MEAT.

COMMISSION'S DRASTIC REPORT.

CONTROLLING THE MARKET.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Interstate Commission's report on meat in New South Wales states that compared with before the war the retail price of beef in Sydney had increased in March, 1917, by 61 per cent., and of mutton 68 per cent.

Evidence of Mr. T. A. Field, taken by the Interstate Commission in Sydney, is quoted at considerable length. "In view," the commission states, "of the deliberately false evidence of both Morgan Ford and T. A. Field before the Royal Commission, the chief interstate commissioners drew the attention of the New South Wales Attorney-General to what had occurred, and invited him to consider whether both these witnesses should be prosecuted for perjury." The position was that Mr Field controlled his own business and that of Elliott and Ford, and a large portion of the business of the Francis Meat Co. He controlled more than half the trade in 1915, and more than one-third in 1916 and 1917. The chief rival was the Colonial Wholesale Meat Company, which was practically identical with F. W. Hughes and Co., Ltd., who were said to have a strong position because they made wool tops.

The facts as to supply in the State, as well as the universal impression in the trade, make it clear that the one chief reason why the retail prices are so much higher in Sydney—the main killing centre of a great stock-raising State—than in Melbourne or Brisbane, is the hold the combination has over retailers and its sympathetic action towards pastoralists sending stock to the markets. The tone of the market for the day is set by the early sales, and it is said to be a common thing for Mr. Field or the Riverstone Meat Company to buy a few cattle or sheep in the early pens at a high price, knowing that their own stock is coming on later in the day for sale, and that they will profit by a high market. Another device is said to be boasted of by the Riverstone Meat Company. They abstain from buying at the yards for three or four weeks till the market comes down. They then buy in the country, emphasising the low prices at the yards, and afterwards bring the stock so bought cheaply into the yards and "shoot their cattle along."

There is little doubt that the influence of the big carcase butchers on sales of cattle and sheep is to drive the small buyers off the market, and that their predominant position always tends to, and often does, actually inflate the prices of meat. Much that is underground in such proceedings could be stopped by regulations providing—

(1) That the name of the actual owner of stock sold must be announced, and,

(2) That neither the owner nor anyone in his interest should be allowed to bid.

For example, it would no longer be possible for Mr. Field and his manager, Mr. Ford, to bid ostensibly against one another so as to keep up the market. The Market Pool—the familiar name given to the wholesale meat trade committee called into being by the New South Wales Government during the great strike of last year—must not be confounded with the combination described. Evidence on the operations of the pool was given during the first sittings of the commission in Sydney, and evidence as to the operations of the Field Combine on Friday, October 19, 1917. On Tuesday, October 23, the Government decided to withdraw from the pool, and it is a sufficient comment on the claims so stoutly urged as to the impossibility of producing supplies, except at the highest strike prices, that the price of meat, both beef and mutton, has steadily declined since the dissolution of the pool and the disclosures as to the Field combine.

The commissioner points out that following the general principle that a maximum price ought to be such as to give an encouraging return to the producer, the Imperial price for beef, mutton, and lamb at Brisbane and Sydney suggests itself as clearly a fair basis. The freezing charge is about ⅝d per lb, and to bring about a fair parity this might be considered in fixing the maximum local price. The Imperial Government pays the companies 4½d per lb for beef. For this the companies have to freeze, and out of it they make their profit. The exact price of mutton would also need modifications to bring about a fair parity. In the past the retail butchers have been very unjustly blamed as exploiters of the public. In point of fact they have had a hard struggle in Brisbane, Sydney, and Melbourne, and many have had to close up. Their interests are entirely with cheap and ample sales, and there is no combination amongst them capable of exploiting prices to the public if the prices to them are equated with the prices the producing industry receives for export. If prices are fixed it is desirable that they should continue for the same period as the Imperial contract, viz., till three months after the conclusion of peace.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir—It is with regret that I notice that the Interstate Commission has, in its report on the inquiry into the increased cost of meat, taken the opportunity of making a personal and unfounded attack on me.

Although it could have nothing to do with the question of price, the Chief Commissioner goes out of his way in the report to inform the public that he had drawn the attention of the Attorney-General to certain evidence given before Mr. Bavin, and had invited him to consider whether I should not be prosecuted for perjury.

In the inquiry before the Chief Commissioner no question was raised as to the truth of my evidence given before Mr. Bavin, and every word of evidence that I gave before that gentleman was true.

Certain questions were asked of me by Mr. Bavin, and I declined to answer them. The Supreme Court of New South Wales held that I had properly declined to answer such questions.

It appears to me lamentable that owing to my alleged operations at Homebush (which can only be a small proportion of the whole) the report suggests that a price should be fixed for the whole of Australia.

Having regard to the finding of the Interstate Commission, that the prices were inflated by reason of my being a stock owner as well as a carcase butcher, I desire to point out that during the years 1916 and 1917 the official figures of stock sold at Homebush were 3,339,536 sheep, and 287,407 cattle. Of this number only 71 head of cattle and 2,121 sheep were sold on my own account. In addition to these, 535 head of cattle and 3517 sheep was the total sold from stations in which I was interested with pastoral firms during those periods.

These figures, I take it, will prove to anyone that my position as a stock owner could not and did not affect the market prices at Homebush. I am, etc., T. A. FIELD.

COLLIE COAL STRIKE.

PERTH, Friday.

The Premier, Mr. Lefroy, who had promised to receive a Collie deputation on the coal trouble on Tuesday, on learning that the men had decided to cease work for a week, emphatically declined to receive the deputation until the men have resumed work. His promise to meet the deputation, he says, was given on the understanding that the men would continue work. The Commissioner for Railways says the tram and train services must be curtailed owing to stoppage of coal supplies by the strike. There is, however, sufficient coal on hand to keep the city lighting and electric current going for some time.

THE TRAWOOL MURDERS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

After a trial lasting over four days, Arthur Geoffrey Oldring, machine gunner in the A.I.F., whose true name is George Farrow Blunderfield, was, to-day, in the Criminal Court, before the Chief Justice, convicted of the murder of Margaret Taylor and her daughter, Rose Taylor, at Trawool, and sentenced to death. In the course of the trial the murderer admitted that he was a fugitive from justice in Western Australia, and the records of that State show that he had twice been convicted of very serious offences. At Perth, on March 6, 1900, he received a sentence of 12 years' imprisonment for a criminal assault on a little girl. He was released on probation after serving about six years of the sentence, and was again convicted at Perth on December 7, 1909, on a charge of attempting to kill Charles J. Efford, postmaster, at Hopetoun, W.A. He was confined at Rottnest Prison, where he caused a fire on April 5, 1914, and made his escape in the commotion that arose. He afterwards apparently succeeded in getting away to the eastern States and enlisted when in South Australia.

PROMOTIONS.

By the last English mail, news was received by Mr. W. Kopsen, of Strathfield, that his elder son, Eric, had left Pembroke College, Cambridge, where he received his commission, and rejoined his battalion in France. Lieutenant Kopsen joined the Army Service Corps in 1915, and later transferred to the infantry, shortly after which he was wounded in the battle of Bullecourt.

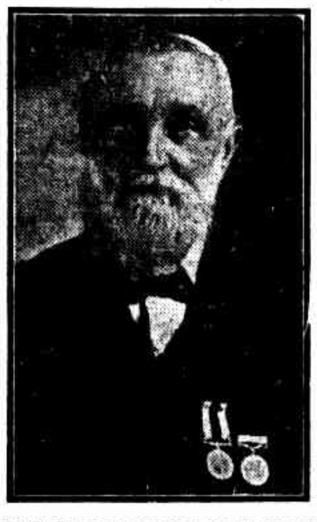
LATE MR. WM. HENRY HEAD

Another link in the historically interesting past has been severed by the death of Mr. William Henry Head, captain and president of the United Imperial Naval and Army Veterans' Association of New South Wales. A fine specimen of British manhood his genial and upright nature endeared him to all privileged to know him. Born in Dartmouth, England, 75 years ago, he entered the British Navy in his early teens, and during the succeeding 17 years served in the wars of the Crimea, China, and New Zealand, rising to the post of petty officer. In the China war he served with Sir Harry Rawson, and in the later years met him by appointment in Sydney while the latter was Governor of this State. When he left the service Mr. Head entered the employment of Wunderlich, Ltd., as shipping clerk, and stayed with them for 30 years—to the day of his retirement. In Freemasonry he held the rank of Past Master, and was Grand Lodge officer of the Buffaloes. He was representative of the veterans of the council of the Veterans' Home. In his younger days he took active part in developing the New South Wales League of Wheelmen. He has left four sons and one daughter. To-day his remains will be accorded a military funeral which will leave his late residence, No. 2 Marriott-street, Redfern, at 2.20 p.m.



PRICE OF BREAD.

COMMISSION'S REPORT.

EFFECT OF DAY BAKING.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The investigation in New South Wales and Queensland by the Interstate Commission, into the price of bread was conducted by the Chief Commissioner, Mr. Piddington, K.C. Dealing with New South Wales he reports that whilst the price was 3½d for cash per 2lb loaf, and 4½d booked, compared with 3½d and 4d in Melbourne, these prices were for shop or bakehouse, the delivered prices being ½d per loaf extra in Sydney, and ½d in Melbourne. The fixed price of flour in Sydney was £11 2s 6d, but most bakers paid £10 15s. The difference of 7s 6d a ton is stated to be equivalent to one-fifteenth of a penny per loaf. Manufacturing was not more expensive in Sydney than in Melbourne. Wages were not higher, but the cost of delivering bread was higher in Sydney than in Melbourne, partly because Sydney was more hilly, but chiefly through the indirect effect of day baking. The steep (and also inferior) streets of Sydney involved greater wear and tear on horse and cart, and more time was spent in serving a similar number of customers.

Day baking was made compulsory in Sydney in June, 1914. It might be taken for granted that the public preference for nearly hot bread had proved ineradicable. It was contended that, owing to day baking, wastage had increased, that there was a difficulty in forecasting necessary supplies, and that deliveries to private houses were diminishing. The contentions were according to the report established by the evidence given by the Master Bakers. With an 8 o'clock start the first bread was available for delivery about 11 a.m. As the carters started delivering at 5.30 a.m., the bread they took out was 18½ hours old when they started, and 27½ hours old when they returned. What was brought back, therefore, was 42½ hours old if taken out the next day. The amount of unsalable loaves was, therefore, much larger than under night baking. The Commissioner then proceeds to discuss the difficulty in estimating the amount of dough necessary for baking, and said there was often a surplus on Saturday's deliveries, which could not be sent out at all. In one business 9500 loaves were only sold to the same number of houses as before day baking used to take 12,000. Moreover, bakers were unanimous that their customers did not eat as much bread as before, now that it was 18 hours old before it was delivered.

There had been, it was stated, a marked development in the grocer's shop trade, as grocers could get very large supplies of hot bread from the first batch out of the oven. One baker stated that the percentage of bread sold to grocers had, in his case, increased from 2 per cent. to 22 per cent. Owing to the risk of evaporation, bakers were now obliged to weigh their dough into the oven at 2lb 4½oz, instead of 2lb 3oz, or 2lb 4oz. The former Chief Prices Commissioner took 6½d per 4lb loaf, or 3¼d per 2lb loaf as a basic price at which a reasonable profit could be made if sold at the bakehouse. The average actual production cost in Sydney was slightly under 2.934 per 2lb loaf. This gave, therefore, a profit of nearly 11 per cent. All overhead charges were included in the total cost. This profit was net.

The complaints made in Melbourne as to undercutting were not echoed in Sydney, and the accounts furnished to the commission showed that the industry in Sydney was distinctly prosperous under the present prices, though the profits were not exorbitant. The evidence taken by the commission in Sydney confirmed the opinion already expressed as to the necessity of the price fixed for wheat, namely, 4/9 a bushel. Examination of milling cost in Sydney and Melbourne disclosed no reason for any distinction in the prices of flour.

Reference is made in the report to the evidence given by Dr. H. G. Chapman, of the Sydney University, as to experiments he had made, which had resulted in shortening the period of dough fermentation from 8½ hours to 5 hours. These results were criticised by the president of the Master Bakers' Association from several points of view, but, in spite of these criticisms, it appeared to the commission that in time the trade might profit greatly from these experiments.

RED CROSS SOCIETY.

At a meeting of the executive of the Red Cross Society on Thursday, at 40 Bridge-street, Mr. J. O. Fairfax presiding, letters were received from Major Edginton, Assistant-Commissioner for Egypt, in which he said:—"The fighting in Palestine has been vigorously carried on, but it has been difficult to get forward anything except necessaries. In spite of this we managed to distribute 840 cases during the month, and from our advanced depot at Ramleh we were able to get through such light comforts as cigarettes, sweets, lamps, etc., also a few blankets and flannel pyjamas. We have also distributed oranges freely to all medical units as septic sores are very rife among our men, and sound fruit costs only 3s per hundred."

The constitution of the Red Cross Society provides that the wives of the Governors shall occupy the position of president of each division. Lady Davidson, therefore, is now the president of the Red Cross Society of New South Wales.

NURSE'S DEATH.

Staff-nurse Lillie Nugent, who had been attached to the Base Military Hospital at Brisbane, died at St. Vincent's private hospital on Thursday. She was buried with military honours at the Rookwood Cemetery, yesterday afternoon, and the firing party was supplied by the Engineers' Depot. Amongst those present at the funeral were Captain Kater, Lieutenant-colonel Humphrey, Miss Ennis, Miss Russell (matron of the Garrison Hospital), Miss Veenman (matron of Randwick Hospital), and Miss Mulholland (head sister of the Liverpool Field Hospital).

X DISEASE.

Another death from X disease has occurred in the hospital—a little girl, 4 years of age. Other patients are reported to be in a serious condition. So far there have been six deaths in hospital from the disease.

WAR CASUALTIES.

KILLED.

CORPORAL C. H. H. PRATT.

Information has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Pratt, of Eskdale, West-street, Hurstville, that their eldest son, aged 24 years, has been officially reported killed in action in France. He enlisted in June, 1916, successfully passed through the non-com. officers' school at La Perouse in October, and left Australia as sergeant. He was educated at the Leichhardt S. P. School, and was a member of the Presbyterian Fellowship cricket and football clubs. At the time of enlisting he was employed at the Public Works Department, and was for four years previously at W. S. Friend and Co.

Mrs. Rose Worth, of Ruthven-street, Waverley, has been officially informed that her eldest son, Private Hector Clayton Worth, has been killed in action. He was previously reported missing since May 3, 1917. Prior to enlisting he was on the clerical staff, Australian Gas-Light Company.

News has been received at Riverview College that ex-student Lieut. Godfrey Johnstone, of Hawkes Bay, N.Z., was killed in action in France on January 30 last year. The late officer was captain of the football team at the Hawkesbury Agricultural College, where he was a student for several years after leaving Riverview.

ILL.

Mrs. L. Rogerson, of Terry-street, Blakehurst, has been informed that her son, Driver Sid. Rogerson, is in hospital in France, suffering from trench fever.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ellis, of Tilba Tilba, White-street, Balmain, have received information that their son, Private John N. Ellis, is ill in hospital in France.

News has been received by Mrs. J. T. Staples, of High Lawn, Regent-street, Kingston, that her son, Driver Frederick Staples, of the Australian Field Artillery, is returning home invalided, after over two years' active service in France.

AUSTRALIANS HONOURED.

Mrs. N. Maher, of 216 Annandale-street, Annandale, has received word that her brother, Sergeant J. J. M'Carthy, has been awarded the Military Medal for conspicuous gallantry on the battlefield in France. He left with the first contingent.

Major J. C. Selmes, D.S.O., of the R.A.A., a city accountant (son of Captain Jeremiah Selmes, of North Sydney, well known as a sea captain for nearly half a century), has been reported wounded on four different occasions. He has also been gassed, but is still on duty at the front. Major Selmes saw his first active service during the South African campaign, being a militia man, drafted into the battery for the campaign only. He later took up a commission with the Militia Field Artillery, and on war being declared, sailed with the first contingent as lieutenant. He was wounded on Gallipoli, and was in hospital at Alexandria for a short period, but returned to duty on the peninsula. For his work there he was promoted to captain. After the evacuation, he proceeded to France with his battery, arriving in April, 1916, and has been continuously in the firing line ever since. He was mentioned in despatches, awarded the D.S.O., for service in 1917, and has since received his majority, and again been mentioned. He has three brothers, also in the artillery, and a fourth brother is about to embark.

Lieut. F. S. Cornett, who has been awarded the Military Cross, is 23 years of age, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cornett, of Claris Park, Trundle. He enlisted in August, 1914, as a trooper in the machine-gun section, attached to the Light Horse, and sailed in December, under General Ryrie. He served in Gallipoli, and was wounded at Lone Pine. After three months' treatment in hospital he returned to Egypt, and resumed duty with his regiment. Lieut. Cornett has since gone through the Palestine campaign, during which he gained his stripes and commission on the field. He won the Military Cross for leading a machine-gun squadron after all the other officers had become casualties.

REGAINING TRADE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

"What united action can we take to see what we, as representatives of the British manufacturers, can do, not only to regain lost trade for our principals, but to increase it?" asked Mr. M. C. Coates, president of the Australian Association of British Manufacturers, and their representatives at the annual meeting held yesterday.

Mr. T. W. Heath (Messrs. T. W. Heath and Co., Ltd., of Sydney) said that many business men in Australia were sending registered designs of British goods to Japan to be copied and put on the Australian market.

Mr. G. T. Milne, British Trade Commissioner in Australia, said that there never was a time when close co-operation between all the factors of production and distribution was more necessary in Great Britain and Australia.

A TAMWORTH BATTLEPLANE.

The residents of Tamworth and district have presented to the Imperial War Office, through the Australian Air Squadron Fund, the cost of a battleplane (£2703), which is to be inscribed: "Australia No. 23, New South Wales No. 20, the Tamworth and district, presented by the residents of Tamworth and district." The required amount was collected by Mrs. S. A. Trimm, of Tamworth, whose example the hon. treasurer of the fund, Mr. F. E. Bryant, manager of the Union Bank of Australia, suggests might be followed by ladies in many other Australian towns.

PARLIAMENTARY RESIGNATION.

PERTH, Friday.

In the Legislative Council yesterday Mr. Harry Boan, head of Boan Bros., who was elected to the Council not long ago, forwarded his resignation to the President. His attention, he said, had been called to the fact that a branch of the State Savings Bank was being conducted by his firm, and as that might be regarded as a contravention of the Constitution Act in respect to offices of profit under the Crown he had resigned and returned to the Treasury all emoluments received by him as a member of Parliament.

SCHOOLS AND ENLISTMENTS.

GULGONG, Friday.

Speaking at a welcome home to Private M. Ryan, last night, the Rev. Father O'Reilly said that Roman Catholics had every reason to be proud of the Roman Catholic boys at the front. The loyalty, bravery, chivalry, and nobleness they had displayed there were equal to that of the ex-pupils of other schools. A few days ago, he said, the Minister for Education, Mr. James, had again given the Catholic schools another uncalled for back-of-the-hand slap in the face, while booming the Public schools for their patriotism, and no one took exception to that. If the paper reports were correct the Minister had said that over 90 per cent. of the boys who went away were educated in the State schools. Personally, continued the speaker, he would like to know how, when, and where the Minister for Education had got this vaunted information. He challenged him to prove the inference that nine per cent. of the remaining enlistments were all that were forthcoming from all other educational establishments in the land.

LITHGOW HOUSING.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Further reference to the proposals of the Federal Ministry to construct 200 houses at Lithgow for employees of the Small Arms Factory was made by the Minister for Works and Railways yesterday. Mr. Watt said it was intended to call for tenders for batches of 25 cottages. The Federal Department of Works and Railways would design and lay out the whole scheme. When completed the houses would be sold on suitable terms of repayment to artisans employed at the factory. M. J. D. Fitzgerald, the Minister for Local Government in New South Wales, had renewed a proposal which was made in 1916 to the Federal Ministry that the town planning organisation should erect and manage these houses for the Federal authorities. Mr. Watt said that after due consideration he was advising Mr. Fitzgerald that it would not be necessary to utilise the services of his organisation as the Federal authorities would be able to do the work with their own staff.

WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES.

Mr. R. B. Gelling, hon. director in New South Wales for the War Savings campaign, addressed the employees of Farmer and Company, Limited. He was introduced by Mr. Norman Pope, a director of the company, and outlined the scheme as it applies to business houses. He stated that already the employees of 450 firms had adopted the idea, while in Great Britain the groups had resulted in £300,000,000 being subscribed. The same system has been adopted with remarkable success in New Zealand and Canada, and more recently in America. A resolution was unanimously carried to immediately form war savings groups in the establishment.

SIXTH WAR LOAN.

EFFECT ON SAVINGS BANK DEPOSITS.

An interesting comparison of Savings Bank deposits and small investments in the Commonwealth War Loan distinctly shows that during the war period the wage-earners—who are the principal Savings Bank depositors—are having an unusually prosperous time. For the sake of this comparison it is assumed that all small investments in the War Loans, up to, say, £100, are made by the same class of people who have Savings Bank accounts, which is usually the case. During the year ended June 30, 1914—that is just prior to the commencement of the war—deposits in Savings Banks throughout the Commonwealth increased by £8,756,000. During the same period, ended 1915, Savings Bank deposits increased by £7,206,000, and in addition, investments in the War Loan up to £100 totalled £560,000, or a total of £7,766,000.

For the year ended June 30, 1916, Savings Bank deposits increased by £5,072,000, and small investments in the War Loan aggregated £3,709,000, or a total of £8,781,000. Now come the figures which show, in a rather startling fashion, the increased prosperity in Australia among the working classes, due to the benefit which they have derived from good seasons, in conjunction with the increase in demand for numerous products for the purpose of equipping and maintaining our soldiers. These figures show that during the year ended June 30, 1917, Savings Bank deposits increased by £10,377,000, whilst at the same time small investments in the War Loan totalled £3,548,000, making the enormous total of £13,925,000, which has been put aside for a rainy day by the thrifty class of people who keep Savings Bank accounts and invest small amounts in the Commonwealth War Loan.

1914	8,756,000	—	8,756,000
1915	7,206,000	560,000	7,766,000
1916	5,072,000	3,709,000	8,781,000
1917	10,377,000	3,548,000	13,925,000

This shows how completely the wheels of industry in Australia have been kept revolving so far as our wage earners are concerned, and the benefit which they are obtaining from the issue of the War Loan. Though there was a slight set-back in 1915, this was more than overtaken in 1916, whilst the 1917 figures speak for themselves.

In this connection it may be pointed out that of the estimated amount of £60,000,000 required by the Commonwealth for war purposes during the current financial period, approximately £40,000,000 will be actually spent in Australia in the shape of military pay and payment for the equipment and foodstuffs, etc., required for our soldiers. The whole of this large amount will therefore go into circulation in Australia, principally amongst the dependents of soldiers and wage-earners who have benefited from similar factors in the past, as demonstrated by the figures shown above, and who will benefit still further from the same cause as the money obtained by way of War Loans is disbursed by the Commonwealth Government.

INCOME TAXES.

"Syndicate": The department regards the holder of the ticket who receives the money as responsible for the tax. "W.F.J.": All the assessments are late. If you want an extension in beyond the time stated in the assessment notice, you should apply to the Commission for Taxation, Warwick-building, Hamilton-street, stating the reason for your application.

"P.W.H."—A separate assessment is issued for each prize, as soon as knowledge of the prize reaches the commissioner. If it were not so the money in the care of a large prize would probably be spent before the taxation department received its share.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

Chemicals were steady yesterday, but business was quiet. The restrictions of the Government are preventing trading in the sodas. In chemicals, as in all other lines, it is now a good rule if a commodity is wanted, to take it where it is offered. If there is any delay the chances are that the price goes up. It never recedes. Caustic soda was quoted nominally at £95. Melbourne was offering at £94. Strychnine sold at 10/6 an ounce. Arsenic sold at £75 a ton for fine white.

Further buying of fish was reported. Five hundred cases of pink salmon were disposed of at 13/. Clothes pegs had sales at 7/6 per five-gross box net. Clothes pegs now on the way will cost 10/ to land.

A sale of turpentine, about 600 cases was made at 5/6. With high freights and increased risk from damage, owing to shipment being made in sailers, some importers are buying whenever they can on the local market.

A strong inquiry was noticed for galvanised iron. The same risk of damage is evident in this line, as in turpentine, mentioned above. Sales of parcel lines of No. 8 black wire have been made at £46, and No. 10 at £48. Galvanised wire sold at £48 for No. 8, and £50 for No. 10.

The tea market concentrated its attention on three shipments now in evidence to the neglect of the auction sale. At that sale the bidding was without spirit, and prices offered did not reach vendors' ideas of value. At the auction sale at Colombo next Tuesday only 500,000lb will be offered. On the local market considerable sales have been made out of the three recent shipments up to 1/3½. All of these teas showed considerable improvement in make and in liquor, while the quality of the finer grades was very high. Grade teas were unusually bright and attractive. Prices in Colombo last Tuesday were from /1¼ to /2¼ above the rates at which these teas were imported. The result is that importers here are not operating in Colombo. Both England and America are buying these. Fannings have advanced with a strong demand, anything up to /2¼ per lb., compared with previous rates. Crop prospects in Ceylon are generally poorer, and small supplies are expected from now to the end of March.

Woolpacks were quoted yesterday at 5/3 to 5/4½, according to quantity taken. Forward 4/9 slings was asked for April-May-June shipment. A cable regarding cornsacks, quoted 10/ for season's shipments, c.i.f., and e., Calcutta terms. Branbags were irregularly quoted from 9/4½ to 9/6. Business in this line was slow.

DEARER FRUIT.

Mr. M. McCann, of Camden, writes:—

Sir,—I was in King-street yesterday, and noticed apples in several windows at 1/6 per dozen, which, of course, was too high for ordinary wage people to buy. I happened to be at two separate farms to-day, and better apples were being fed to pigs, as growers say it does not pay to send to market. There seems something wrong somewhere, especially when you have people in the city area cleaning out the garbage tins for food.

MINING.

An active business was transacted in the mining division of the Stock Exchange yesterday.

A serious fire occurred about 3 o'clock yesterday morning, when a galvanised iron building 30ft by 24ft, owned by Messrs. J. T. Horne and Sons, together with contents valued at between £600 and £700, and comprising furniture, were consumed by the flames. Mr. V. F. Wiltshire, who recently left here for Inverell, had household furniture in the building, and other sufferers were Messrs. H. Curtis, R. Gardiner, and A. Knight. SMALL ARMS FACTORY.

LITHGOW, Friday.

At a meeting of members of the Small Arms Union a long discussion arose in relation to the transference of members from the Australian Society of Engineers to the Factory Union, and the payment of war bonus to them as bona fide members of the latter. A reply from the Defence Department was to the effect that it could not undertake the function of arbiter between unions. It was for the secretary of the organisation which entered into an agreement with the Minister—the Small Arms Factory Union—to say who are members of his organisation and his certificate of membership can be accepted for payment of the war bonus to any employee irrespective of membership of any other organisation. This reply was considered satisfactory.

In relation to the dismissal of a member who, it was stated, was given a week's wages in lieu of notice, and was told that he could apply to the Minister for Defence for the reasons prompting his discharge, the meeting, after much discussion, decided to telegraph to the Minister. It was claimed that the member had been victimised, and a decision was come to that every effort be made to secure his reemployment or a satisfactory reason for his peremptory discharge.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Race meetings will be held to-day as follows:—Canterbury Park, Kensington (pony and galloway), Manning River J.C., Mudgee J.C., V.A.T.C. Autumn Meeting (Caulfield: Futurity Stakes Day), W.A.T.C. Meeting (Perth), and S.A.J.C. Meeting (Adelaide).

Sydney horses have been unlucky in their training at Melbourne. [illegible], the last to be relieved of all his engagements, has had rather a stormy career. He had to run the gauntlet of two protests at Randwick before securing the prize.

Registration has been granted by the A.J.C. to the following race meetings:—Coraki [illegible] Tattersall's T.C., March 20 and 21; Dubbo, March 14; [illegible] March 22 and 23; Wilcannia Picnic R.C., March 22.

Canterbury Park Jockey Club's programme for to-day will be extended to seven events, owing to divisions being necessary in the first race, the Maiden Handicap, the first of which will start at 1.40. A frequent special train service has been arranged, and, given fine weather, a pleasurable outing should result. Some [illegible] should be found amongst the following:—Maiden Handicap: First division, Jack Paddington, Tiruna, Coolaffton; second division, Bezant, [illegible], Persian Shield. Flying Handicap: Consure, Snow King, Daddy Christmas. Jimmers' First Race: Dual, Cordon Rouge, Prince Manin. Flying Handicap: Orierta, Heydame, Mal[illegible]. Canterbury Park Cup: Medley, Tokin, The Christian Patriot. Welter Mile: Bounding Lad, Zadelah, [illegible] Wedgewood.

The Kensington Racing Club's pony and galloway meeting to-day will probably give speculators a [illegible] chance to anticipate the index before the day's sport is through. The first race will start at 1 o'clock, and special trams will run direct to the course in addition to the [illegible] Long Bay service. The following candidates may show a profit to investors:—Maiden Flat [illegible]: First division, Prosaic, Parson's Lad; second division, Duke of Marlborough, Lana Star, Earl [illegible]; third division, Pat, Forward, [illegible]. [illegible] Handicap: First division, [illegible], Malline Blackwell; second division, Nova, Sweet Joan, Field Daisy. Flying Handicap: First division, Brown Moose, Ida Dondi; [illegible]; second division, Acoustics, Kaleelah, [illegible]. Pony Handicap: Footprint, Flying Arrow, [illegible]. Fourteen-two Handicap: First division, Lady [illegible], Thelma C., My Delight; second division, [illegible], Alter Walk, Lucy Alwyne. [illegible] Handicap: First division, Cysallad, Easy, Within the Law; second division, Hazel H., Oakell, [illegible].

Entries for the Rosehill Racing Club's two days' meeting on March 9 and 16 will close on Monday at 4 o'clock with the secretary, Mr. Geo. W. S. Rowe.

Newmarket Handicap favouritism is shared by Petrovia, Que hera, and Victrella, the next fancied being Cetigne, Panacre, and Poitrina, with Wedge and Remmon next. For the Australian Cup Wallace Isinglass and Red Pennant are on the same mark, and the [illegible] Trouble is very close to them for popular choice. Lingle, Telecles, and Defence are also inquired for.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs that Cetigne was scratched at 10 a.m. yesterday for the V.A.T.C. Futurity Stakes.

"H.K." (Sydney): Snow King was scratched for the A.J.C. Anniversary Handicap at 11.55 on the day of the race.

"J.T." (North Sydney): The secretary of the Associated Clubs may supply the information.

Messrs. William Inglis and Son announce that they will hold their annual sale of thoroughbred yearlings at Tattersall's stables, Randwick. Their catalogue of 280 youngsters will be submitted on Tuesday, April 2, at 10.30 a.m., Friday, April 5, at 10.30 a.m., and Monday, April 8, at 2 p.m. On Tuesday, April 9, they will start on a catalogue of miscellaneous thoroughbreds, including [illegible] importations from England.

LATEST SCRATCHINGS.

Scratchings recorded yesterday were:—

A.J.C. AUTUMN MEETING.

St. Leger Stakes: Cutfuse.
Champagne Stakes: Opposita.

VICTORIA AMATEUR TURF CLUB.

FUTURITY STAKES DAY.

To-day will close the Victorian Amateur Turf Club's autumn meeting, the principal attraction of the day being the 21st Futurity Stakes. The six events on the programme are timed to start as follow:—

St. Clair Trial, 1 p.m.
Alma Stakes, 1.35 p.m.
Woodcliff Handicap, 2 p.m.
Futurity Stakes, 2.40 p.m.
Stanley Steeplechase, 3.20 p.m.
Hawthorn Handicap, 5 p.m.

A dozen horses have accepted for the opening event, the St. Clair Trial—over 1m 1f, and the places may go to Boltane, Amadis, and Duntulm. The Alma Stakes, 6f, promises to bring out a numerous field, with "Mr. Devon's" colt, Liquid Fire, at the top of the list with 9st 5lb. He may secure the honour position behind Eusebius and Queen Comedy. Bronzetti will be given a chance in the Woodcliff Handicap to display something of his form in the going on the same course, and should carry his 8st 4lb to the front and be followed home by Two Blues and Telecles. With these events decided the Futurity Stakes will give the public another opportunity of seeing the New Zealand champion, Desert Gold. After her decisive victory last Saturday it would appear unnecessary to look beyond her for the winner. She has continued to train on satisfactorily, and will no doubt find more [illegible] to-morrow; but she will need all speed up to beat Wedge, whose track work has [illegible] wonderful pace. Cetigne was withdrawn early yesterday, and his absence will detract somewhat from the interest in the race. The places should be filled by Desert Gold, Wedge, and Remmon. The Stanley Steeplechase may result in a win for [illegible], with [illegible] and Indian Arms in attendance. The meeting will close with the Hawthorn Handicap, for which the largest field of the day will appear over [illegible] furlongs. Several Newmarket candidates are engaged, and as it is [illegible] of one of them will not be [illegible] for the V.R.C. event, the first three to finish may be Pah King, The Rogue, and Alcoonet.

AMUSEMENTS.

CRITERION—"DADDY LONG LEGS."

"Daddy Long Legs" is drawing large audiences at the Criterion, where audiences vastly enjoy the romance of the love-story as alluringly presented by Kathlene Macdonell and Charles Waldron. There will be matinees on Wednesday and Friday of this favourite play, in which the principals will make their farewell on Tuesday, March 5, afterwards leaving for Brisbane.

RETURN OF MARIE TEMPEST.

This famous artist and Mr. Graham Browne, who are now closing their New Zealand tour, will return in time to open a farewell season at the Criterion on Wednesday, March 6. Somerset Maugham's witty play, "Mrs. Dot," will then be produced for the first time here, with the two principals in the character they originally created at the London Comedy Theatre, where the piece enjoyed a long run. Ian Maclaren has joined the support, which still includes Sydney Stirling, Leslie Victor, Ethel Morrison, and other artists. The plan will open at Paling's next Thursday.

HER MAJESTY'S—"THE BING BOYS."

Surging crowds at Her Majesty's Theatre continue to show that "The Bing Boys Are Here," and the management has now decided to carry the revue a little over Easter to meet the wishes of country visitors to the show, who will naturally expect to see Jack Cannot and Minnie Love, Leslie Holland, Maie Baird, and the other artists of the cast in the new and wonderfully popular piece. There will be a matinee to-day.

Mr. George Matheson, so widely and favourably known as business manager at the premier playhouse, has now been promoted to a responsible post at the head office of the J. C. Williamson direction, with which he has been closely associated since 1901 continuously. He will be succeeded at Her Majesty's by Mr. Dick Stewart, for long years actor and touring manager with the same firm.

PALACE—"PEG O' MY HEART."

This afternoon (2 o'clock) and evening Sara Allgood and her associates in the J. and N. Tait Comedy Company will reopen for a fortnight's season in Hartley Manners' vivacious comedy "Peg o' My Heart," the piece which established a record run upon its original introduction at the same theatre. There are but few changes in the cast, which will be as follows:—Peg, Sara Allgood; Ethel Chichester, Beatrice Yaldwyn; Mrs. Chichester, Doris Gilham; Jerry, Gerald Henson; Christopher Brent, Cyril Mackay; Montgomery Hawkes, G. Kay Souper; Alaric, Cecil Brooking; Butler, Alfred Harford; Bennett, Betty MacMillan.

The "Turn to the Right" combination was accorded an enthusiastic send-off last night, and now leaves for Melbourne.

"ALADDIN" PANTOMIME.

The new "Aladdin" pantomime will follow "Peg" at the Palace Theatre on Saturday, March 9. Barry Lupino and Bert Bailey (Dame) will be the principal comedians, with Winifred La France as principal boy, and Zola Terrell as principal dancer. The cast should prove strong, as it will also include Olive Godwin, Favette Perry, Andrew Higginson, Lalla De Beere, Gladys Thomas, Bert Barton, Fred Macdonald, Fred Monument, and other artists. The new extravaganza has been richly staged by J. and N. Tait. The plan will open at Nicholson's Monday, March 4.

OPERA HOUSE—"ROBINSON CRUSOE."

At the Grand Opera House to-day there will be a matinee at 2.15 of "Robinson Crusoe," which now enters upon the last 12 nights of a run which will record its 100th performance on Thursday next. The scenic splendour of Rainbow Island is supported by dazzling ballets and marches, whilst the fun is headed by Victor Prince in the name part. Messrs. Ben. and John Fuller now notify that children will be admitted to any part of the house for sixpence, a concession sure to be appreciated during these last nights.

STROLLERS AT THE PLAYHOUSE.

This afternoon (2.30) and at night the Strollers will continue their prosperous season at the Playhouse with a new first part in which Sydney James will be seen with his humorous band in the Faust and Marguerite burlesque, in the skit on the "Would-be Actors," and in the take-off of the balcony scene in "Romeo and Juliet." The potted pantomime "Aladdin," with Mr. James as the Widow Twankey, is still causing uproarious laughter and forms a popular contribution to a bright entertainment.

TIVOLI THEATRE—"SAMPLES."

There is no diminution in the popularity of "Samples" at the Tivoli Theatre. There will be a matinee to-day, when the jolly revue enters upon its third week. Monday afternoon only there will be a novelty matinee, when a water pantomime will be staged for the first time in Australia. The occasion marks the debut of Skinny Lalla, a French clown who falls unexpectedly into the water on the slightest provocation. A bevy of girls will give exhibitions of diving, whilst over a dozen vaudeville turns will be staged.

TOWN HALL POPULAR CONCERTS.

The Royal Philharmonic Society of Sydney has prepared a splendid programme of oratorio numbers for to-night's Saturday Popular Concert at the Town Hall, when the State Governor and suite will be present. Mr. Herbert R. Marriner (hon. sec.) notifies that the season is to be extended owing to its remarkable success. Mr. Joseph Bradley will conduct the choir and orchestra (leader, Henri Staell) in "O Father, Whose Almighty Power," the "Hailstone" and the "Hallelujah" choruses of Handel, as well as in ensembles by Mendelssohn and Berlioz. Miss Ella Caspers will sing the beautiful prayer from "Eli," and "But the Lord is Mindful" ("St. Paul"). Miss Muriel Barton will sing "Hear Ye, Israel," and both ladies will join in "I Waited for the Lord." Mr. Paul [illegible] will sing "In Native Worth," and other tenor arias. Mr. Vern Barnett will be solo organist.

EDITH CAVELL FUND CONCERT.

During the week Mmes. Verbrugghen and Watson [illegible], and Messrs. James Chalmers and James Johnston, members of a committee completed by Mr. Farmer Whyte, who has since joined, held a preliminary meeting in connection with a proposed concert in aid of the Edith Cavell Memorial Fund. The best artistic assistance will be organised for a first-rate entertainment, the business side of the proposition will not be neglected, and every effort will be made to ensure the complete success of a concert fixed for May 21 at the Town Hall in aid of this patriotic movement.

BURNS CLUB CONCERT.

This evening (7.45) the Burns Club will give its monthly concert at the Protestant Hall, with Mr. W. Shearer as musical director, Miss Agnes Chambers as accompanist, and the Burns' Anniversary Club choir, Misses Winnie Fraser, Millie Cleland, Lizzie Jamieson, Marjorie Hadden, Messrs. A. E. Benham, Ernest Archer, James Chalmers, and Master Alick Johnston, as principals.

ROYAL NORTH SHORE HOSPITAL.

In aid of the Royal North Shore Hospital a promenade entertainment will be given in the extensive rose garden of Beulah Flats, Milson's Point, this evening. Strong artistic assistance has been promised by Misses Carrie Lanceley (soprano), Nellie Felton (contralto), Charles Smythe (basso), and Harry Thomas (elocutionist).

CONSERVATORIUM OF MUSIC.

The first term of the 1918 session of the Conservatorium will commence on Monday next, when full activities will be resumed, including evening classes in theory of music, harmony, history of music, musical form and analysis. Attention is drawn to the special concessions that will be made this year to subscribers to the lecture and orchestral concerts, also to the programme of the Good Friday Night concert, which is now advertised.

WIRTHS' CIRCUS.

Wirths' Circus will open its 38th Sydney season at the Hippodrome, Haymarket, on Saturday, March 16, with an entirely new company. Mr. Philip Wirth has received a cable from his sister in America that all the members of the new company have already left by the R.M.S. Sonoma. Included in the new company will be the six Celenes, who do a marvellous act on the wire; the Lingard Sisters, aerial artists; the five Iselvins, gentlemen acrobats, the four Human Aeroplanes, and other star turns.

HOYT'S PICTURE THEATRE.

Admirers of Mary Pickford will have opportunities next week of seeing the young American actress in "The Little American," a war-time silent drama, at Hoyt's Picture Theatre in George-street. This cinematograph production is made up of eight reels. The screening will be from 11 a.m. till 10.30 p.m., with a time limit of one week.

THE STRAND.

The change of films to-day at the Strand in Pitt-street, opposite Farmer's, will bring forth "Until They Get Me," a Triangle five-act photo-play, showing Pauline Starke and Joe King. "Convict 993," a Pathe production, with Mrs. Vernon Castle in the principal part, and a comedy subject, "The Movie Dummy." These pictures will also be shown next week. Dr. Green's orchestra supplies the music at the Strand evening sessions.

UNION PICTURE THEATRES.

Patrons of the Crystal Palace next week will see Claire McDowell and Monte Blue in a Triangle production, "The Ship of Doom," with "An Officer's Mess" and part 13 of "The History of the War" as other features. At the Lyric Theatre Norma Talmadge in "The Law of Compensation" will be screened for the first time on Monday next, with the Gaumont graphic and the Australian Gazette. The new programme at the Empress Theatre will include Corinne Griffith in "I Will Repay," and George Walsh in a Fox production, "The Pride of New York."

On Monday and following evenings next week Dorothy Kelly and Montague Love will be seen in "The Awakening," a five-act photo play. Episode 3 of "The Fatal Ring," and a Keystone comedy will also be presented. "Durand of The Bad Lands" will be screened on Thursday next.

WADDINGTON'S PICTURES.

The "Stainless Barrier," with Irene Hunt in the principal part, will be screened at the Grand on Monday. "The Square Deceiver," episode 11, of "Gems of Jeopardy," and "The Joy Riders" are the other new films. There will be two changes next week at the Majestic. For Monday "The Square Deceiver," episode 11 of "Gems of Jeopardy," and "An Iceman's Bride," are announced. On Thursday "The Lone Wolf," with Hazel Dawn and Bert Lytell, will be presented, with the Triangle comedy, "His Household Butterfly." On Thursday night at Eslick's Palladium, the eighth fancy dress carnival of the season was held. The management announces a harbour carnival to Clifton Gardens on Wednesday night. Steamers will leave Fort Macquarie at 8 o'clock.

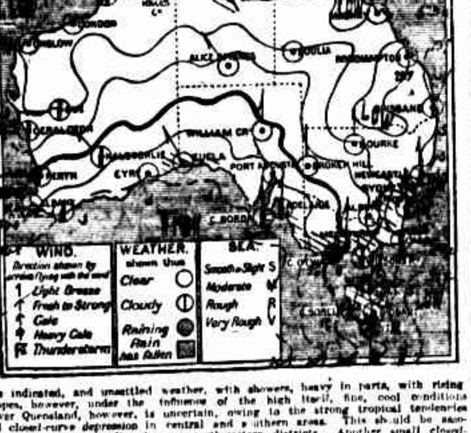
WELSH CHORAL SOCIETY.

Next Saturday evening, at the Conservatorium, the Welsh Choral Society (in association with the Cymmrodorion Society) will celebrate St. David's Day by the performance of Mendelssohn's symphonic cantata, "The Hymn of Praise." Mr. E. H. Jones will conduct a numerous body of voices, with Elvie Pethers, Agnes Kenney, and Edward Wynn as principals, and F. Mowat Carter as leader of the orchestra. There will be a brief programme of Welsh music also. The plan, at popular prices, is at Paling's.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



Since 9 a.m. on Thursday the high pressure which was over the south-western quarter of Australia has made about 500 miles easting, and thus brought a decided southerly change to New South Wales. This has been responsible for considerable reductions in the temperatures. In the far south-western districts the 9 a.m. readings on Friday were below 60 degrees. The wind rapidly increased in force as the coastal districts were reached, and several places reported moderate gales at 9 a.m. on Friday. This easting of the high has done much to dislodge seaward the rather nondescript depression which on Thursday occupied such a large area of the eastern States. The unstable conditions now cover only a comparatively small region in eastern New South Wales, the central energy of which is over the Tasman Sea at about Lord Howe Island. With the strong high now centred over the Bight to the south-east of Esperance, and the disturbance in proximity to the coast of our State, squally and strong southerly winds (south-west to south-east) are indicated, and unsettled weather, with showers, heavy in parts, with rising seas. Westward from the slopes, however, under the influence of the high itself, fine, cool conditions should rule. The weather over Queensland, however, is uncertain, owing to the strong tropical tendencies there, represented by a small closed-curve depression in central and southern areas. This should be associated with thundery conditions, probably extending to our north-eastern districts. Another small closed-curve depression was on Friday morning shown over the tropical coast of Queensland, where further rain, with thunderstorms, is also indicated.

Ocean Forecast.—Strong southerly winds to gales on New South Wales coast; generally smooth to moderate elsewhere. Data wanting from the north-west coast.

ASSIST THE MOULT BY PROPER FEEDING.
The "Poultry Bulletin"—December 18th, says:—
"Respecting foods the birds will require such as are rich in albuminoids. A most valuable addition to the menu during the moulting period is MEGGITT'S LINSEED OIL MEAL. It not only assists in the growth of new feathers, but it builds up the constitution of the birds partaking of it in a wonderful manner. At all seasons of the year it is a most valuable adjunct to the poultry ration, but at moulting time it is actually indispensable."
MEGGITTS builds bone, meat, eggs, and feathers.
Accustom the Hens to it gradually and watch results.

FOLLOW A SYSTEM.
Your Poultry-keeping operations will be more successful and more pleasant if you carry them out systematically. This particularly applies to feeding methods. More eggs are lost through the wrong use of good foods than is dreamed of. If you want to cut out the losses and simplify feeding methods, and at the same time secure the maximum output from your birds, then follow "Thorpe's Way." There is a "Thorpe's food" for every Poultry feed need. Chick Food for the chickens, Growing foods for growing stock, and Laying Foods for the layers. Thorpe's Foods are not extra expense, but sound economy.

HOUSES AND LAND FOR SALE.

THE CHARMS OF WOY WOY!

'Tis risky to bet,
They tell us, and yet,
This tip you will find is worth noting—
Just bet a long price
That Ettalong's nice
For fishing, and bathing, and boating
(A. Rickard and Co.,
You'll notice below,
Some Ettalong prices are quoting.)

And, the prices are, you'll be astonished to find, exceptionally low for such high-class land. They range from only 20/ per foot for absolute Beach Frontages, with an uninterrupted view of the big, bounding, billowy ocean, and the best of surfing, fishing, boating, etc., right at your hand.

You could never surpass the splendid value of these choice allotments, and as they're selling quickly, you'd better hurry up and make your selection. Remember, ETTALONG BEACH ESTATE is only 15 minutes' motor ride from Woy Woy Station, and only 20/ PER FOOT for glorious blocks. CAMP SITES from just £12/10/ each.

Then we have other delightful properties in this gorgeous fairyland, which are well worthy of your inspection. There's PRETTY BEACH ESTATE and PRETTY BEACH EXTENSION, both of which are extremely popular spots on the Brisbane Water, and possess all the necessary conveniences for residents on the properties. Charming Waterside Blocks are for Sale at from £17/10/ each.

EMPIRE BAY is another well-known and most delightful pleasure resort. It has excellent fishing, boating, bathing, etc., within a few yards of the estate, and you can purchase very cheap allotments from only £15 each.

Close to our glorious Ettalong Beach is RESTWELL ESTATE—a charming property with fine views, and a good surf beach. Rare Value in Choice Allotments from £18/10/ each.

A BOON FOR BENEDICTS!

If weary of a City life
Just take your young and pretty wife
Away from Sydney's gritty life,
To where sweet nature charms.
We know your inability
To equal the fertility,
Or the accessibility,
Of Bankstown's Little Farms.

You can grow anything on a BANKSTOWN FARMLET, from peanuts to whiskers, and we've got some real dinkum stuff on GREENACRE PARK ESTATE, suitable for fruit, flower, vegetable growing, and poultry. Acre Blocks from £40/10/ each, close to the Station, and in a good position.

WATTAWA HEIGHTS ESTATE is the property that's in the boom just now. It has such a splendid position, high, and healthy, commanding extensive views, with a fresh bracing air, and possessing deep rich chocolate soil, suitable for growing all the home necessities by way of fruit, vegetables, etc. The allotments are extremely large, so that you can reckon on saving a good deal in greengrocer's and butcher's bills if you live on this lovely estate.

Big, beautiful Blocks, from 11/6 per foot, or £28 each.

Adjoining Wattawa Heights Estate is our fine old record breaker—CONDELL PARK ESTATE, on which there are still some good Home Sites for Sale, from 14/6 per foot, with good garden soil, handy to the township.

In a nice, bright, and healthy position is our NEW ERA ESTATE, which offers profitable investment in cosy allotments, from only 18/6 per foot.

BEACONSFIELD—that well-known Estate—close to the junction of George's River-road and Chapel-street, has some splendid blocks with good soil, from £21 each.

If you take the regular Motor 'Bus from Bankstown Station you will quickly arrive at SYDNEY PARK, where we have some nice Residential Sites from only £17/10/ each.

But the champion of all our Bankstown Estates is BORONIA PARK. It is about 3 miles from the station, and adjoins the township of EAST HILLS. The soil is of the greatest fertility, unequalled for market gardening, fruit-growing, and poultry-keeping. Its surroundings are ideally rural, and you simply couldn't go wrong in buying a block of this lovely land. The Farms are from 1 to 5 acres, at from £25 per acre, with Half-acre Blocks from £28/10/ each. Charming Home Sites from £22/10/ per Block.

DON'T WASTE TIME.

Jack and Jill went up the hill
To get a parson's blessing;
Now Jack and Jill at Wentworthville
Are steadily progressing.

That's the programme. Find your Jill, buy the ring, settle down on a RICKARD FARMLET, start making money right away, and live happily ever afterward. A fine crop of golden googies can be grown on our charming, fertile, and absolutely enchanting DOROTHY MOUNT ESTATE, which is situated at WENTWORTHVILLE, that flourishing township on the Great Western Line, 18 miles from Sydney, and a Suburb of Parramatta.

DOROTHY MOUNT ESTATE is only a few minutes' walk from the station, overlooks the township, commands delightful panoramic views, and has a fresh, bracing climate.

The land is of the best, and admirably adapted for market gardening, fruit, and the position ideal for fowls and bees.

Glorious Farmlets, from 1 to 1½ acre, at from £30/10/ per acre, and for a pretty rural-suburban home you couldn't do better than a Dorothy Mount Home Site, at 2/6 per foot.

The WENTWORTHVILLE FARMS offer a wide scope for energetic agriculturalists to make easy money. They are of deep rich soil, handy to the town and station, and unsurpassed for farming, poultry, etc.

FARMS from 2½ acres, at from £105 per block.

TOONGABBIE PARK ESTATE adjoins Girraween Estate, and is a magnificent tract of rich undulating land, excellent for mixed farming, dairying, poultry, bees, etc., with city water supply along one boundary, and bus service from Wentworthville Station.

On these Fine Farmlets you can lead the free and happy life of the country, and make a sure and profitable living, almost within cooee of the city.

This is proved by the fact that farmers are continually pulling 80 bushels of corn to the acre, and also digging 10 tons of potatoes to the acre. Returns can be seen at the butter factory, where farmers are showing up to 47/6 per cow.

This speaks volumes for the district, which is only 60 miles from Sydney and 40 from Newcastle, with excellent train service.

FURRACABAD FARMS,
GLEN INNES.

These Farms (2 to 4 miles from the town) are improved, fenced, cleared, and cultivated. They are ready for occupation and working forthwith. Most of them have good frontage to Furracabad Creek—a fine perennial stream. Water is obtainable at moderate depth by sinking wells.

The rainfall is 32 inches, well distributed throughout the year. Drought is unknown. The elevation is 3500 feet above sea level, and the climate is delightful.

The soil is rich and deep, and very suitable for Orcharding—excellent Cherry and Apple Crops being obtainable. The district is one of the best for Dairying, and the town has an Up-to-date Butter Factory. Poultry-raising, and other side lines give good results.

GLEN INNES is one of THE MOST PROGRESSIVE COUNTRY TOWNS. The increase in population from 1901 to 1911 was only exceeded by one other country town in the State. It has all the institutions found in go-ahead centres, including an excellent district school, at which a modern High School education is available.

The Farms range from 71 to 178 ACRES IN AREA—by taking two adjoining farms an area of 292 acres can be secured. Prices are from £8 to £8/10/ per acre.

TERMS: 10 per cent. deposit, and annual payments of 10 per cent. Buyers can pay off at any time.
Interest on half-yearly balances—6 per cent.
Arrangements can be made for inspection at any time.

ACCOUNTANCY.
THE PROOF.
The success of our students at the examinations is the best possible proof of the efficiency of our methods of teaching Accountancy. Our total results these two Institutes alone aggregate 696 for 1916 and 1917.
Our grand aggregate to December 31st, 1917, totals over 2800, with other results still to come.
These facts and figures cannot be lightly passed by by any young man desirous of qualifying.
We stake our reputations as Public Accountants for over twenty years on the accuracy of every figure and result we publish and every statement we make.
The majority of the men qualifying as Accountants in Australia and New Zealand are students of Hemingway and Robertson.

A FIFTY PER CENT. SALARY INCREASE FOR AMBITIOUS BOOKKEEPERS AND CLERKS.
If you are a Bookkeeper or Clerk, how does the prospect of increasing your salary by, at least, 50 per cent. appeal to you?
You can secure this increase and MORE if you will acquire specialised knowledge not possessed by your fellow Clerks—if you are able to perform work of a MORE VALUABLE character than adding up figures and making postings.
By securing your Accountancy qualification, a promotion from your present position, or a much better position, with more congenial work and brighter prospects, will certainly be yours.
Don't think you can make headway without special knowledge, for you CANNOT.
Don't run away with the impression that Accountancy calls for special ability not possessed by you. Don't think you will be called upon to make a big sacrifice of time and money in order to increase your earning power FOR YOU WILL NOT.
For your benefit we have published an interesting 97-page book, and it will be well worth your while to apply for a copy, even though at this moment you cannot see how an Accountancy training will help you.
You WANT that 50 per cent. increase—this book will show you how to get it. Call, phone, or write for a FREE COPY this morning.

LADIES, LET THERE BE NO MISTAKE.
WEIGH OUR WORDS, AS EVERY WORD IS TRUE.
In 20 years we have built our business on STRAIGHT BUSINESS DEALINGS, and we are not going to lose it by a misrepresentation of facts.
THE DEMAND FOR CHOCOLATES IS ENORMOUS.
YOU CAN SELL EVERY OZ. YOU MAKE,

LADIES,
PREPAREDNESS, POISE, PERSEVERANCE
are trumps in business.
DESPAIR, DOUBT, DELAY
throw into the Discard.
THEN PLAY THE GAME TO WIN.
The game to play TO-DAY and ALWAYS you will find when you get started in CHOCOLATE and BON BON MAKING AT HOME.
Our pupils have secured big orders this week, and we have constant applications for Ton Lots. You can't make Ton Lots, but your little will help, and your little will bring YOU in an Income, which is what some of you want. EVEN YOUR SPARE TIME IS WORTH MONEY. First be sure and obtain the PROPER FORMULAS for making successful Chocolates and other ONCE Imported Sweets. We've been THE ONLY RECIPE BUYERS and sellers the WORLD ROUND these 20 years. We have sieved what we sell, and making Sweets from our Copyrights 300,786, is such A BEDROCK CERTAINTY that we permit you to COME AND MAKE CHOCOLATES, ETC., FREE, before we dream of asking you to buy the formulas. Speaking from our EXPERIENCE, your next and only requisite for success is ENTHUSIASM. Your first week's profits will ENTHUSE YOU, and after that, if you will look upon conducting your business at home as a GREAT GAME, you will CREATE within yourselves a strong desire to HOLD A WINNING HAND.
Do not do this through fear of failure, or that will weaken you, but rather FOR THE REWARDS OF SUCCESS. We say REWARDS, for there are two of them. One is a FINANCIAL REWARD, and the other is the PLEASURE you will receive from playing a most INTERESTING GAME with all your might, with CHEERFULNESS in your heart and LAUGHTER in your face. LET US START YOU ON A CONCRETE FOUNDATION. HALF ONE DAY ONLY WILL DO IT. This will interest you, and excite the brains God has given you beyond your belief, and as BRAINS TO A BUSINESS are what STEAM IS TO AN ENGINE ENTHUSIASM must result,
AND YOU'LL NEVER LOOK BACK.
The very FIRST GLIMPSE of our DISPLAY sends a THRILL THROUGH YOUR VEINS, causing a slight friction of AMBITION and ENTHUSIASM, which bursts forth in expressions too numerous to mention. We are asking you to see NO ORDINARY DISPLAY. Take our first free course. COME AND SEE THEM. We use NO INFLUENCE WHATEVER. Return home, and if those little sparks you felt in our showrooms don't return to you before you retire you have NO enthusiasm. Leave Sweetmaking alone.

NO PAIN NOW WITH FILLINGS OR EXTRACTIONS.
Make a resolution to give the proper care to your teeth. It's an insurance against poor health. My methods have absolutely banished pain so there need now be no fear about visiting the dentist. I can drill the most sensitive tooth without you feeling a twinge. Those who think the old method of Drilling teeth was nothing less than torture, in many cases it not only caused the patient extreme pain, but made it impossible for the dentist to do the work properly. I have accomplished painless fillings by means of a wonderful apparatus, which is exclusively mine. There is not the slightest sensation of pain, and there are no after-effects.
MY SPECIAL METHOD OF PAINLESS EXTRACTIONS.
During my nineteen years in the dental profession I have perfected a special method for extracting teeth entirely without pain, and without causing harmful effect to any patient. Even abscessed teeth (which some dentists refuse to tackle) I will extract without you feeling a twinge. I will forfeit £5 if you should feel any pain. No matter when you come here you will always find me ready to give you the benefit of expert dental knowledge, most approved methods, and very moderate charges.
Open till 6 p.m. daily (Sats. included), until 9 p.m. Fridays. Half-holiday Wed.
